CAPT. HARRISON TELLS VICTIM'S MURDER STORY

Reviews Testimony of Drake Waiter.

(Mrs. Frank Starr Williams, vivacious, wealthy wife of a state department attache, is fatally shot on Jan. 19 in her Drake hotel room. Her daughter, Mrs. Patricia Goodbody, also is fired upon, but escapes harm. The assassin, a "woman in black," darts out of the room, runs down the hall. She is seen by Stanley A. Cook, a Chicago business man. Cook's business associate, Clyde P. Brewster, catches a glimpse of the woman. Another man, Walter Shawke, a Drake waiter, also was soon on the scene. Yesterday Capt. Harrison reviewed the stories of Cook and Brewster. Today Capt. Harrison resumes his report on the "Drake Murder Case.")

Yesterday I quoted and analyzed the testimony of Stanley A. Cook, a Chicago business man, who was one of the first persons in the corridor on the eighth floor of the Drake hotel after Mrs. Adele Born Williams had been mortally wounded by "a woman in black" in room 836. The other man among the first to reach the murder room was Walter Shawke, a room service waiter. Of all of those who came upon the scene, he alone did what any trained detective should have done. He took the dying woman's statement.

Who first reached room 836 after the murder, Shawke or Cook? Each one thinks he was the first to reach the victim's daughter, Mrs. Patricia Goodbody. Shawke, at approximately 6:30 p. m. Jan. 19, was carrying a dinner order to room 878, far down the east end of the eighth floor hall. He opened the service entrance door intc the hall. He heard "a woman crying" and saw her "waving her hands." It was Mrs. Goodbody. Shawke estimates he was 50 feet from her at the time.

Gives Statement to Police.

Shawke set his table down and hurried to Mrs. Goodbody's side. In his formal statement to police, made at 10:08 o'clock that same night, Shawke related what he saw, did, and heard.

"The woman said, 'Down there,'" he stated, "and she said, 'Go in and help.' I went in there, and I saw a woman with a hole in her forehead. So I did not touch anything, I just went directly to the telephone, and I called up the operator below, and told her to call the police and the doctor."

It so happens, and this has not been officially divulged before, that Shawke was the first person that night of the slaying to telephone an alarm. His call was made at 6:30 p. m. Heretofore, it has been assumed that Clyde P. Brewster, who was staying in room 843, gave the first alarm. Cook told me that he was sure Brewster gave the first report of the shooting to the hotel desk. The hotel has a record of Brewster's call, and records it as made after Shawke's.

First to Enter Room.

When Chicago av. police questioned Shawke on the night of Jan. 19 he was asked:

"You were the first one in there,

Army Orders Huge Slash in Plane Output

Washington, D. C., Aug. 10 (AP).—A sweeping reduction in production of aircraft, affecting Liberator bombers, Commando transports, and Thunderbolt fighters, was ordered by the war department tonight to clear the way for the huge new B-29 and B-32 super bombers and to release workers for more critical jobs.

Twenty thousand workers will be affected immediately and an estimated 100,000 more will be laid off by the end of this year, said the announcement released by the office of war information.

The Higgins industries of New Orleans, which lost their Liberty ship contract in 1942 before a ship was built, was cut entirely from production of the C-46 Commando transport before a plane was completed. Higgins' subcontract work on planes will continue, and about half the 6,300 workers may be retained.

Three Cities Affected.

Cutbacks after the first of the year will take place in Commando plane production at Buffalo, St. Louis, and Louisville, Ky., but until that time, expanding schedules are to be met.

Inability of the German air force to inflict as heavy losses as had been expected account for the cut in transport planes, officials said, and the growing emphasis on the Pacific war was seen behind the shift from Liberators to the B-29 Super Fortresses, and its big running mate, the B-32, by Consolidated.

Liberator production by North American at Dallas, Tex., will be eliminated gradually.

Slash at Ford Plant.

Production of the Liberator will be reduced at Ford's great Willow Run plant and at the Consolidated-Vultee Aircraft corporation in San Diego.

The cut in Liberator bomber production at Willow Run and San Diego will be from 26 to 14 a day, the rate to depend upon the speed with which Consolidated can get into production of the B-32. Officials said Willow Run will drop from 14 planes a day—which is not its peak capacity—to eight bombers daily.

A reduction of presently unknown depth will be made in the subcontract work for the P-47 Thunderbolt fighters done by Goodyear at Akron, Ohio, OWI said. It will be sufficient to "ease the man power situation in Akron."

Transfer to Dallas.

These accompanying shifts of subcontract work are planned:

1. Work will be transferred from southern California plants to Dallas to relieve the acute labor shortage in southern California and to provide jobs for the released Dallas workers.

2. Parts production from Akron will be shifted in part to Evansville, Ind., where the P-47 is being manufactured by Republic Aviation corporation.

The switch to Evansville is expected to release 1,400 skilled makers of heavy tires who are now working in Akron aircraft plants. It was expected that their return to tire companies would ease the criti-

An all-time Chicago weather record that had been in the books for 57 years was smashed yesterday by the hottest Aug. 10 ever recorded—99 degrees at 5:45 p. m. The previous high temperature for the date was 97.7 degrees in 1887.

The old record was equalled at 2:30 p. m. yesterday, when the Chicago Airport observatory recorded a reading of 97.7 degrees. Surprising the observers, the mercury climbed erratically until it reached its highest point. The hottest day this year was June 27, when 100 degrees was recorded.

Slight Relief Due Sunday.

Forecaster H. A. Downs said the heat wave, which started Wednesday with 96 degrees, probably will bring a high of 100 today and will continue thru tomorrow. Sunday the temperature may stop at 85.

High temperatures were general thruout the United States. Blythe, Cal., on the Arizona line, with 107, was the hottest spot in the country.

O. T. Lay, meteorologist in the Chicago weather bureau office, said yesterday was the 28th day this summer on which the temperature was 90 or higher. The normal number of 90 or hotter days is 11.

High in Loop Is 96.9.

In the loop, where temperatures usually are a degree or two cooler than at the airport, the high yesterday was 96.9. Only 15 days of 90 or more have been recorded downtown this year.

Near north side residents who sought relief in Lincoln park last night were chased out at 11 p. m. by park police under Capt. Cornelius Cooney. Capt. Cooney said he ordered enforcement of an old ordinance, which directs closing of parks at that hour, in an effort to reduce the number of personal property thefts.

7,247 U. S. CASUALTIES IN GUAM RECONQUEST; FIND 10,971 JAP DEAD

U. S. PACIFIC FLEET HDQ., Pearl Harbor, Aug. 10 (AP).—The reconquest of Guam cost 7,247 American casualties, of whom 1,214 were killed in action, Adm. Chester W. Nimitz announced today. Nimitz said 5,704 Americans were wounded and 329 missing.

Nimitz said 10,971 Japanese dead have been counted on Guam. This brings to 37,551 the total Nipponese killed in ground fighting during the Marianas Islands campaign.

Earlier Nimitz announced that the last organized resistance on Guam was wiped out yesterday.

ABOARD ADM. TURNER'S FLAGSHIP IN THE MARIANAS, Aug. 11 [Friday]—(AP).—[Via navy radio].—Vice Adm. Richmond Kelly Turner announced today he has established headquarters for his amphibious Pacific fleet at Saipan Island—an advance of more than 3,000 miles from Pearl Harbor—and said it will be maintained there until "I can move farther forward." Turner disclosed that headquarters are under construction both for his force and for the commander of Pacific amphibious troops, bringing tactical direction of the trans-Pacific offensive less than 1,500 miles from Japan.

HEAR ROOSEVELT BIDS WILLKIE TO CONFER WITH HIM

New York, Aug. 10 [Special].—Just before President Roosevelt left on his current trip he invited Wendell Willkie, in a letter in which he addressed the partyless politician as "Dear Wendell," to confer with him on his return concerning American foreign policies, it was reported today by persons who said they had seen the communication.

These sources said the letter, dated July 13 at Washington, was dictated by Mr. Roosevelt but was not signed by him because he was then about to depart on his western trip.

Since the President's plans for returning to Washington were indefinite at the time, it was said, the letter did not fix a time or place for the conference but left that for arrangement when Mr. Roosevelt returns.

When Willkie was asked today to confirm receipt of such a note he remarked tersely that he had "no comment."

Sombreros Are the Thing for Airmen, Town Finds

Portland, Ore., Aug. 10 (AP).—Reedsport may have to go hatless to its annual rodeo. A party of army flyers came thru town and spotted the fancy 10 gallon headgear in a merchant's window. When they left, they had all of the sombreros with them.

WPB Labors Long to Give Judge a Vest

Springfield, Ill., Aug. 10 [Special].—It was only a vest that Federal Judge Charles Briggle wanted, an ordinary, every day vest to wear under his courtroom robe next winter.

Judge Briggle.

But this odyssey thru the labyrinth of New Deal burocracy before he could get permission to make use of his own cloth developed into a spectacle of the American scene in war time.

The jurist's tailor had been engaged to make him a double-breasted suit from cloth the judge owned. The tailor, however, said he couldn't make the vest because the war production board banned them in such suits. The judge decided to appeal to higher jurisdiction.

WPB Gets Ponderous.

"My tailor advises me I will have to go without a vest this winter," he wrote WPB headquarters in Washington, D. C., "because of some restrictions imposed by your board." He concluded his letter with the plea: "Please may I have a vest?"

Forthwith the ponderous WPB machinery was set in motion. The case was referred to the appeal branch of the textile, clothing and leather bureau of the agency and from its chief, Lawrence J. Ewing, came a copy of the stern WPB order "L 224," which governs manufacture of vests with double breasted suits, and instructions to the federal jurist to "explain your need for a vest."

Pursuant to Paragraph F.

"My reason for requesting permission to have a vest made was purely on a common sense basis. I own the goods and have enough to make a vest. I thought this situation might appeal to one's ordinary common sense."

To this Mr. Ewing replied, in part: "Based on your representations and on the recommendations of the textile clothing and leather bureau and pursuant to paragraph F of order L 224, the provisions of the above specified paragraph are hereby relaxed to the extent required to permit you to have a vest made from the material you own."

400 Buildings Flattened by Cyclone in Canada

KAMSACK, Sask., Aug. 10 [Canadian Press].—A cyclone flattened this town's 400 buildings in a two minute blast last night. One person was killed, two were missing, and 37 were injured. Damage was estimated at close to $1,000,000. Other prairie towns in Saskatchewan and Manitoba were hit less severely.

Blast Davao Bases; B-29s Rip Nagasaki

MacArthur Strikes

GENERAL HDQ., SOUTHWEST PACIFIC, Aug. 11 [Friday]—(AP).—American Liberator bombers, raiding the Philippines for the first time in 27 months, smashed Japanese airdromes at Davao with three successive night attacks, Gen. MacArthur's headquarters announced today.

Lt. Grant Jensen of Kenosha, Wis., was the first American flyer to bomb Davao, arriving over the Mindanao capital Sunday night.

The last of the three assaults was during Tuesday night and Wednesday morning. Results were not announced.

[A BBC broadcast stated that all the Liberators participating in the raids for the last three nights returned safely altho they were without fighter escort.]

Davao, principal city on Mindanao, main southern island in the archipelago, was occupied by the Japanese in late December 1941.

The last American raid on the Philippines was an attack on Clark field, some 70 miles northward of Manila, April 15, 1942. The formation was led by Brig. Gen. Ralph Royce from Australia.

900 Miles from New Fields.

Bataan had capitulated six days earlier, but Corregidor still was holding out.

Mindanao is within bombing range of newly acquired American air fields in the Schouten Islands, off Dutch New Guinea, approximately 900 miles southwest. The newest American beachhead at Sansapor, at the top of New Guinea, is slightly over 600 miles southeast of Mindanao.

Today's disclosure told of the first assault against land objectives in the lost islands since Royce's raid.

Driniumor Battle Ends.

Enemy resistance in the Driniumor river battlefront of British New Guinea has ceased, it was announced. "Remnants of the enemy's demoralized forces which escaped our encircling movements are fleeing south towards the Torricelli mountains.

Smash at Sumatra

A SECRET NEW SUPER FORTRESS BASE NEAR EQUATOR, Aug. 11 [Friday]—(AP).—In a widespread double header raid against Japanese war industry American B-29 Super Fortresses today struck at Nagasaki, in the Japanese homeland Kyushu Islands, and at Palembang, on the Island of Sumatra.

China based B-29s of the United States 20th bomber command rained incendiaries on Nagasaki in the first fire bomb raid on Japan.

At the same time other Super Fortresses flew from their new secret base in the longest bombing mission of the war—3,600 miles round trip—to throw high explosives at the finest petroleum target in the Japanese empire, Palembang.

The first report from the returning raiders indicated the strikes on both Palembang and Nagasaki were successful. Both raids were at night.

"Large Fires Observed."

Crews from the planes that raided Palembang radioed that "large fires were observed" on the target, with towering flames masking the entire storage tank and refinery area.

The Palembang petroleum installations include the Pladjoe refinery, largest in Japan's possession. The bombed refinery produced 78 per cent aviation fuel and 22 per cent fuel oil.

Reports from the Nagasaki raiders said large fires started in the shipyards spread rapidly to other sections of the flimsy wood and paper metropolis.

Japs Admit Attack.

New York, Aug. 10 (AP).—The Tokyo radio tonight acknowledged the American B-29 Super Fortress raid on the Japanese homeland during the day.

A broadcast imperial war bulletin recorded here said 20 of the big planes from China bases attacked in several formations over Kyushu Island and other Japanese areas.

Yank Lives Like Hunted Prey 31 Months on Guam; Escapes

U. S. PACIFIC FLEET HDQ., Pearl Harbor, July 15 [Delayed]—(AP).—An American navy man who dodged the Japanese conquerors of Guam for 31 months and lived on the island all that time like a hunted animal was rescued by a United States warship within range of Japanese guns July 10, ten days before the landings which restored that possession to America.

George Ray Tweed.

He is George Ray Tweed, 42, a radioman from Portland, Ore., who fled Agana town in an automobile with a buddy after the Japanese came ashore Dec. 10, 1941.

After the rescue he was moved to Saipan and from there by plane to Pearl Harbor, where he was interviewed while awaiting air transportation to California.

Hunted by 50 Japs.

Tweed said the Japanese decreed that all Americans who surrendered within 30 days after their occupation of the island be taken to Japan and that holdouts thereafter would be killed. A lot of Americans gave up, he said.

But Tweed and his buddy sped to a remote part of the island. His companion was killed and Tweed was left on his own. Fifty Japanese were detailed to search for him. He holed up in a cave high on the face of a steep cliff, caught rain water for drinking and washing and made night forays for food.

"The Japanese were frantically hunting me," Tweed said. "They knew I was a radio material man and were afraid I would build a transmitter to communicate with the Americans. They offered a reward for my capture.

"Several times they learned where I was hiding but each time I managed to escape, once by less than a minute.

Gave Up Hope.

"Finally the Japanese officially pronounced me dead in April, 1944. There had been only navy men on Guam until March, then army men came. The navy was afraid the army might find me, so officially pronounced me dead to save face."

Tweed said he prayed with increasing frequency on Guam but "gave up hope after the first year." He felt that sooner or later he would be caught.

Never Lost Hope

San Diego, Cal., Aug. 10 (AP).—Mrs. George R. Tweed, 27, reunited with her husband who evaded Japanese on Guam for 31 months before his rescue by Americans, said tonight she had never given up hope that he would return to her. Her hero husband arrived here from Saipan last month.

"I was so excited I didn't speak," Mrs. Tweed said. "He had been listed by the navy as missing, and another organization told me he was dead. But I knew he would return."

[Mrs. W. H. Sudderth, mother-in-law of Tweed, said in Santa Paula, Cal., he "was so gray haired" on his return she did not recognize him when he appeared at her home two weeks ago.]

SECOND FORCE THREATENS TO FLANK CAPITAL

Another Believed Striking at Tours.

BY E. R. NODERER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SUPREME HDQS., ALLIED EXPEDITIONARY FORCE, Aug. 11 [Friday].—American tanks were closing this morning on Chartres, at the edge of the last 50 mile belt of defenses guarding Paris.

A second American armored force was reported at Chateaudun, 22 miles southwest of Chartres and 70 miles southwest of Paris, and apparently was headed for the vicinity of Orleans in a movement aimed at flanking Paris from the south.

Lt. Gen. Omar N. Bradley's columns were racing east under conditions of secrecy such as covered their drive into Le Mans. In their dash into the Chartres and Chateaudun areas they apparently had advanced 60 miles from their last officially reported positions.

Tours Believed Menaced.

Another American column was believed pushing south toward Tours, 48 miles southeast of Le Mans, on the Loire river.

It was announced that American infantry had reached Nantes, France's sixth port, on the Loire river, and Angers, between Nantes and Tours, but that dense mine fields were delaying full occupation of the cities.

The size of the American columns driving into the Paris region was not disclosed. Their presence, however, apparently constitutes a serious threat to the entire German armies in the north. These, with the Seine at their backs and with allied forces pounding their front, now have the added threat of columns deep behind their left flank.

First army headquarters announced that American troops gained up to a mile and a half in an attack on the central front, between Vire and Mortain.

Yanks Mop Up St. Malo.

Doughboys were mopping up at St. Malo, north Brittany port; bitter fighting was reported at Brest, and American forces were reported converging on Lorient. There was no news of American progress at St. Nazaire.

The entrance of a fourth army corps into the fighting in France was announced by supreme headquarters. It is the 8th, under command of Maj. Gen. Troy H. Middleton. The 5th, 7th, and 19th previously had been announced as in action.

In the center of the allied line the Canadians have broken the German counter-attack and have launched a drive on the defenses of Falaise, 115 miles from Paris.

In the north, British troops have advanced two miles along the Caen-Lisieux road to Vimont, 110 miles from the French capital.

Battle Inside Vimont.

The British were fighting desperately in the streets of Vimont with German troops who were seeking to regain control of this town, which covers an important network of roads.

The most desperate fighting in Normandy now centers in two bulges, south and southeast of Caen, and the Germans are reported to be falling back in both of them.

In the first bulge created by the Canadian attacks toward Falaise and Vimont the advance has been checked slightly.

In the second bulge, created by the Germans north and east of the Orne bridgehead, there are signs that the Germans are withdrawing. This salient has narrowed considerably as a result of the British 2d army's push, which has carried it 4,000 yards from the banks of the river on a wide front, the southernmost end of which has now reached Croisilles, a mile from Thury-Harcourt.

Two Forces Hit at Junction.

The allies are making two steady advances toward the road junction at Conde-sur-Noireau. One is progressing southward from the foothills of Mont Pincon, where British troops have fought their way into Crapouville, five miles from Conde. The other is nine miles to the west, on the road to Vire. Roullours, 1,000 yards south of the road, is in allied hands.

While the British and Canadian moves were individually unspectacular, they are seen as part of a plan to thrust the Germans south and southeast, giving them no rest and clearing new stretches of road to ease lateral movements behind the allied line.

Nazis Resist Grimly.

Remnants of German forces that had been driving on Avranches were still holding on. Some of the grimmest fighting of the day went on south of Vire and around Mortain. The German situation was regarded as growing more desperate hourly as allied columns narrowed their channel of escape to the east.

There were signs that the enemy might be forced to seek a decision by a desperate battle somewhere in central Normandy.

Considerable forces of Germans still are on the approximate line of Falaise - Conde - Vire - Mortain. They are in a precarious position with the Americans pushing toward Chartres. Nevertheless, the Germans seem unwilling to detach any significant force to delay the American advance across the south of the front.

The Germans still seem to be fiercely intent upon blocking the progress of the Canadian and British troops in their drive toward Falaise and Conde. The allied forces are now 5 to 7 miles from each of these places.

GERMAN WAR REPORT.

The German war bulletin broadcast yesterday by Berlin:

"South of Caen, the enemy continued his strong attacks and enlarged his penetration area south and southeastward. Our counterattacks, however, checked the enemy forces and brought them to a standstill. The enemy lost 278 tanks south of Caen and west of the Orne from Aug. 7 to 9.

"In the remaining front sectors, too, the enemy continued his strong attacks. At former focal points, however, he succeeded in gaining ground only south of Le Plesses and south of Vire.

"Heavy fighting continues in Brittany. American attacks supported by tanks were beaten off in the fighting zones of St. Nazaire, Lorient, and Brest with numerous enemy tanks knocked out.

"A large enemy destroyer was damaged by a bomb hit in waters west of Brest."

ROBOTS DUMPING FIRE BOMBS ON LONDON; LULL IN RAIDS BROKEN

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Aug. 10. — The ministry of home security today announced that some flying bombs recently carried about 20 incendiaries, which were scattered by the force of the explosion. However, it said existing civil defense arrangements could cope with the fire bombs.

After a 21 hour lull, flying bomb attacks were resumed against London and southern England. Damage and casualties were reported.

Meanwhile throngs of visitors from northern districts were reported packing trains to London daily to see and hear what the flying bombs are like. Londoners, however, still are swarming away and 3,000 evacuees left today.

REPORT POLES PICK NEW 'HEIR' TO PRESIDENCY

New York, Aug. 10 (AP).—A leader of the Polish underground has succeeded Gen. Kazimierz Sosnkowski, commander in chief of Poland's armed forces, as "successor to the president" in the exiled regime in London, the Polish telegraph agency said today. President Wladyslaw Raczkiewicz accepted the resignation of Sosnkowski, who has been called anti-soviet by the Moscow press, as president-designate and named Tomasz Arciszewski for the role. Arciszewski was identified by the telegraph agency as a leader of the Polish Socialist party. He would take over the presidency automatically if it were vacated for any reason. This procedure is outlined in the Polish constitution.

HEAR PRESIDENT PROMISES TO GIVE WALLACE A JOB

Washington, D. C., Aug. 10 [Special].—President Roosevelt recently reassured Vice President Wallace that he wants him to have an important place in the government if the Roosevelt administration is returned to office in November, it was learned today.

Mr. Roosevelt is said to have sent a message to Wallace congratulating him on his fight for the Democratic Vice Presidential nomination and telling him that so long as the present administration remained in office an important post would be open to him.

NAZIS' OIL BASES NEAR PARIS, AT PLOESTI BLASTED

LONDON, Aug. 10 (AP).—Fleets of American heavy bombers from England and Italy today struck at fuel and transport facilities around Paris and the great Romanian oil center of Ploesti.

Tonight R. A. F. bombers raided Berlin, oil storage depots at Bordeaux and La Pallice, and a railway junction at Dijon, the British announced.

Upwards of 500 Flying Fortresses and Liberators started fires at the refineries, tank cars, and derricks 35 miles north of Bucharest. Some installations 19 miles northwest of Ploesti also were bombed.

In another strike against Nazi oil supplies, British heavy bombers attacked a fuel storage depot just outside Paris at Sugny, adjoining the Le Bourget air field.

SOLDIER ON DUTY IN PHILADELPHIA STRIKE IS KILLED

Philadelphia, Pa., Aug. 10 (AP).—One of the soldiers assigned to duty in the Philadelphia transit strike was killed today by an accidental gunshot.

An army spokesman said the soldier was "accidentally killed by a gunshot wound at the bivouac area in Fairmount park. His tentmate was cleaning his gun when it was accidentally fired. No names can be given out until next of kin have been notified."

BRITISH PLANES MINE NAZI CANAL IN DARING ATTACK FROM 80 FEET

LONDON, Aug. 10 (AP).—In one of the most daring blows at Nazi inland water transport, R. A. F. Mosquito bombers drove thru bristling defenses to mine the Dortmund-Ems canal in eastern Germany last night, from as low as 80 feet.

Blasting a path for the bombers thru heavy anti-aircraft guns, searchlights, balloon barrages and German air fields, a special squadron of Mosquito fighters accompanied the mission. The fighters silenced the ground guns by the time the mine layers arrived. Then the bombers took plenty of time to swoop low and lay the explosives.

The Dortmund-Ems canal is one of the most vital German waterways. It connects the Ruhr with the River Ems, which flows into the sea at Emden. The raid recalled a minelaying mission by Mosquitos against parts of the Kiel canal, June 5, which closed that waterway for a week.

NAVY TELLS HOW IVES MET DEATH IN NAZI AMBUSH

LONDON, Aug. 10 (AP).—Capt. Norman S. Ives, United States director of the port of Cherbourg, and other officers and enlisted men were killed recently in a German ambush near Granville while they were en route to St. Malo. The navy disclosed today the details of Ives' death, which was announced in Washington yesterday.

The 47 year old port commandant, a native of Galesburg, Ill., was on his way in a convoy of 14 motor vehicles to study damage to the waterfront installations at St. Malo, across the bay of Mont St. Michel from Granville, when a greatly superior force of Germans struck. American troops previously had speared thru the area.

Survivors reported that the convoy was halted by a ruse and a three hour fight ensued in which Ives and others were shot to death.

Nazis Hint Patton Leads Ten Motorized Divisions

LONDON, Aug. 11 [Friday]—(AP).—The Nazi news agency Transocean said today that "command of the 3d American army [in France] seems to be in the hands of [Lt. Gen. George S.] Patton, exponent of mobile warfare," and that "10 motorized divisions are operating in the coastal regions of Brittany" under him.

'LAST MAN FIGHT' AT ST. MALO DIES WITH HANDS HIGH

Nazis Give Up to Yanks Mopping Up.

BY ROBERT CROMIE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WITH THE AMERICAN FORCES IN BRITTANY, Aug. 9 [Delayed].—The job of mopping up St. Malo, and reducing a couple of stubborn fortifications was going on today, following the fall of this Brittany coastal strongpoint yesterday. Hundreds more Germans, not heeding their commanders' order to fight to the last man, came out with their hands in the air.

The battle for St. Malo peninsula began a week ago and more than 3,000 prisoners have been taken.

The German garrison commander, Col. Von Auloch, who was reported fanatically determined to hold out, either is directing the remnants of the defenders from the fortress at the lower edge of the town or, as a couple of prisoners have said, has killed himself. Von Auloch is said to have suffered delusions after receiving a head wound at Stalingrad.

Yanks Fair, He Writes.

An American officer exhibited a copy of a note in which Von Auloch refused to surrender yesterday soon after the Yanks reached the city. Here it is:

"1.—I thank you very much that you are fighting fairly.

"2.—Even tho the Americans would fight on the Rhine river we Germans shall continue fighting because a capitulation is not compatible with the honor of a German soldier."

Von Auloch, under the same flag of truce that was used in communicating with him, returned a dozen American soldiers on condition that they should not be used in the St. Malo fighting.

Island Guns Still Fire.

Gunman defenders of some positions northeast of St. Malo are still fighting and Nazis on islands in the bay north of the town are firing heavy artillery.

The battle of St. Malo, which was one of the fiercest since D day, may be the last full scale fight in the Brittany peninsula. It included bayonet charges by American troops and other hand to hand combat, such as grenade throwing at close range.

But many of those defending it were Russians, Poles, Italians, and even a few Spaniards, most of them former prisoners whom the Germans transformed from labor troops into front line soldiers. One prisoner taken today was a Russian lieutenant colonel who is said to have been slated to go to trial this day because his battalion failed to put up a good fight.

Advance Surprises Captives.

We talked thru an interpreter today to four German prisoners—real Germans—who volunteered to speak to us. One 48 year old nurse said they had not realized how deep into France the Americans had pushed and asked, "Have you taken Avranches yet?" That town fell many days ago.

A German engineer, about 50, said he knew it was impossible for the Germans to win because "you have more people than we and fewer fronts."

No one has had time to pay any attention to dead Nazis, but in a courtyard we saw the body of an American soldier. He had been covered with a blanket on which the French had heaped flowers.

One Shot, One Hit.

An extraordinary artillery hit was scored at St. Malo shortly before we arrived. The crew of a 57 millimeter anti-tank gun spotted a German gun hidden in an emplacement half a mile or so across an arm of the bay. It scored a direct hit on the gun's barrel with the first shot.

The gun crew was commanded by 1st Lt. George Jackson, Eagle River, Wis., and included Pvt. Alex Orr, 4721 Princeton av., Chicago, and Staff Sgt. Paul Rowing, Indianapolis, Ind.

Lt. Marshall Wright of Hammond, Ind., commanded a machine gun unit that covered a bayonet charge up a 300 foot slope. The final score: One American killed, 29 Germans killed and 67 captured.

Among Chicagoans attached to the force that took St. Malo are Sgt. Marvin White, 725 N. Central av.; Sgt. Jerry Mateo, 1435 Laramie av.; Sgt. John F. Bishop, 1652 North av.; Sgt. Paul Ramos, 5418 Congress st.; Corp. George Harles, 2236 Berwyn av., and Chaplain Jacob Ott, 3546 Montrose av., formerly of the Albany Park synagogue.

U. S. NAVY LOSES TWO CRAFT IN EUROPE'S SEAS

Washington, D. C., Aug. 10 (AP).—Loss of two American naval vessels in European waters was announced by the navy today. They were the minesweeper Osprey and the submarine chaser PC 1261, which was built at Sturgeon Bay, Wis.

The Osprey, commanded by Lt. Charles H. Swimm, carried a crew of about 60, and the sub chaser, under command of Lt. Comdr. R. F. Sewell, Jr., was manned by about 30. The commanders survived. No other details were disclosed.

The losses brought to 133 the number of American naval craft lost in the war. In addition 32 have been listed as overdue and presumed lost, and nine were destroyed to prevent capture.

It's the Flu, Not Poison, That's Killing London Cats

MACARTHUR AND PRESIDENT PLAN DRIVES IN PACIFIC

Roosevelt Conferences at Hawaii Bared.

HONOLULU, T. H., July 29 [Delayed]—(AP).—President Roosevelt and top-flight American commanders in the Pacific, including Gen. MacArthur, have mapped plans for smashing the Japanese into unconditional surrender at an historic three day strategy conference here under the palms of Waikiki beach.

It was the President's first war time conference with the Southwest Pacific commander, whom he greeted with a cordial: "It's good to see you, Doug," and together they went over every phase of the far-flung offensive in the west.

Adm. Chester W. Nimitz, Pacific fleet commander, and other top ranking officers took part in the discussions, which ended today, and a series of inspection trips that took Mr. Roosevelt to many parts of this fortress island.

Halsey Also at Parleys.

Among the many high officers were Adm. William F. Halsey, commander of the 3d fleet; Lt. Gen. Robert C. Richardson Jr., Central Pacific army commander; Lt. Gen. Millard F. Harmon, who directed army operations in the Solomons; Vice Adm. Charles A. Lockwood, commander of submarine operations in the Pacific, and Rear Adm. Charles A. Pownall, commander of the Pacific fleet air arm.

The President arrived three days ago, on July 26, aboard a new super cruiser. He left the marine base at San Diego, Cal., amid the utmost secrecy, shortly after his radio speech of July 20 accepting his fourth term nomination.

Physician Goes Along.

Accompanying the President to Hawaii were his White House military aides, Adm. William D. Leahy and Maj. Gen. Edwin M. Watson; his personal physician, Rear Adm. Ross T. McIntire, surgeon general of the navy, and Samuel I. Rosenman, his special counsel and close advisor.

At a news conference today Mr. Roosevelt said he had received a nice telegram from his Vice Presidential running mate, Sen. Truman of Missouri, but declared he was too far away from politics to discuss the campaign.

Plans Report to Nation.

He said he will report to the nation later on his trip to the Pacific, which brought him into Pearl Harbor 10 years to the day from the time of his last visit.

Hailing the tremendous amount of defense work done since the Japanese blasted Pearl Harbor into flaming wreckage two and one-half years ago, Mr. Roosevelt said it was the "most amazing change" he ever had seen.

After talking with Adm. Nimitz and Gen. MacArthur, who wore a leather field jacket when he went aboard the President's ship, Mr. Roosevelt restated America's Pacific war aims: To liberate the Philippines and to force Japan into unconditional surrender.

M'Arthur Going Back to Philippines.

We are going back to the Philippines, Mr. Roosevelt said, and MacArthur is going to be a part of the operation. You can't say, he added, with a smile, whether the general is going back directly or by way of North Africa—but he is going back and we are going to give the islands their freedom.

The President said new offensives will develop soon, but pointed out that soon is a relative term and that strategy is a constantly shifting thing.

One inspection trip took Mr. Roosevelt into a jungle mountain training area where combat units receive their final week's instruction before going into the real thing. Asked why American fighters are better than the Japs at their own specialty—jungle and atoll fighting—the President replied:

"Perhaps it sounds a little like boasting, but perhaps it is the difference between our type of civilization and our type of fellow and their type of civilization and their type of fellow.

Escorted by Jeeps.

"We'll take them on at any game—war or pleasure—and we'll beat them at it."

Sea-tanned and smiling, the President rode about in an open touring car, escorted by jeeps. Despite the secrecy surrounding his visit the streets were lined by rows of islanders and service men.

Several times he stopped to speak briefly to the men who stood at attention on either side of his car.

On his first day here he reviewed the battle tried 7th division of Attu and Kwajalein fame, commanded by Maj. Gen. Archibald V. Arnold.

To the members of this division Mr. Roosevelt said:

"Your commander in chief brings you greetings from your own families, your own homes, to you here at this spot which, thank God, is still a part of the United States. We are all proud of the 7th."

Hails Seabees, Sailors.

To the Seabees he said: "The Seabees have come forward as an institution more quickly than any one I know of in the whole of our history, and all of us back home and out at the front are mighty proud of you."

To the fleet marine force: "I am glad to have this chance to see another bunch of marines. I am very, very proud of you."

To the submarine rest center at the Royal Hawaiian hotel: "I was here 10 years ago—lived right here in these quarters, on the top floor. I hope you will be just as comfortable and happy here as I was because you deserve it a lot more."

Greets Wounded Warriors.

Today the President's car happened to be at Hickam field when a huge air transport command ambulance plane arrived with wounded from Saipan. Mr. Roosevelt and his party watched the transfer of the 32 bandaged men to ambulances. Three litters were carried close to his car and he reached out to shake hands with the astonished veterans. He also visited the big navy hospital at Aeia and the army's 147th general hospital, where most of the patients are recovering from wounds received at Saipan or in the Marshalls.

Hawaii Now a 'Rear Area.'

In a speech at the Officers' club, Schofield barracks, Mr. Roosevelt said Hawaii, thru war developments, has ceased to be a United States outpost and has become, instead, "one of our rear areas."

On his tour of navy yards, army posts, ammunition dumps, supply bases, and airports, the President saw many planes and tanks that bore the scars and trophies of battle—rows of little Jap flags denoting victories in combat.

President's Dog Goes to Hawaii; Stays on Ship

HONOLULU, T. H., July 29 [Delayed]—(AP).—Fala came 2,000 miles aboard the Presidential cruiser to Hawaii, but he got only a glimpse of fabled Waikiki from the deck. Quarantine laws confining canines were not relaxed even for Fala, and President Roosevelt asked no special favors for his Scottie. So Fala lolled aboard while a Presidential aide kept a close check on the Scottie's welfare with daily telephone calls to the warship.

ROOSEVELT'S 3 BUSY DAYS OF VISITING AT SAN DIEGO REVEALED

His special train arrived the morning of July 19. The President's first stop was at the transbay Coronado home of his daughter-in-law, Mrs. John Roosevelt, whose husband, a navy lieutenant, is on sea duty. That evening he had dinner at the Coronado home of Rear Adm. Ralph O. Davis, commander of the Pacific amphibious command.

The next morning—the day of his acceptance speech — the President was driven to Camp Pendleton, the nation's largest marine establishment, to witness a full scale amphibious landing by a marine division. Returning to his train, the President rested prior to his speech.

On July 21 he made a last minute decision to visit the naval hospital where he called on Lt. Col. Evans Carlson, famed marine raider commander. He was accompanied by his son, Marine Col. James Roosevelt. Then he went to Coronado to say farewell to Mrs. John Roosevelt and her children, and visited the amphibious training base. That night the President left aboard the cruiser.

REFUND 125,000 ON INCOME TAX BILLS IN DISTRICT

Income tax refund checks have been mailed to 125,000 individuals in 17 northern Illinois counties since March 15 by the Chicago office of the internal revenue department, Nigel Campbell, chief of the district, said yesterday.

The refunds are being processed alphabetically and the Chicago office has begun mailing "G" checks, Campbell said. Some taxpayers in the A to F classification also are still receiving refunds, he said.

All refunds will be paid within three months, he said. They are processed in the New York office of the revenue department but the checks for northern Illinois are mailed from the Chicago office.

Joliet Council Rejects Union Policemen's Plea

The Joliet city council yesterday rejected a proposal from an AFL union of Joliet policemen that it instruct Chief Ernest E. Overbey to confer with the union's grievance committee in departmental administration affairs. Mayor Arthur O. Janke told Raymond E. Shea, secretary of the Will County Central Trades and Labor council, who appeared in behalf of the policemen, that the union will not be recognized in the administration of the department. The union claims 38 members among Joliet's 52 policemen.

CALLS F. D. R. TRIP ALIBI TO PARADE AS ARMY CHIEF

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 10.—Rep. Shafer [R., Mich.] charged today that President Roosevelt finally has recognized Gen. MacArthur and the war in the Pacific because, with Germany collapsing, he needs a war somewhere to bolster his commander in chief status.

Commenting on the disclosure that Mr. Roosevelt conferred for three days at Pearl Harbor with Gen. MacArthur, Adm. Nimitz and other top strategists of the Pacific theater, Shafer asserted it was the first time since the Jap sneak attack that MacArthur had been called into conference with the President.

"For nearly three years MacArthur begged for the machines of war necessary to drive the Japs back into their own islands," Shafer charged. "He called for aid in those bitter days when his little force was being overpowered on Bataan, but no one paid him heed; it was the same story repeated again and again when he held the line in Australia with inadequate forces and insufficient planes.

"But now, apparently, when Mr. Roosevelt needs a new excuse for parading as the great military strategist, he has finally been discovered."

Shafer recalled that MacArthur was strangely not invited to the Cairo conference last winter when Mr. Roosevelt, Prime Minister Churchill, and Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek planned the destruction of Japan.

RED CONTROLED ALP NAMES F.D.R. FOR PRESIDENT

New York, Aug. 10 [Special].—The Communist controled American Labor party nominated President Roosevelt for reëlection tonight at a convention that rang with fourth term predictions by Sidney Hillman, head of the CIO's campaign to maintain Roosevelt in power, and his rostrum mates, Secretary of the Interior Ickes, and Sen. Wagner [D., N. Y.].

Hillman, who emerged as a king maker among New Dealers at the Chicago Democratic convention thru his ability to perform for the Democratic national committee acts from which a political party is barred, was particularly vitriolic in his attacks on Republicans as was Ickes.

The chieftain of the CIO's political action committee especially assailed Werner Schroeder, the new vice chairman of the G. O. P. national committee, and James S. Kemper, the new chairman of the Republican finance committee. He described the latter as "the crony of Hoover, McCormick, and Sewell Avery."

Asks Big Vote.

Hillman, who also is state chairman of the American Labor party, predicted that New York state would occupy a crucial role in the November election. He called upon the delegates—there were about 1,500 delegates and guests present—to roll up the largest possible vote for progressive candidates in the ALP column.

During its eight years of existence the ALP has held the balance of power in numerous municipal and state elections. In 1940 it produced 400,000 votes for President Roosevelt to provide the margin by which he won New York state's 47 electoral votes.

Truman Also Indorsed.

Sec. Ickes declared that at the post-war peace conference "Franklin D. Roosevelt, who is leading us triumphantly thru a frightful Armageddon, will sit in America's seat of honor at the peace table, alongside of Churchill, Stalin, and Chiang Kai-shek."

Sen. Wagner declared that the "selfish interests" and the "spokesmen for reaction" had made the Republican party their organ.

The delegates, who met for a combined nominating convention and rally, also indorsed Sen. Truman [D., Mo.] as the party's candidate for Vice President, and Wagner for another term in the senate.

FORMER BOXER WON'T LET JAPS COUNT HIM OUT

'Missing in Action,' Flyer Escapes Foe Twice.

BY ARTHUR VEYSEY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ADVANCED SOUTHWEST PACIFIC AIR BASE, Aug. 9 [Delayed].—For the second time in a month the name of Lt. Leonard Duval, former boxer from Morgan City, La., who learned in the ring never to say quit, today was taken off the rolls of airmen missing in action and put back on the active list.

The first time he was shot down in the water and later rescued. This time, after crashing off the beach beyond Sarmi, New Guinea, he and the pilot, Lt. Kenneth Lindsey, Cherry Point, N. C., were captured by the Japs. The Japs killed Lindsey, but Duval escaped only to be recaptured two days later. Again he escaped and made his way thru the jungle to an American outpost.

Rides Pickaback.

Duval, who went to Sydney, Australia, for a month's leave after his first mishap, went on the second almost fatal mission as an observer, riding pickaback on the plane's catwalk to get the lay of the land in the area his outfit had been working over while he was on leave.

While strafing a beach west of Sarmi, the plane crashed in shallow water. The two enlisted men in the tail were killed. Lindsey had a possible broken back. Duval's head was gashed and his arms cut up.

Some Japs waded toward the plane.

Japs Blindfold Prisoners.

As the Japs neared, Duval climbed from the wreckage. With the Japs' help he lifted the pilot clear. The Japs carried him ashore and then blindfolded both men.

Duval waited. The hours dragged on and he was left alone. Carefully he worked his hands free and then his feet, stripped off his dirty blindfold. Nobody was in sight. Cautiously he crept from the shack and vanished into the jungle.

All night and the next and the second night he sloshed along jungle paths, roots cutting his feet. Just when he thought he was free he heard a Jap patrol and altho he tried to hide they spotted him and grabbed him.

They stripped him and again trussed and blindfolded him. They placed him in the jungle brush and covered him with palm fronds. Then they went away.

He Escapes Again.

Apparently they intended to complete their patrol and then pick up Duval on their return. But during the afternoon he again worked free.

Shortly before dark the Japs returned. Shouting wildly they began a mad search. During the night Duval traveled as fast as the jungle permitted. He almost walked into a small Jap camp, so he decided he had better wait until morning. When the Japs left their camp Duval stole clothing drying on a line, tried on all the boots until he found a pair that fit, clamped an oversized helmet on his head and boldly set off down the trail.

All day he passed Japs. "They grunted, so I grunted back," Duval said.

That night he passed the Jap perimeter and two days later he saw an American patrol. Tearing off his Jap shirt and junking his helmet, he shouted so they wouldn't shoot.

He spent a week in a hospital, eating lots of food and getting rid of a bump the Jap officers had put on his head. Today he is well again and his name is back on the rolls of the "Grim Reapers." But before his next flight he is going south for two weeks' leave. His buddies, however, don't expect him back for a month. "He deserves a little extra time," they said.

REACH VERDICT IN TRIAL OF 3 ON TREASON CHARGE

Denver, Colo., Aug. 10 (AP).—After deliberating 10 hours a United States District court jury announced tonight that it has reached a verdict in the case of three Japanese-American sisters charged with treason in aiding the escape of two German war prisoners.

The sealed verdict will be read when court reconvenes tomorrow.

Judge J. Foster Symes handed the case to the all male jury at 2:15 p. m. [3:15 Chicago time] with the admonition that "this is a most important case." Shortly after 6 p. m., the jury returned for additional instructions.

The women are Mrs. Tsuruko [Toots] Wallace, 35; Mrs. Florence [Flo] Shivze Otani, 33, and Mrs. Billie Shitara Tanigoshi, 32. The German prisoners are Heinrich Haider and Herman August Loescher, both 31. They escaped Oct. 16, 1943, from the Trinidad, Colo., prisoner of war camp, only to fall into the FBI's arms two days later at Watrous, N. M.

The jury was asked to decide whether the government had proved either or both its charges — treason and conspiracy to commit treason. The maximum penalty under conviction of treason is death, while punishment of two years' imprisonment and $10,000 fine is allowable on conviction of conspiracy.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 10 [Special].—Miss Mary Beard, for the last six years director of the American Red Cross nursing service and responsible for the recruitment program under which 50,000 American nurses have been added to the army and navy nurse corps, has resigned for reasons of health, the Red Cross announced today. Her successor will be Miss Virginia M. Dunbar, who has served as her deputy.

SS, Army Troops Clash in Prussia, Says Moscow

LONDON, Aug. 10 [Reuter].—The Moscow radio tonight said shooting broke out today in East Prussia, West Prussia, and the Danzig area when Nazi SS [Elite] guardsmen tried to arrest German army officers. The broadcast said many SS men were killed.

U. S. SUBMARINES SINK 16 MORE JAPANESE SHIPS

Washington, D. C., Aug. 10 (AP).—American submarines have ripped another big gap in Japanese shipping lines, destroying an enemy warship and 15 merchant vessels on their latest forays into Nipponese waters.

The sinkings, reported by the navy today, brought to 839 the number of Japanese craft sunk, probably sunk or damaged by the submersibles.

These total figures include more than 2,500,000 tons of Japanese merchant shipping—approximately one-third of the enemy's merchant fleet at the beginning of the war.

KENOSHAN PUTS FIRST BOMB ON PHILIPPINE ISLE

AN ADVANCED BOMBER BASE OFF DUTCH NEW GUINEA, Aug. 6 [Delayed]—(AP).—A big night-flying Liberator with a picture of Bugs Bunny painted on the fuselage deliberately circled over the Davao air port.

The lights of Mindanao's capital city glowed on one side as the pilot, Lt. Grant Jensen, Kenosha, Wis., steadied for his run. But lights were not necessary to illuminate the buildings and Japanese settlement in the brilliant moonlight.

Four 500 Lb. Bombs Dropped.

"Bombs away," reported 2d Lt. Daniel Mahoney, Ithaca, N. Y., in a matter of fact tone.

Moments later a faint thud of four 500 pounders could be heard as they crashed on an air strip far below. They were the first American bombs to fall in the battle of Philippine liberation.

"They're awfully damned complacent down there," Jensen shouted indignantly to his co-pilot, 2d Lt. Theodore Huffman, Wilkesboro, N. C.

"They didn't even black out the city."

"Things Will Be Different."

"After tonight, things are going to be different," Huffman replied with a broad grin.

"The Japs were too surprised to fire a shot at us," Jensen said later.

Other crew members who made the first bombing run on the Philippines were: 2d Lt. Andrew Kolora, Monessen, Pa., navigator; Tech. Sgts. William Kelly, South Boston, engineer; James Welch, North Lima, O., radio technician; Staff Sgts. Maynard Marcus, Milford, Mass., assistant engineer; Frank Albert, Old Town, Me., radioman; Robert Kennedy, West Palm Beach, Fla., tail gunner; and William Lane, Methuen, Mass., nose gunner.

After their 13-hour, 45-minute flight, they breakfasted and went to bed.

CHICAGOAN DIES IN FIGHTING ON INVASION FRONT

Pvt. G. E. Peterson

The war department yesterday notified Gustaf Peterson, 5541 N. Austin av., that his son, Pvt. George E. Peterson, 31, was killed in action in France July 6. Pvt. Peterson, who was employed by the Vogue Wright studio, 469 E. Ohio st., entered service in March, 1943, and was sent overseas a year later. He was stationed in Ireland and England before going to France. Surviving, in addition to the father, are three sisters, Mildred, Florence, and Mrs. Ellen Lindahl, and two brothers, Arthur and Stanley.

HELD ON MAIL THEFT CHARGE.

Walter Glowinski, 41, who attempted suicide by swallowing iodine after he had been arrested looting a mail box, was ordered held to the grand jury yesterday by United States Commissioner Edwin K. Walker on a charge of mail theft.

"Can't we come in and visit you in the city this weekend? I'd enjoy dinner in an air-cooled restaurant and an air-cooled movie afterward!"

CHINESE LAUNCH ATTACK TO TAKE BACK HENGYANG

CHUNGKING, Aug. 10 (AP).—Chinese forces sharply attacked Japanese battle lines around Hengyang today in an apparent attempt to retake the city before the enemy has a chance to dig in and clinch his hold on the newly captured prize.

In the western Yunnan province campaign to clear the Burma road, American anti-aircraft guns, manned by the first American ground forces to fight in China, were depressed for use as field artillery. They blasted away at the last Japanese positions on Sungshan mountain.

The Chinese confirmed that Hengyang was lost to the Japanese Aug. 8. It said the defenders were killed virtually to the last man. Nothing was known of the fate of five Chinese generals who sent a farewell message from the city to Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek declaring they would fight to the death with their men.

Eight Allied Vessels Sunk by Special Weapons: Nazis

LONDON, Aug. 10 (AP).—A German war bulletin said today that "special weapons of the German navy," otherwise undefined, had been used in the Seine bay to sink six loaded supply vessels totaling 25,500 tons, a destroyer and an escort vessel. No allied account of the alleged clashes was available.

LETTERS ASKED TO PUSH RELIEF FOR BATAAN MEN

Support for the nationwide effort of the Federated Organization for Bataan Relief to speed an intensified program of succor for American war prisoners in the Philippines was asked of 500 members of the American Bataan clan in letters to them yesterday.

Specifically, each person was advised to mail personal letters in longhand to Washington officials to pave the way for a Federated delegation scheduled to visit the capital the first week in September to push relief demands.

Aid Needed Immediately.

Written over the signature of A. C. McArthur, clan president and 1st vice president of the Federated group, the necessity of action is stated simply as: "Our boys must be reached immediately with food and medicine in sufficient quantities to keep them alive until our forces reach them and to raise their physical standards to cope with the role they must play in the liberation plans."

In an interview, McArthur said it was highly conceivable that men who had survived their two years' imprisonment might succumb under the strain of the invasion unless fortified physically.

Drive Is Coördinated.

Dr. V. H. Spensley, Albuquerque, N. M., national president of the Federated clubs, which includes approximately 26 organizations, is coordinating the campaign for relief. The need for action, McArthur said, stems from the "apparent" Washington practice of relegating far east relief to "second string officials."

The mailing list supplied to the Bataan clan members includes their senators and congressmen, Gen. Marshall, Adm. King, Maj. Gen. Allen W. Gullion, provost marshal general, the secretaries of war, navy, and state, and Basil O'Connor of the American Red Cross.

SLUDGE SALE FEE IS CUT FROM 10% TO 2.2% FOR 1944

The Chicago Sanitary district yesterday awarded a contract for sale of about 175 tons a day of heat dried activated sludge from the two Stickney treatment plants to H. J. Baker & Bros. for the fifth consecutive year. The Baker firm offered the only bid, asking a brokerage fee of 2.2 per cent of the selling price, instead of the 10 per cent the district has paid for the last four years. The district expects to realize a million dollars in 1944 on this by-product which formerly was wasted. It is used in manufacture of fertilizer.

RUSSIAN ARMIES SLASH AT GATES OF EAST PRUSSIA

Giant Pincers Close In on Nazi Province.

LONDON, Aug. 11 [Friday]—(AP).—Russian troops, attacking a bitterly resisting enemy near the Niemen river in Lithuania, yesterday drove another spearhead to within 11 miles of the German East Prussian border, while other Red units far to the south crossed the historic Narew river in a gigantic pincers move on that imperiled Nazi province.

Berlin said a battle of "very great proportions" was raging on the East Prussian front.

Of equal gravity to the Germans was a new soviet extension of the big bridgehead across the Vistula river south of Warsaw. With the seizure of 60 localities in this key area, the Russians occupy 1,500 square miles of territory beyond the Vistula and are within 75 miles of German Silesia.

Tell of New Vistula Crossing.

Berlin again reported fierce fighting against another Russian bridgehead across the Vistula only 30 miles southeast of Warsaw in the Warka sector. Moscow has not confirmed that crossing.

In western Lithuania the Russians moved relentlessly forward on a broad front on both sides of the Niemen. Raseinial, 53 miles northeast of Tilsit, and 40 other localities were captured.

Clouds of soviet planes hammered German concentrations along the roads to Memel, Tilsit, and Koenigsberg.

Repulse German Blows.

While the Russians were gaining on both German flanks on the East Prussian front, the Nazi center of that line erupted with counter-attacks, which Moscow said were hurled back after 199 German tanks were destroyed or wrecked.

The accelerated drive on the south side of East Prussia resulted in the capture of 50 localities west of the Narew, where German armies in World War I. forced the Russians to evacuate their Warsaw salient.

Among the towns seized was one only 28 miles east of Lomza, German stronghold linking the axis defenses between Warsaw and East Prussia.

Gain on Latvian Front.

Closely linked with these attacks were others to the southwest. Pivoting from positions just east of Warsaw, the 1st White Russian army moved northwest on a 38 mile front. These troops fast were nearing the Bialystok-Warsaw railway and were near the Bug river northeast of Warsaw.

A total of 285 towns and villages were seized during the day, including Jekabpils and 67 other localities on the Latvian front. Here the Russians were only 60 miles southeast of Riga, Latvian capital on the Baltic, as they steadily contracted their trap on two German armies.

Russian front dispatches said two German divisions rushed up from Krakow and the Carpathian mountains had been decisively beaten in the Baranow area.

Fighting also raged in the Carpathians at the extreme southern end of the front on the approaches to the Tatar pass. Among the localities seized on a 150 mile Carpathian front, the Russians said, was Podbuz, 27 miles from the Czech frontier.

Poles Granted Amnesty for Crimes Done in Russia

LONDON, Aug. 10 (AP).—The Russians have granted amnesty to all Polish citizens sentenced for crimes within the soviet, the Moscow radio announced tonight. Exceptions, said the broadcast which was recorded by the soviet monitor, are murder, espionage, and banditry.

RUSSIA DRAFTS POST-WAR PLAN: 10 YRS. OF LABOR

No Letup in Heavy Industry Foreseen.

BY HENRY CASSIDY.

[Associated Press correspondent who has just returned home after nearly four years in Moscow.]

New York, Aug. 10 (AP).—The people of soviet Russia, who have lived thru 27 years of revolution, civil and foreign wars, famine, five-year plans and purges, face at least another decade of toil before they will be able to relax and enjoy themselves.

An important and intriguing question for the post-war world is: What does the soviet government propose to do domestically?

I understand, on strong authority, that soviet government envisages two more five-year plans, designed to build up heavy industry and capital goods, rather than light industry and consumers' goods.

Sees War into Next Summer.

When the first plan will begin depends on when the war ends. Despite the rapid progress of the Red army's summer campaign, there is little over-optimism in Moscow about an early end to the war.

One soviet authority, however, has estimated that, barring the unexpected, such as the next bomb actually hitting Adolf Hitler, it will take until next summer to destroy Germany militarily.

When that has been accomplished, the Red army men who have fought on the fronts already for three years, the Partisans who have worked behind the German lines, and the people who have lived under or away from Nazi occupation, will return to the hard work of long-range planning.

The first five-year plan, launched in 1929 and completed technically in four years, was designed to start reconstruction and industrialization of the soviet union. Successive plans aimed at carrying on that program.

Plan Repairs First.

The post-war five-year plans will be designed to repair and build up Russia's productive power. Despite the largely successful evacuation of factories to the east in 1941 and the development of industries in and beyond the Urals the soviet economic system has suffered heavily.

Soviet steel production, which had risen to about 22 million tons a year before the war, now has fallen to about 12 million, due principally to German occupation and devastation of the Donets basin. Under the new five-year plans, this production would be stepped up to 60 million tons, compared to America's 100 million.

While the Russians will be making steel, building machines to make machines, they will go without many luxury products or even comforts considered customary in western countries.

Under present plans, they will go on, where they left off before the war, building for the future.

GIANT AIR BORNE ARMY SET UP TO SMASH GERMANY

SUPREME HDQ., ALLIED EXPEDITIONARY FORCE, Aug. 10 (AP).—The allies tonight uncovered a "secret weapon" which may strike some of the most decisive blows of the war against Germany—a revolutionary new American-British air borne force with the size and power of an army, created under the command of Lt. Gen. Lewis H. Brereton.

The new unit, welding both British and American air borne forces with ground combat personnel, was officially announced as "approximating an army in size and importance." An army may have from six to nine divisions with upwards of 10,000 men in each.

Might Land in Germany.

Creation of the new army, embodying an unprecedented combination of striking power and mobility, conjures up a picture of a great sky force plummeting down deep behind the German lines, possibly even within Germany, to land decisive blows.

Components of the army are the same ones which, as respective parts of the ground and air forces, contributed so greatly to the success of the invasion.

"The objective of the new organization," said supreme headquarters, "is to integrate and make more effective the large air borne forces at the disposal of the supreme commander. In this command will be combined both the combat troops and the planes and gliders transporting them."

Gen. Brereton's deputy commander is a Briton, Lt. Gen. Frederick A. M. [Boy] Browning, husband of the novelist Daphne du Maurier and an alumnus of the Grenadier Guards, an infantry outfit. He is the former commander of British air troops.

Gen. Brereton has been commander of the United States 9th air force based in Britain, whose troop carrier command flew American parachute troops and glider infantry in the invasion.

Vandenberg to Head 9th.

Altho celebrated as an air leader in the Philippine, India and Egyptian campaigns, he is a veteran warrior who was in both the signal corps and artillery before World War I., and actually began his military career with an Annapolis naval commission.

Air borne soldiers heretofore have been strictly a part of the ground forces, while the men who flew them were strictly with the air force, with the additional jobs of carrying air borne supplies and evacuating the wounded.

Gen. Brereton was succeeded in command of the American 9th air force by Maj. Gen. Hoyt Vandenberg, who was deputy commander of the allied expeditionary air forces under Air Chief Marshal Trafford Leigh-Mallory. Gen. Vandenberg's old post goes to Maj. Gen. Ralph Royce, who was Brereton's deputy.

WITH GEN. EISENHOWER, Aug. 10 [Reuter]. — Gen. Eisenhower, while decorating United States air borne troops, today said:

"In air borne operations lies one of our great opportunities for further successes. My unbounded pride in what you have done in the past does not equal my confidence in what you are going to do in the future. Thru your effective employment we will end this war far more quickly than we could without you."

The supreme commander decorated United States air borne troops who had distinguished themselves in the Normandy campaign. Those receiving distinguished service crosses included Lt. Walter G. Amerman of Paxton, Ill.

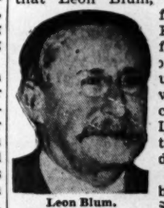
LEON BLUM DIED IN LUBLIN DEATH MILL, SAY REDS

MOSCOW, Aug. 10 (AP).—A story that Leon Blum, former popular front premier of France, was forced to help build a gallows upon which he was then hanged came today from Lublin—once notorious Nazi death factory.



Leon Blum.

It was reported by Konstantin Simonov, correspondent for the Russian army newspaper, Red Star, and was the first hint that the former premier might have perished with hundreds of thousands of others, mostly Jews, at Lublin.

Simonov talked with two Lublin engineers who said they saw Blum dragging planks at the death factory last May and he was pointed out to them by a Lublin Jew.

ALLIES CAPTURE 2 MORE TOWNS IN BURMA DRIVE

SOUTHEAST ASIA COMMAND HDQ., Kandy, Ceylon, Aug. 10 (AP).—Taungni, a Japanese strong point 10 miles southwest of Mogaung on the Myitkyina-Mandalay railway, has fallen to allied troops pressing their monsoon campaign to throw the Japanese out of northern Burma.

Allied headquarters announced also today that Sahmaw, another railway point between Mogaung and Taugni, was taken by units of the third Indian division. The Japanese left many dead and much equipment in the village.

The fighting for the Imphal-Tiddim road in eastern India reached a point 12 miles north of the Burma border, where rear guards of the retreating Japanese were under attack by Indian infantry, tanks and artillery.

POLES ALMOST WON WARSAW, GERMANS ADMIT

Radio Says Goebbels Rule Will Close Many Papers.

BY LARRY RUE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Aug. 10. — The following are items from European radio broadcasts as reported by listening posts here:

Confirmation of claims of the Polish government here that the underground movement for a time nearly had possession of Warsaw was given by a German overseas news agency report broadcast today. The report said, "Once again Warsaw is firmly in our hands." It went on to say that Polish partisans in Warsaw had been trying to rebel and admitted that "several groups had scored initial successes." The rebellion was "quelled," it asserted.

How Germany is being pushed back in France by the sheer weight of allied troops and material was mentioned on the radio today by Alex Schmalfuss, German news agency war reporter in France. "It is getting ever clearer," he said, "that Gen. Eisenhower is determined to go all out. Favored by exceptionally good summer weather and supported by his entire air armada he is throwing one division after another against stubbornly defending Germans. The endless flow of disembarkation makes good his loss in men and material." Schmalfuss insisted, however, "the German defense is sufficiently elastic to ward off his blows."

Propaganda Minister Joseph Goebbels' mobilization plans will mean the suppression of a great number of German newspapers, the Berlin correspondent of the Stockholm Tidningen said today. The Berliner Boersen-Zeitung will close for the duration and the Berliner Lokalanzeiger and the Berliner Morganpost are merging, it was reported. "A great number of other newspapers will be closed down for the duration," it was added.

An exchange of German and Argentine diplomatic staffs will take place Sunday at Lisbon, Portugal, the German overseas agency reported today. The Spanish steamer Cabo de Buena Esperanza is due to arrive from Argentina on that day. Diplomatic relations were broken off by Argentina last January, but the exchange was delayed by a scarcity of neutral shipping and difficulties of chartering vessels, it was explained.

A NEW CHICAGO TO JOIN MIGHTY AMERICAN NAVY

Chicago again will be represented in the nation's naval might when the powerful new cruiser Chicago is launched at Philadelpha Sunday, Aug. 20.

With naval batteries as mighty as those of any cruiser afloat and bristling with anti-aircraft guns, the new 40 million dollar warship will replace the former cruiser Chicago which was sunk by Japanese bombing planes on Jan. 30, 1943, near Rennell Island, 70 miles south of Guadalcanal.

Plans for the launching were announced yesterday by the navy. On hand for the ceremony will be 92 officials and manufacturers from Chicago. Heading the group will be Mayor Kelly and Mrs. Kelly, who will christen the new Chicago.

Oscar Mayer, who headed the Cruiser Chicago committee in a bond selling drive to raise funds for the new cruiser, will be a principal guest. In the 40 days following the announcement of the sinking of the former cruiser Chicago, Chicagoans purchased 1,300,000 units of E bonds at a total cost of $54,000,000. The drive was unique in that it was limited to sales to individuals.

HIGHLAND PARK SOLDIERS DEAD, FAMILIES TOLD

Two Highland Park families yesterday were notified by the war department of the death of their sons, both of whom were killed in France.

Pvt. Francis Ronzani, 19, son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Ronzani, 224 N. 1st st., Highland Park, was killed June 9. A paratrooper, Pvt. Ronzani was graduated from Highland Park High school in 1942, enlisted in March, 1943, and went overseas last September. His picture appeared in THE TRIBUNE June 12, showing him escorting a German prisoner.

Pvt. John Ori, 19, died June 17 from wounds received three days earlier, his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Cesare Ori, 632 Deerfield av., Highland Park, were informed. Pvt. Ori was with a glider infantry unit. Born in Italy, he was naturalized shortly before entering service in March, 1943. He was sent to England last October.

DEATH CHARGED TO HEAT.

William Von Domarus, 52, of 6537 S. Green st., a Pennsylvania railroad track foreman, died yesterday of heat prostration 15 minutes after his family took him to Englewood hospital where he complained of pains in his chest.

GERMANY SENDS ITS SERVANTS TO BUILD UP ARMY

LONDON, Aug. 10 (AP).—Propaganda Minister Goebbels banned all public meetings and entertainments in Germany not directly connected with the war today in a series of sweeping decrees seeking troops for the reich's depleted armies.

Acting in his new capacity as reichs plenipotentiary for the total war effort, he dug deeper into the thin home front man power of Germany for reserves.

All domestic servants of foreign extraction were directed into war industry. German servants will go into the army, war factories, or families with children where servants are essential.

Goebbels' decrees reduced the number of employes in railways, postal, and cultural services.

Women up to 50 were ordered to work and all "sham work" was abolished. A series of age classes of men reserved for industrial jobs was withdrawn and the men were ordered into the forces.

"Cultural life will be restricted considerably," the Goebbels decrees said. "All film and theater staffs will be placed at the disposal of the armaments industry."

Pvt. L. J. Schmidt Killed in Action on France Front

Pvt. Louis J. Schmidt, 29, member of a tank destroyer battalion, was killed June 18 in action in France, his family was informed yesterday by the war department. Pvt. Schmidt had served in the army for the last nine years and had been overseas for more than a year. He leaves his widow, Violet, 2111 S. Christiana st., and his mother, Mrs. Hermina Schmidt, 1846 S. CHICAGO BEACH HABIT SAVES SAILOR AS HE SPENDS HOUR IN SEA

Roy Doerscheln.

When Roy Doerscheln, now 20, was a young boy he spent a great deal of time at Chicago's beaches and pools improving his wind and his distance swimming. This probably saved his life when he had to spend an hour in deep water without a life belt after his ship, the minesweeper Swerve, had been sunk by enemy action. Doerscheln, now an electrician's mate, 3d class, is here on a survivor's leave visiting his foster-father and his mother, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Moon, 4418 S. St. Louis av. Yesterday he told his story.

On a Sunday last month, in the Mediterranean, Doerscheln was down in the forward part of the ship when he was tumbled off his feet by a terrific explosion. All hands turned to fight the fire that was spreading thru the Swerve. Altho the fire was put out, the vessel had sustained a mortal wound. The Swerve was listing so badly that Doerscheln simply walked over the side into the water. There was no time to go below for his life belt.

Then began a fearful hour in the water during which Doerscheln sometimes was almost ready to give up. He would swim until exhausted, then hold on to a mate's life preserver while he regained some of his strength. After an eternity a ship showed up and the men were rescued.

Sgt. Harold J. Heckler, Tank Commander, Killed

Mr. and Mrs. William E. Heckler, 7210 Wentworth av., were notified yesterday that their son, Sgt. Harold J. Heckler, 24, a tank commander, was killed in action in France July 14. Sgt. Heckler enlisted in the army in 1941 and went overseas last February.

POLISH-ITALIAN TROOPS ADVANCE NEAR ADRIATIC

ROME, Aug. 10 (AP).—Polish and Italian troops attacked the Germans in the Adriatic sector of the Italian front today, quickly captured Francavilla, and tonight were nearing the Cesano river, 40 miles below Rimini.

[The German radio heard by Reuters' in London said last night: "British troops today reopened their great offensive in Italy after regrouping their forces."]

In the allied held southern section of Florence, Canadian troops, helped by 250 Italian patriots, cleaned up hostile Fascist pockets.

The Polish-Italian drive in the east was headed toward the line of the Misa river and toward Rimini, Adriatic city of about 30,000, 69 miles southeast of Bologna.

Allies Take High Ground.

Allied headquarters said the Germans had withdrawn their main force in the Arno river bend east of Florence, leaving the allies in possession of all high ground in that sector. Only minor operations were reported on the 5th and 8th army fronts, where allied troops presumably were resting preparatory to an assault against the German Gothic line.

Today's announcement that Canadian troops were in action was the first disclosure that they were back in the line.

On the 5th army front American artillery fire broke up an attempt of the enemy to build an underwater bridge across the lower Arno near San Giovanni Alla Vena, eight miles east of Pisa. Advancing 8th army troops confirmed reports that the Nazis had burned the village of Guiliano, nine miles north of Arezzo.

Partisan General Killed.

Italian Gen. Potente of the Partisans' Garibaldi brigade was killed in a brush with enemy snipers south of Florence three days ago, allied headquarters disclosed.

Naval headquarters announced that the ports of Livorno [Leghorn] on the west coast and Ancona, on the east coast, now were clear and open to shipping. Harbor facilities of both ports had been wrecked by the retreating Germans.

Other important supply points recently restored to use along both coasts include Civitavecchia, San Stefano, Piombino, and Ortona.

Van Duyse was a graduate of Englewood High school. Another brother, Pvt. Arthur Van Duyse, is serving in England. Sgt. Van Duyse, who enlisted 2½ years ago, had been overseas since last January.

F.D.R. DENOUNCES WALL STREETERS BUT HIRES MANY

'Money Changers' Occupy Top New Deal Spots.

BY WALTER TROHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 10.—In his first inaugural address on March 4, 1933, President Roosevelt declared that the money changers have fled from their seats in the temple of our civilization. A survey, completed today, discloses that many of the high seats in the New Deal are now occupied by persons from Wall street.

In the 1936 campaign President Roosevelt rejoiced over being booed at Wall street during an election tour of Manhattan Island. Today his strongest supporters are from the street where internationalism runs highest.

Heading the list of Wall streeters in the New Deal is Secretary of the Navy James V. Forrestal, who in times of peace when international banks are wide open is president of the New York investment banking house of Dillon, Reed and company.

Stimson and Patterson.

Well up are Secretary of War Henry L. Stimson and Undersecretary of War Robert P. Patterson, former Wall street lawyers. Stimson is a member of the firm of Winthrop and Stimson and Patterson was a member of the Root, Clark, Buckner and Howland before he was appointed to the federal beach.

Kuhn, Loeb and company, New York investment bankers, has a heavy representation in the government. Partners Benjamin J. Buttonweiser, John M. Schiff and Lewis Straus were given important posts in the navy department and partner Frederick Warburg a strategic seat in the war department.

The Morgan interests have also enjoyed high army and navy favor. Henry S. Morgan, son of the late J. P. Morgan and partner of Morgan, Stanley and company, and F. Trubee Davison, brother of a J. P. Morgan and company partner, sit high in war department councils. Artemus L. Gates, president of the New York Trust company, a Morgan bank, is assistant secretary of the navy.

Stettinius, Too.

Undersecretary of State Edward R. Stettinius, son of a late J. P. Morgan partner and former president of the United States Steel corporation, which Morgan interests control, is another administration Wall streeter.

The Harriman interests, concentrated in the New York private banking house of Brown Brothers and Harriman and in the investment banking houses of Harriman, Ripley and company are well represented in the administration. Partner W. Averell Harriman is ambassador to Russia and partner Robert A. Lovett is assistant secretary of war.

The investment banking firm of Lehman Brothers also has important administration connections. Partner John M. Hancock is serving as an assistant to Bernard M. Baruch, capitalist, who is official adviser to the office of war mobilization, headed by James F. Byrnes, and unofficial adviser to the white house. Former partner Herbert Lehman is acting director of the office of foreign relief and rehabilitation.

Many Lesser Figures.

Bonbright & Company, New York investment bankers, is represented by Sidney A. Mitchell, son of the late Sidney Z. Mitchell, founder of Electric Bond and Share corporation. The younger Mitchell is chief of the navy finance section.

Hundreds of lesser Wall street figures hold various desk jobs thruout the government. Large advertising firms with important Wall street connections hold many key New Deal posts.

Scores of men from Wall street law firms hold important government posts. Davis, Polk, Wardwell and Kiendl, which represents the Morgan interests; Wright, Gordon, Zachary & Parlin, which represents Dillon, Reed and Company, and Cravath, De Gersdorff, Swaine and Wood, which represents, Kuhn, Loeb and company are among the law firms with heavy representation in the New Deal.

Bankers Go Home.

Some bankers have already returned to Wall street, including Ferdinand Eberstadt, president of F. Eberstadt and Company and former war production board vice chairman, and Sidney Weinberg, partner of Goldman, Sachs & company and former chief assistant to WPB chairman Donald Nelson.

Wall streeters form a heavy unit in the preponderently eastern phalanx of the New Deal. Six of the 10 cabinet members are easterners—four from New York. The New Yorkers are Stimson, Forrestal, secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau and Secretary of Labor Perkins. Postmaster General Walker and Attorney General Biddle are Pennsylvanians.

ELGIN AIR HERO MISSING AFTER RAID ON NAZIS

The war department yesterday advised Mr. and Mrs. Edwin J. McDonald, 637 Villa st., Elgin, that their son, 1st Lt. Leo J. McDonald, 24, has been missing in action since July 26, following a mission over Austria.

Lt. McDonald, rated as one of Elgin's outstanding heroes of the war, is a veteran of more than 40 combat missions and was one of the first to take part in the bombing of Jap occupied Kiska and Attu Islands in the Aleutians. After serving as a radio operator and gunner for two years he was selected for pilot training and received his wings last October.

Sent to Italy, McDonald distinguished himself when, on April 28, as pilot of a B-17 Flying Fortress, he brought his plane back to base safely with three crew members wounded. The plane had 280 bullet holes, had two engines knocked out, and the controls shot away. McDonald holds the flying cross, the air medal, and a Presidential citation.

BARE NEW DEAL $100 PER WEEK DOLE PROGRAM

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 10.—Possible incomes of $50 to $100 a week and higher for idle families under the New Deal's post-war unemployment measure were disclosed today in senate debate on the bill.

Questions by opponents of the legislation, who have termed the proposal an attempt to place a premium on loafing, brought from administration sponsors the admission that incomes eclipsing the highest monetary handouts previously suggested by visionary groups were possible under the bill.

The senate went thru a third day of debate on the Kilgore-Murray bill without a vote. Today's developments were believed to have strengthened the opposition to the measure, which contains the administration's proposals for federal regimentation of the jobless at an estimated cost of 15 billion dollars annually.

George Bill Favored.

Expected to receive approval is the George measure, which increases to approximately 45 million persons the group eligible for state controled benefits, ranging between $15 and $22 a week.

Sen. Pepper [D., Fla.] was defending the Kilgore-Murray bill when he was asked about the case of a man and wife with two children who had held jobs in war factories, but were left unemployed by the cessation of war production.

"The man would be entitled to $30 a week and the wife to $20 a week," Pepper conceded. He scoffed at economy advocates who suggested such a $50 dole would be too burdensome upon a nation bearing a 300 billion dollar deficit.

Sen. Taft [R., O.] noted that millions of housewives who have taken war employment would be eligible for unemployment benefits on the same basis as returned soldiers unable to find jobs. Estimating the annual cost at over 15 billion dollars, he asserted the program would "wreck the United States, being absolutely destructive of the entire American economy."

Cite Farm Labor Problem.

The case of the hundreds of thousands of farm laborers who have entered war industries also was brought into the discussion. They would be entitled to $20 to $35 a week for not working, an income probably larger than they would receive if they returned to farm work.

There is no limit to unemployment payments in the case of large families where several have been employed or have been serving in the army or navy during the war period, sponsors of the Kilgore-Murray bill admitted. If five members of a family hold jobs now and all are left unemployed in the post-war period, the family income under the bill would be at least $100 a week.

Dependents would increase the payments and any soldier or sailor in the family group would be entitled to $20 a week.

The American Legion, thru its national legislative committee, wired all senators its opposition to most of the features of the administration bill and some parts of the George bill. It objected particularly to placing veterans on the same basis as civilian war workers.

Kilgore Denies CIO Tinge.

Sen. Kilgore [D., W. Va.] took the floor late in the day to answer reports that his measure had been "master minded" by Herbert Schimmel, a war production board expert who had been loaned by the WPB to Kilgore's war mobilization subcommittee.

Schimmel was said to have been in close touch with Sidney Hillman's CIO political action committee. Sen. Wherry [R., Neb.] commented that the reports connected Kilgore's legislation "indelibly" with the CIO group.

Kilgore asserted that all labor organizations, including both AFL and CIO groups, had been consulted in drafting the bill.

Fighting Family

Seaman Lonnie Weed, 45, a former mail carrier in Orient, Ia., was pointed out at the Great Lakes Naval training center yesterday as the sailor who had the best reason to be proud of his "boot" graduation visitors this week.

Weed's visitors were: His wife, Gertrude, who has taken over his mail route in Orient; four sailor sons, Dale, 24, Lonnie Jr., 20, Marven, 19, and Gerald, 18, all on leave from Farragut, Ida., training center, and his daughter-in-law, Phyllis. Another son, in the army, couldn't make the trip.

"I was always a little disappointed because World War I. ended before I got into it, so I entered this war as soon as all my boys were in," Weed said. He enlisted June 12.

PHILATELIC BODY MEETING; OPENS STAMP EXHIBITS

What was described as one of the largest stamp exhibitions ever to be shown in Chicago opened yesterday at the La Salle hotel, sponsored by the Central Federation of Stamp Clubs of Chicago in connection with the 50th annual convention of the national Society of Philatelic Americans. The display, on the mezzanine floor of the hotel, includes 434 "frames" or glass covered cases of stamps. It is open to the public until Sunday night.

One of the most unusual exhibits is of rural Russian stamps of the 1880 period, shown by Hans Lagerloef of New York City. Julius Westphal of Joliet has a display of 1847 United States stamps.

J. Edward Vining, Webster Grove, Mo., retiring president of the national society, was presented with the Hans Lagerloef award for outstanding service to the society in the last year as the convention opened yesterday. It was the first time the award had been made. Officers were elected as follows: President, Vincent Domanski of Philadelphia, former treasurer; vice president, Henry A. Meyer of Evansville, Ind.; treasurer, Stephen G. Rich of Verona, N. J., and secretary, Alfred Diamond of Chicago.

CHAVEZ INSISTS SENATE CURTAIL F.D.R. 'TREATIES'

BY LAURENCE BURD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 10.—Sen. Chavez [D., N. M.], reminding his colleagues of their solemn duties to the United States in the epochal peace treaties to come, today called upon the senate to end the President's encroachment on its constitutional treaty powers.

Sen. Chavez.

The Democratic senator charged that the executive branch of the government, thru the device of "executive agreements" with foreign nations, has increasingly circumvented the constitutional provision lodging treaty making powers in the President, but only "by and with the advice and consent of the senate."

In a floor speech he urged the senate to pass forthwith a resolution "advising the executive of its intention and determination to assert its constitutional prerogatives from this day on." At the same time, he challenged his colleagues to assert their rights in the forthcoming peace negotiations "to remedy a dangerous situation in our national life."

Recalls Wilson's Failure.

Chavez recalled that President Wilson's failure after the last war to advise fully with the senate before he negotiated proposed peace terms culminated in the senate's rejection of the Versailles treaty, and warned that this "mistake" must not be repeated.

"We can avoid mistakes of this nature," he said, "by adhering to the letter and to the spirit of our national Constitution.

"The time is ripe for the rectification of our course. Let us take to the right course, a course from which we have certainly deviated. Let us no longer allow the executive to infringe upon our constitutional mandate in the most chaotic moments of a world crisis."

Finds Trend "Disturbing."

By asserting its prerogative to advise the President on treaties, Chavez continued, the senate will not only be following the Constitution, but will bring to other nations hope that terms negotiated at the peace table will be crystalized thru senate ratification.

"It is indeed disturbing," Chavez told his colleagues, "to observe how the part the senate is called upon to play in treaty making diminishes step by step, while the part played by the executive branch increases.

"A definite policy should be adopted and adhered to. And why? Because by the terms of the Constitution a treaty entered into by the United States becomes the supreme law of the land."

CITIZENS' GROUP OF 10,000 FORMED TO AID DEMPSEY

Formation of a citizens committee of 10,000 to support John T. Dempsey, Republican nominee for state's attorney, was announced yesterday by Arnold R. Baar, the chairman. He said the committee would be composed of nonpartisan men and women who represent groups devoted to "cleaning up corruption in local government."

"The purpose is to arouse the citizens of Cook county, regardless of party, to the importance of electing John T. Dempsey as state's attorney," Baar said. "No local office is more important. The state's attorney determines the whole level of law enforcement. He is responsible for prosecuting public officials guilty of corruption, as well as others."

Baar is a past president of the City club, of the Citizens Schools committee, and is a trustee of the Civic Federation and Bureau of Public Efficiency. He is a lawyer. Mrs. Helen W. Dormitzer, vice president of the Women's City club, is vice chairman. George A. Paddock, former congressman, is treasurer.

CANADA BILL SETS UP FUND OF 750 MILLIONS TO AID WAR VETERANS

OTTAWA, Ont., Aug. 10. — War service gratuities and rehabilitation credits to veterans of this war in the amount of $750,000,000 are provided in a bill introduced in the house of commons today.

Some $400,000,000 would be paid out in cash gratuities. The remaining $350,000,000 would not be in cash, but in credits which veterans might use to buy homes, business, tools, and farm implements, etc.

The gratuities, which would be available only to veterans who served in the Aleutians, Iceland, or Greenland, would amount to $15 per man for every 30 days' service while overseas, and $7.50 for every 30 days while in Canada before or after going overseas.

CAPT. HARRISON TELLS VICTIM'S MURDER STORY

Drake Waiter's Version Also Reviewed.

then, when you saw this hysterical lady?"

"Yes. There was a fellow followed me in."

"Do you know who he was?"

"No, I do not know. He was a gray haired fellow."

I had deduced that the man who followed Shawke into room 836 was Cook, but Cook denies he was that man. Cook's own statement indicates that Cook believed he was the first person to reach Mrs. Goodbody's side, and the first to look into room 836 and see the wounded mother. Shawke, altho he did not hear the shots, believed that he, not Cook, was the first man to enter the Williams room. The record of the hotel telephone operators bears him out.

I believe that Shawke preceded Cook into the room.

One part of Shawke's story is weak. When police and reporters were milling around the eighth floor immediately after the shooting, Shawke told reporters that he saw the mysterious gunwoman run down the hall as he opened the eighth floor service room door. Later, at the E. Chicago av. station, Shawke admitted this was not true. He did not see a fleeing woman, he said.

"It might have been more of a fabrication in my mind," Shawke said. What he really meant, he explained to police, and later to the coroner and to me, was that a description of the woman had been given to him by Mrs. Williams, and at the same time he had overheard Mrs. Goodbody giving the description to other questioners. He meant, he said, to relay to police and reporters the women's stories.

In any event, Shawke was on the scene so early that "gun smoke was in the air" when he stepped into room 836.

Questions Mrs. Williams.

Shawke had begun to obtain a description of the gunwoman when Dr. Thomas J. Coogan and a nurse arrived; even as they administered first aid, Shawke continued his questioning. In his police statement later that night, Shawke related what will have to pass for Mrs. Williams' first told story.

Shawke said that Mrs. Williams told him her assailant "was 45 or maybe 50," and that she had gray hair. He jotted that down on his order pad. Then—

"I bent low and I asked the woman, 'Who shot you?' She said 'A woman. We were in the anteroom. She told me there was some one in the anteroom. I told her that—that is only the ironing board rattling. All at once there was a big noise.' That is the way she put it. 'A big noise,' she said, and I asked who was the woman, 'Do you know her?'

Fails to Identify Woman.

"She said, 'No,' she did not know the woman. 'How was she dressed?' I asked. 'She had a black Persian coat on, and a rose in her hair,' she replied. That is the way she put it. She mentioned the name Goodbody."

"Did she say anything in connection with the name?" Shawke was asked.

"Yes, she said, I said—it was all incoherent—she did not give it clear. She just mentioned the name."

Shawke's testimony at the Feb. 8 inquest was substantially the same. In going over his interview with Mrs. Williams, he testified, "She mentioned that Mrs. Goodbody a couple of times."

Description Valuable.

Shawke's statement is one of the principal ones taken by the police along with those of Mrs. Goodbody and Cook. Its chief value is the description of the assailant obtained from Mrs. Williams. To my mind, there is also another value: Shawke was one of the first two men on the scene, if not the first, and so may have been in a position to have seen the fleeing woman. He originally said he did, then denied it.

Having disposed of the stories of the two women and the two men, let us now look into room 836, and along the eighth floor corridor of the Drake. Police, hotel officers, newspaper reporters, and camera men are circling around. It's a scene of confusion. Every one is saying, "A woman in a Persian lamb coat, with red in her hair, did the shooting!"

Mrs. Williams is still lying on the floor of her room. Dr. Coogan is bending over her. His nurse is assisting him to apply a pressure bandage to check the profuse flow of blood. Shawke is hovering around. In and out of room 836 are Drake Detectives Ray Riley and John Tierney.

Eight, Nine, 10 Enter Room.

Eight, nine, 10 men are in the room. Bob Smith, assistant hotel manager, now in Cuba, is trying to keep his employes moving and achieve some semblance of order on the floor.

Outside Lt. John Quinn, a veteran of the police force, then on the night shift at E. Chicago av. station, is trying to bring order out of chaos.

Nearby are Edgar R. Born, first husband of Mrs. Williams and father of Mrs. Goodbody. A lean, seemingly imperturbable man, he is standing protectively at his daughter's side. With him is a lawyer, Tom Rosenberg, a personal friend.

Born and Rosenberg were already there when Lt. Quinn and his men arrived. The shooting occurred about 6:25 p. m. The first report was received at the police station at 6:40 p. m. Six or at the latest seven minutes later, Quinn was on the job.

Gets News Before Police.

It so happens that Born and Rosenberg were in the former's room in the Churchill, 1255 N. State st., a few blocks away, when they received word of the shooting. There is no question that Born received the news before police. Anyway, Rosenberg went to the street, got a Checker cab, and waited a minute for Born to come down from his room. Then they drove to the Drake.

Mrs. Goodbody, according to her own statement, told her father what had occurred. Born comforted his daughter. Then he stepped into room 836, and looked at his former wife lying in a pool of blood on the floor. "I thought she was dead," Born later said in a formal statement.

The sight apparently sickened him, for he soon went into the bathroom of room 836, from where, perhaps less than 40 minutes before, the killer had emerged. House Detective Tierney said that on finding the bathroom door locked he rapped and called out: "You shouldn't lock that door. Police officers want to go in and out." Born came out. He explained that he had received permission from a policeman to enter the room.

Invites Her into Room.

Mrs. Goodbody, meanwhile, was in the apartment of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Smith, rooms 801-02, across the corridor. Patricia was seated in a chair. Mr. Smith, a jewelry company official, is deaf, but his wife had heard "a woman crying outside the door," and found Mrs. Goodbody hysterical, and Cook talking to her. Mrs. Smith invited the girl into the room.

I have been told that Mrs. Goodbody made a telephone call from the Smith apartment, perhaps two. Mr. Smith told me he believed that she made one—perhaps to her father. Mrs. Goodbody does not speak of making any calls.

Amid this confusion, Dr. Coogan is preparing to remove Mrs. Williams to the hospital. He catches a few fragments of her talk with Shawke. He remembers that she told him that first aid, which he now was administering to her, had once been her avocation. Despite the seriousness of her injury, her mind was lucid, Dr. Coogan said. The assassin's bullet had gone lengthwise from her right forehead to the back of the head.

Speaks with Victim Twice.

In the room with the doctor were Fred Lindsey, an ambulance attendant, now in the merchant marine, and Pringle Terrill, the ambulance driver, now in Oakland, Cal. Lindsey spoke with Mrs. Williams in room 836 and en route to the hospital. She was incoherent but Lindsey, testifying before the coroner's jury, recalled:

"She made the statement that she thought she [the assassin] was shooting blanks because she could see the fire coming out of the gun. She remembered the people there asking if she knew the woman. She said, 'No,' she never saw her before. She [the assassin] had said, 'I will get you,' before she fired the gun. She said she [the assassin] was of a build similar to that of her daughter, and I asked her who her daughter was. She said Mrs. Goodbody."

"I Will Get You Yet."

Terrill spoke to Mrs. Williams in the emergency room at St. Luke's, and at the inquest quoted Mrs. Williams as saying that her assailant had cried, "I will get you yet!"

These ambulance men add two new hues to the picture. Lindsey said Mrs. Williams thought the woman was firing blanks. She told him the woman said, "I will get you." Terrill said Mrs. Williams told him the woman cried, "I will get you yet!"

Why did Mrs. Williams think the bullets were blanks? If a mysterious stranger came into my room and fired at me, would I assume the stranger was firing blanks? Terrill quotes the victim as saying the killer said: "I will get you yet."

Another Curious Fact.

Such a remark might pre-suppose previous acquaintance. And there you have another of the curious facts in this curious case.

Meanwhile, as Mrs. Williams was being taken to the hospital, Lt. Quinn was doing his best, with a minimum of help and a maximum of handicaps, to get at the facts. He stepped into the bathroom of room 836. He looked behind the door where the killer had hidden. He found an ironing board, an electric iron on the floor, and the cord from the iron stretching up to the inner knob of the door. He came out, and announced:

"There was no third person in this room!"

[Tomorrow I will tell you more of Lt. Quinn's early investigation of the case.]

A COUPONS TO BE FOR 4 GALLONS, BUT LIMIT STAYS

New A gasoline coupons to be issued next month will be worth four gallons each, but A-book motorists will get the same number of gallons a month—eight—as they do now, the office of price administration said yesterday.

The area OPA office said it did not know whether the new books, which will be issued between Sept. 1 and 15, and which will go into effect Sept. 22, will be distributed thru schools or by local ration boards, but that in either event the applicant will receive his book on registration, and not by mail.

The new A coupons will be of the strip theater ticket type, and will be given out in sets of 30—five horizontal rows of six each, the first row of which will be good between Sept. 22 and Dec. 21. Currently there are eight coupons, each worth three gallons, which may be used in a three month period.

Circus to Open Aug. 22, Without the Big Top

Annual appearance of the Ringling Brothers and Barnum & Bailey circus in Chicago will be made Aug. 22 and continue for 14 days in the north end of Soldiers' field. The circus will exhibit without benefit of the traditional canvas, which was destroyed July 6 in Hartford, Conn., by a fire which caused the death of 167 persons.

QUIZ HOODLUMS, SEIZE WOMAN IN MANGANO PROBE

Two north side hoodlums yesterday were released by Chicago police after being questioned in the gangster slaying of Lawrence [Dago] Mangano a week ago.

The two hoodlums are Dominic Brancato, 38, of 2755 Pine Grove av., and Dominic [Libby] Nuccio, 39, of 1003 Hudson av., former Capone gangsters and prohibition day bootleggers. Both denied being involved in the slaying. Brancato refused to make a statement or take a lie detector test. Nuccio, who posted $200 bond on a disorderly conduct charge, is scheduled to appear in Racket court today.

Woman Seized by FBI.

Agents for the federal bureau of investigation also entered the case, arresting Mrs. Florence Barad, 38, of 427 Rosyln pl., in connection with the theft of $15,000 in tax free cigarets for soldiers, which is believed by investigators to have figured in the motive for the killing of Mangano.

Mrs. Barad, who operates the Florence Jackson Millinery shop, 549 Diversey pkwy., was charged with receiving property stolen in an interstate shipment and arraigned before United States Commissioner Edwin K. Walker. She pleaded not guilty and her bond was set at $3,500. The case was set for a hearing on Aug. 21.

The federal agents seized Mrs. Barad and her husband, Maurice, now on parole for robbery, in their home and took them to the FBI offices for questioning. He was later released, but a black book, 4 by 8 inches in size and containing 150 pages filled with names, was confiscated and is being studied by the investigators. Persons prominent in politics and civic affairs were among those reported listed.

Denies Complicity in Theft.

Mrs. Barad denied complicity in the cigaret theft and said she did not know the identity of the Mangano killers. She did admit, however, that she knew the slaying victim and that she owed him a $700 gambling debt.

The cigarets were stolen July 9 from the American Motor Transport lines, 2500 Taylor st. Destined for overseas shipment, the smokes did not contain federal stamps and the thieves were unable to sell them.

Federal agents under Spencer J. Drayton charge that Mrs. Barad hired a truck in which the cigarets were moved, and rented a store on Ogden av., where they were stored. Police recovered 170 cases there.

Police believe the actual thieves were followers of Mangano, who had a record as a receiver of stolen property, gambler, and operator of houses of prostitution, but that another gang was double crossed on the deal. The latter, according to this theory, then killed Mangano and his bodyguard for revenge.

LYONS CHARGES MACHINE WOOS SOLDIER VOTE

Rips New Deal Claim that Yanks Can't Ballot.

Harrisburg, Ill., Aug 10 [Special].—In an attempt to put over a trick on voters Mayor Kelly's Democratic machine in Chicago has been hurriedly mailing ballot applications to every soldier who might be influenced to vote the New Deal ticket while at the same time machine henchmen are busy telling downstaters that their service kin cannot vote, Richard J. Lyons, Republican candidate for United States senator, charged in an address this afternoon.

The occasion of Lyons' speech was a rally opening the G. O. P. campaign in southern Illinois and a soldiers' and sailors' reunion held at Stonefort near here.

Lyons declared that New Dealers, particularly Sen. Lucas [D., Ill.], are going up and down the state telling the people that Illinois soldiers can not vote in the November election, altho the New Dealers "know they are lying."

Only Illegal Voting Banned.

"They are saying that Gov. Green wouldn't let the soldiers vote, but what they mean is that he wouldn't let them vote the illegal, unconstitutional bobtailed ballot which they conceived to control the vote of our American fighters for the purposes of the New Deal party," Lyons said.

"While the New Deal senator is misrepresenting the facts in his speeches downstate, his partner, Boss Kelly in Chicago, whom you will remember was booed in the national convention of his own party in his own city when he tried to nominate that same New Deal senator for Vice President—that same Boss Kelly has his henchmen combing the machine controled precincts of Chicago, and the machine is sending applications to every fighter they think might vote the New Deal ticket.

25,000 Applications In.

"In fact, on July 31, which was the first day for receiving applications for soldier votes, more than 25,000 applications had been returned by soldiers and sailors from Cook county.

"You see, the Chicago machine is up to its old tricks. It is trying to tell you downstaters your boys can't vote, while it is voting its own boys early.

"The scheme of the big city bosses, Kelly and Flynn and Hague and Crump—and Hannegan, who took over in Missouri where Pendergast left off—to get together with the New Dealers in Washington, and the pinks of the CIO political action crowd, and the Communists and near-Communists to put over the fourth term in Washington will be as futile as the efforts of Illinois' New Deal senator to save his own neck."

Speaking of American victories on all fronts, Lyons said:

"Let no man credit the amazing achievements of American arms to the commander in chief. Let not the brazen New Dealers point to those victories as the special performance of their so-called Win-the-War party.

"What has been accomplished by American arms has been planned by the military and naval genius of America, trained for generations in our war and navy colleges.

"Furthermore, the whole tremendous achievement has been made possible by the miracle of production wrought by the workers in American industry and American agriculture, under our great system of private enterprise. To preserve the fruits of those victories we must preserve the system that made them possible."

Lyons said the issues of 1944 loom far beyond the fate of any individual candidate.

BROWNELL FINDS DEMOCRATS AT WORK FOR DEWEY

New York, Aug. 10 (AP).—Herbert Brownell Jr., Republican national chairman, said today some Democratic leaders in the middle west were "so publicly humiliated and double crossed at the Democratic national convention that they are working for the election of Gov. Dewey."

Brownell referred, he told a press conference on his return from a midwestern tour, to Democrats in Louisville, Ky., but he said he found "similar sentiments" in other "borderline" states.

Predicting that Dewey, the Republican nominee, would carry Missouri, Brownell said the effect of the Democratic convention had been "to convince Missouri voters that the Democratic party had disappeared from the scene, leaving only various factions fighting between themselves."

THE QUESTION.

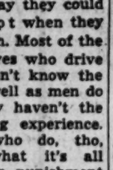
Can women talk themselves out of a jam better than men?

WHERE ASKED.

Town Hall Police station, 3600 N. Halsted st.

THE ANSWERS.

John Klicka, policeman, 2740 N. Mason av.—I would say they could—except when they get tough. Most of the housewives who drive a car don't know the law as well as men do and they haven't the driving experience. Those who do, tho, know what it's all about and take their punishment like a man.



John Petersen, detective, 5744 Pensacola av.—Women are very excitable when they get into trouble. They start talking in a vicious circle. After we get thru with them they usually calm down. However, my wife can wrap me around her little finger, so usually I just say, "Okay, have it your way."

Mary Reed, policewoman, 1606 N. Monitor av.—Absolutely! A woman can certainly talk herself out of a jam easier than a man. When a woman is in a difficult situation she takes it to heart more than a man does. She usually gives a long sob story and says it'll never happen again, that she didn't do wrong intentionally, etc.

Walter Walinski, policeman, 5345 N. Oriole av.—Some women can talk themselves into a worse jam than they're already in by giving a big song and dance. They become so violent that any consideration they may have gotten goes out the window. They pour out their whole history and what they say usually has no bearing on the case.

James Hanley, policeman, 1407 Byron st.—When a man violates a traffic law and sees a policeman approaching, he says, "Okay, give me a ticket." The men don't think about the two or three dollars it will cost as much as a woman. She thinks about the steak or pair of hose the money could buy and talks twice as fast.

Fred Meyer, desk sergeant, 1236 Eddy st.—I'd say it's a tossup. Some try to talk their way out of it and they are really clever. My wife never talks herself out of a jam in any arguments we have. She says, "I can never win an argument with you. If I'm wrong I'm wrong and if I'm right I'm wrong. My daughter agrees with her.

STRIKE CURTAILS ENGINE OUTPUT FOR SUPER FORT

The production of engines for B-29 bombers was seriously curtailed as a strike of tool makers, machinists, and grinders continued into its third day yesterday at the Dodge Chicago plant of the Chrysler corporation. The strike which started Tuesday night over the disciplinary layoff, for three days, of a tool grinder who refused to do work assigned to him, caused 112 workers to leave their jobs in the tool department. Yesterday the number of strikers had risen to 523 out of 710 employed in the department. The strikers are members of the CIO United Automobile Workers union.

The union local's executive board, which remained in session thruout the night to persuade the strikers to return, charged disciplinary layoffs ordered by the company were "arbitrary" and violated contractual provisions for consideration of grievances.

Sixty members of the CIO United Steelworkers union went on strike yesterday causing a serious interruption of production of steel for war materials and machinery at the Steel Sales corporation, 2348 S. Pulaski rd. Thirty employes remained at work, according to Sergeants Kenneth Gorman and Harold Enger of the police labor detail. The strike was called to hurry a war labor board decision on the union's request for a wage increase, Sgt. Gorman said.

STRIKES SPREAD; AWAIT SEIZURE OF TRUCK LINES

The number of workers idle on the nation's troubled labor front yesterday climbed to between 60,000 and 80,000 as the wave of work stoppages since D-day was expanded. The threat of government intervention was virtually the only approach to a break in the major disputes.

President Roosevelt was reported ready to act in the midwestern truck strike which was extended yesterday into new territory. Government seizure of the crippled truck lines which haul over-the-road freight was expected not later than Sunday.

About 25 other labor controversies were in progress thruout the nation. Details of the disputes follow:

Seizure Order Written.

Omaha, Neb., Aug. 10 [Special].—An order for the office of defense transportation to seize strike-stalled truck lines in eight midwestern states has been written and signed and will take effect Sunday, Chairman M. M. Krupinsky, of the Nebraska Operators association said today.

He said there had been a delay in carrying out the seizure. He said the postponement was to perfect ODT plans to handle the vast war essential transportation system that has been paralyzed by the idleness of an estimated 25,000 drivers.

Soldiers Unload Supplies.

Krupinsky said army men have begun unloading some war supplies tied up at Omaha docks with the intention of shipping them to their destination by train.

The truck strike resulted from a war labor board order to increase workers' wages 7 cents an hour and the operators' refusal to pay the higher rate on the ground they cannot do so without the "financial relief" that they say government officials promised them. The controversy has affected over the road transportation in Nebraska, Iowa, Missouri, Minnesota, the Dakotas, Kansas, part of Wisconsin and Oklahoma.

Oklahoma "Sympathy Walkout."

Tulsa, Okla., Aug. 10 [Special].—The midwestern highway transport tie-up was brought into Oklahoma today when drivers started a spontaneous "sympathy walkout" that brought to a standstill truck shipping from Tulsa's busy terminals.

Eddie Stith, chairman of the local operators' negotiating committee, estimated the number of striking drivers at 3,000, but union officials set the figure at 300 to 400.

End Pennsylvania Strike.

Harrisburg, Pa., Aug. 10 (AP).—More than 700 central Pennsylvania truck drivers and helpers tonight ended a five day strike that crippled transportation of vital war materials. The strike started in a dispute over wage increases authorized by the war labor board. The operators had appealed the wage order. The WLB told the union the strike was "unjustifiable" and said prompt consideration would be given the case if the strikers returned promptly.

Two Men Injured.

Paterson, N. J., Aug. 10 [Special].—Two men were injured today in affrays outside plants of the Wright Aeronautical corporation, where several thousand workers are engaged in a strike that is second in size only to the truck strike among the country's labor troubles. Kavery Onisk, 27, a workman, was stabbed with a screwdriver. He said he was not participating in the strike because he has a brother overseas.

Tonight employes balloted to return to their jobs tomorrow and entrust to their leaders arbitration of their grievances with the company. Albert Capone, president of local 689, estimated tonight that 20,000 of the company's 30,000 workers were out.

CIO Officials Warned.

Detroit, Mich., Aug. 10 [Special].—Officials of the CIO United Automobile Workers' union were informed by the war labor board today that a strike of 7,000 employes at the Chevrolet gear and axle division of General Motors must be ended immediately.

Officials of the union, who were called before the WLB in Washington, were flying back here to arrange a mass meeting tomorrow in a renewed effort to end the walkout, which has halted war production.

The WLB issued a formal order outlining its position in refusing to arbitrate the dispute which centers around seven dismissed employes, all key union men, while a strike is in progress.

500 in UMW Strike.

Whitewell, Tenn., Aug. 10 [Special].—More than 500 members of the United Mine Workers' union were on strike today at the Tennessee Products corporation pits in a disagreement over reassignment of a weighman.

New Strike Foreseen.

Dubuque, Ia., Aug. 10 [Special].—Reports were current here today that 1,400 mill workers in three Dubuque firms will walk out tomorrow because of a delay by the war labor board in settling a dispute involving the AFL Carpenters' union in 13 midwest millworking companies. The reports reached the WLB in Washington but spokesmen there said they had no information on the matter. An interim report has been received by the WLB from a national panel which held hearings in Chicago but this report made no recommendations concerning wage increases sought by the union. The WLB explained the panel still is considering that phase of the controversy.

1,500 Walk Out.

Muncie, Ind., Aug. 10 [Special].—Four plants of the Warner Gear company here were closed today following a walkout of 1,500 workers. Union spokesmen attributed the strike to a "pileup of grievances."

Strikers Blame WLB.

New Castle, Ind., Aug. 10 [Special].—The Ingersoll Steel plant here suspended operations today after 375 members of the CIO United Automobile Workers' union struck in an action they attributed to war labor board delay in making a decision on a contract.

SEDITION TRIAL TOLD OF PACELLI AND F.D.R. TALK

Washington, D. C., Aug. 10 (AP).—A letter purportedly written by a defendant in the mass sedition conspiracy trial, asserting that Pope Pius XII—then Cardinal Pacelli, papal secretary of state—discussed with President Roosevelt and others "delivery" of the Catholic vote in 1936, has been admitted to trial records.

The letter, attributed to defendant Eugene N. Sanctuary of New York, retired army colonel, was addressed to another defendant, William Dudley Pelley, former leader of the Silver Shirts. Dated July 21, 1941, it said:

"The deal which you referred to about the delivery of the 1936 Catholic vote was made on a Pullman when Roosevelt, Farley, Mundelein, Gallagher, Pacelli [now Pope] and a congressman were present. I am sworn to secrecy about the name of the member of the house."

Naval Surgeon Meets His Son

Praises Morale

The morale of fighters in the Southwest Pacific is "terrific," and even the most critically wounded never forget how to "laugh it off," Lt. William F. Jacobs, Chicago born navy surgeon, said yesterday.

Lt. Jacobs, who is visiting his wife and their son, William Jr., 6 months old, in the Del Prado hotel, was wounded Sept. 4 when Japanese dive bombers scored hits with two 500 pound bombs on his ship in the invasion of Lae and Salamaua. As a patient in seven hospitals since then, Lt. Jacobs said he has had an opportunity to note the complacency of wounded heroes.

The navy surgeon, a graduate of the University of Illinois college of medicine, who afterward taught at Loyola university and was an associate surgeon at Cook County hospital, said navy and army medical technique and facilities are the finest in the world.

Boy Killed on Eve of Third Birthday in 4 Story Fall

On the eve of his third birthday Ronald Thompson crawled upon a couch in his fourth floor home at 4015 Lake Park av., yesterday, to "look at the lake," pushed against a screen, and was fatally injured in a 50 foot plunge to the concrete pavement.

CIVIL WAR PERIL FACES EUROPE, LUCAS ASSERTS

Mendon, Ill., Aug. 10 (AP).—Sen. Lucas [D., Ill.] stated today "civil war in some European countries is an actual possibility unless those nations retain confidence in the leadership of the United States and the coöperation of the allied nations in the immediate post-war period."

Speaking at the Adams county fair in support of a fourth term for President Roosevelt, he continued: "Ask yourselves which of the two candidates for president would exert world leadership and influence in such a crisis? Ask yourself which of the two candidates might influence world affairs to the end that civil war in Europe might be avoided?"

Lucas is seeking reëlection in November.

Four hundred unclaimed bicycles were sold at auction yesterday in the police department auto pound at 30th st. and California av. The bicycles, including many probably stolen and abandoned, had been collected since Dec. 7, 1941, but efforts to trace ownership were unsuccessful.

THE WIN THE WAR PARTY ON THE JOB.

Some 60,000 workers are on strike thruout the nation at a time when the army and the WPB are urging every effort to increase war production. This, as apologists for unions' sabotage of war production are so fond of pointing out, is only a small fraction of 1 per cent of the nation's war workers. The number of strikers, however, is no index of the interference with production.

The AFL teamsters' union, whose president, Dan Tobin, seconded the fourth term nomination at the Stadium, estimates that it has 30,000 over-the-road drivers on strike in the middle west. More than half of the war plants in this area get their raw materials and deliver their finished parts to other war contractors by truck. The truck strike thus is hampering production in and, if continued, will very quickly cause shutdowns of plants employing millions of workers.

The truckers are striking because their employers have refused to pay a wage increase ordered by the war labor board. The employers say they will go broke if they pay the increase. They assert that two months ago the office of defense transportation, the office of economic stabilization, and the interstate commerce commission all agreed that they should have financial relief in the form of rate increases in order to meet the pay boosts ordered, but the rate increases have not been forthcoming. One group of Roosevelt's win-the-war burocrats can order the operators to increase wages, but other groups can't get around to providing the money with which to pay them.

Even if they can get their employes back to work the truck operators find it increasingly difficult to keep trucks on the road. They can't get heavy duty tires. And while war transportation is suffering for lack of tires the CIO rubber workers' union is sabotaging production of those tires in the factories in Akron. The war man power commission has just finished an eight week survey of the four largest tire plants in that city. It was discovered that the union members had set their own production limits and that in the tire building departments and other departments making tire components the employes frequently quit work at any time from a half hour to an hour and a half before the end of their eight hour shift, even tho they had plenty of materials at hand with which to work.

The survey disclosed also that hundreds of workers have identical earnings for two or three months at a time, whether they were paid hourly or piece work rates. Neither experience, age, nor strength affected their individual production. The evidence is clear that there was a concerted movement, thru the union, to keep employes from turning out all the critically needed war goods that they were capable of making. It is so clear, in fact, that the WMC has suppressed the report. The facts cited were obtained from sources in the industry, to whom the report was made available.

Seven thousand CIO members in Detroit are back on the picket line again at Chevrolet and Briggs automobile plants, where they were making various war products. A settlement of an 11 day strike lasted only one day. That strike also was caused by union resistance to a program for getting full production out of the plants. Mob picketing is in progress in Paterson, N. J., where 8,500 employes of the Wright Aeronautical corporation have been on a wildcat strike for three days.

Mr. Roosevelt calls it the Win the War party. It is the New Deal-CIO party. Sidney Hillman is furnishing the slush fund out of dues extorted from war workers thru the maintenance of membership contracts imposed by Roosevelt's war labor board. The CIO has taken over the Democratic party. In Michigan it dictated the nominations on the Democratic state ticket.

The war doesn't mean a thing to the "Win the War" party. It is being run as a racket to increase the economic and political power of the owners of the union franchises and their New Deal allies. If war production suffers they don't care. They are going to get theirs first.

PATRIOTS MUST ORGANIZE.

A new organization called Americans United for World Organization has been formed in New York City for the establishment of a world state, world police force, and all the other trappings intended to vitiate American sovereignty, rob America of any victory in the war, and place her destiny at the disposal of the European empire builders. The organization is composed of 11 lesser outfits, including the Committee to Defend America by Aiding the Allies, Freedom House, the Union for Democratic Action, and other pre-war interventionist societies, some of them Communist dominated.

The promoters of this new confederation chose the wrong name. They should have called it Unpatriotic Americans United. Their aim is the complete sellout of America to the foreign powers in which each one of them is interested—the snobs would give us away to England, the Communists to the soviet, and the Francophiles to a new France or a continental entente. These are the people who are trying to tell American soldiers that they are fighting and dying for England, for France, for Russia, or for some other foreign country. They are the people who would make America a European dependency, a call order warehouse to supply money, world police, munitions, and goods for the gain of the foreign powers they serve.

Fortunately there are a good many million Americans who give their allegiance only to the United States and who will tolerate no sellout of American sovereignty and substance. They are fighting for a strong America, and they are determined that cause shall not fail. Patriots all over the nation must unite against the unpatriotic groups of tories and alien-minded persons who have the support and approval of the New Dealers and the fourth term candidate.

NEWSPAPER FARMS.

The Atlanta Constitution announced the other day that it had purchased a 1,000 acre farm to keep pace with the "abundant agricultural future" of the state of Georgia. The newspaper said that members of its staff will study operations on the farm in order that they may "better and more understandingly serve the vast farming population on whom they depend for their professional and economic existence." The Constitution's foresight deserves commendation. Experience has shown us the benefits of newspaper farms both to THE TRIBUNE and its readers.

THE TRIBUNE began to operate farms 10 years ago, and now has two of them—one at Wheaton and another at Yorkville, totaling 2,300 acres. From first hand experience in farming, THE TRIBUNE has been able to give better counsel and advice to farmers and gardeners thruout the middle west on all of their problems. Our mistakes warned them against bad farming practices, and they were encouraged by our successes. THE TRIBUNE has been able to give unbiased and practical tests to new methods and machines developed in the agricultural research laboratories, and when corn borers, drouths, New Deal questionnaires, and all the other evil things that can happen to farmers came along we were with them in their anguish and the better able to help them because we were one of them.

When the war and food rationing caused whole neighborhoods to turn to war gardening, THE TRIBUNE drew upon years of know-how in soil preparation, seeding, and cultivation at The Tribune farms to help them. We have operated paper mills, steamship lines, an alcohol plant, and numerous other industrial ventures outside our immediate field, but no single project has brought the enjoyment and close understanding between our readers and ourselves that came from The Tribune farms. We welcome the Constitution to the small and select company of farming newspapers.

THE FIRST COMMUNIST QUEEN.

The Netherlands Information bureau, which is the official Dutch propaganda agency in this country, has just released an outline of the social, political, and economic reforms which it says the various underground groups in the Netherlands insist must be instituted after their nation is liberated. The program was published as a joint manifesto by the newspapers Vrij Nederland, which the information bureau describes as conservative, and Het Parool, described as Socialist.

The manifesto calls for unquestioned allegiance to Queen Wilhelmina and for continuation of what is styled "a parliamentary democratic state" under her crown. Recommendations for dealing with the inevitable chaos attendant on the expulsion of the Nazis are what could be expected from cool headed, law abiding Dutchmen. There is to be no private vengeance nor private reclamation of expropriated property, but the whole machinery of restored Dutch government and law is to be geared to the detection and punishment of traitors and Nazi collaborationists.

For the future, however, the manifesto rejects the Dutch government as it existed before the German invasion. While it pays lip service to parliamentarianism and civil rights, some of the demands of the underground movement are summarized by the information bureau as follows:

"It is said that the times demand an extension to the social field of the democratic principles of a 'voice in the government,' necessitating a representation of workers and consumers in industrial management.

"The opinion is expressed that liberal, capitalist production methods do not guarantee people social security and should, therefore, be replaced by 'a system of national and international management abolishing production for profit.'"

The alternative to production for profit is production for use. Production for use goes even beyond the Socialist demand for government ownership of the instruments of production. It is Communist theory, altho even in Russia the Communists have not as yet succeeded in putting it into practice. If this is as accurate a representation of the sentiment of her people as her own official propaganda agency sets it forth to be, Wilhelmina will be returning to the Netherlands in a unique position. She will be the world's first Communist queen.

The manifesto is, of course, fatally contradictory. It is futile to talk about parliamentary government, minority rights, and civil liberties when the whole economic system is controled to its most ultimate detail by the state, as it must be if a system of production for use is established. The rulers who fled over the waters are finding that strange ferments have been working in their absence.

ETYMOLOGICAL NOTE.
[St. Louis Post-Dispatch.]

As officially stated, the purpose of the new arrangement is "to promote fighting potentials" and "drastic simplification of administration with an aim of bringing to bear the government's political will on all spheres of population." In Washington, Maury Maverick calls such language "Gobbledegook." As it now becomes clear, he would have done equally well to call it Japanese.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

Hew to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

Reg. U. S. Pat. Office

NOW: THE OR TWO CLUB.

There are two good reasons why we have chosen this day for announcing the birth of The OR TWO Club. First, it will save paper, and this is Save Paper week. Second, since the project is experimental, in fact almost revolutionary, we are eager to launch it in the absence of Dr. Collins and without his knowledge or consent. He may come roaring back at any moment and hurl us into the alley, but at least we shall have had our day—we shall have lived.

The OR TWO Club, then, is to be dedicated to the ideals expressed in the venerable name of this column, A Line o' Type OR TWO. Membership will be limited to those contribs who, being masters of terseness, are able to say their say in one line or two lines, including the signature. Furthermore, this does not mean one or two typewritten lines, but one or two lines of print in the column. Those who have three letter signatures will enjoy an advantage, perhaps unfair, but why didn't the others think of that before we thought of making the rule?

The clubroom will be a space two or three inches deep, varying from day to day and depending on various considerations, such as how many contribs meet the requirements and how much loquacity the Linemaster greedily allows himself in the unrestricted upper region in which his rule is absolute. If he takes a notion to annex Czechoslovakia some morning, it will be just too bad for the club and some of the members may have to go underground pending The Day.

There is one thought to which we hope Dr. Collins will give due consideration before declaring the whole project out of order. Suppose he is down in the composing room putting the next day's Line together and, all of a sudden, Mr. Pferdner [his special compositor] tells him "Type ain't rubber and you gotta cut out two lines." Ah, that will be the moment when The OR TWO Club will justify its existence. Assassinate one contrib and the trick is done!

[The first meeting of The OR TWO Club will be found somewhere between here and the bottom of the column.]

Linemaster: My skinny husband, who solves all the world's biggest problems every morning at breakfast, likes to compare himself with the famous statesmen of history. But you should have seen how I stopped him yesterday when he came up with an anecdote about the elder Pitt. "This Pitt [says my darling] was as skinny as I am, especially in the region of the hip pockets, and so the favorite joke in parliamentary circles was to call him 'the bottomless Pitt'." You should have been there to witness my comeback. "Dearie [says I], I got to give you credit. You are like Pitt, but [and at this point I got the kitchen door open just in case] the resemblance [I tell him] will never be more than fundamental." Alice.

Friend of Yanks' Kin
By Sally Joy Brown

[This department answers questions related to help available to relatives of service men in the column or by mail, if stamped, addressed envelopes are sent to Sally Joy Brown.]

Mrs. R. M. writes: "My brother has been overseas for several years and I find it increasingly difficult to find suitable gifts for him. This Christmas I intend to send several magazine subscriptions and wonder if they will be accepted without a written request from the soldier, inasmuch as they will be Christmas gifts."

No. Last year such items were considered as gifts during the Christmas mailing period and it was not necessary to have a written request from the soldier, but this year the war department has announced that magazine and newspaper subscriptions, even tho intended as Christmas gifts, must be accompanied by a letter of request. This does not apply to men in the navy, marine corps, or Coast Guard.

We have a new bulletin which provides complete information on Christmas mailing, wrapping, etc. Because regulations vary, please specify the branch of service involved when sending a self-addressed envelope for this bulletin.

TRENCH MOUTH GAINING.

TRENCH mouth, or Vincent's angina, is widespread—at least, in mild form. It has now become so general that many cities insist that all cases shall be reported to the health department.

The reason is that it is not only a destroyer of wellbeing, but may become mildly epidemic. In one of our populous communities, several hundred victims were reported in 1943. In the last 10 years, nearly 2,500 persons have been afflicted.

We risk infection every time we touch articles, other than food, to the lips. They may be clean and again they may not. The point is that the organisms can be carried by almost anything, particularly eating utensils and dishes. Thus every one who "eats out" may be exposed if tableware is not sanitary. Much of the rapid dishwashing practiced at lunch counters and soda fountains is unsatisfactory. Even with the paper shortage we can insist upon individual paper cups.

The cause was identified by Vincent, of the Pasteur Institute of Paris. He discovered that a spirallike species was usually associated with a special type of germ found in the neighborhood of unsound teeth. Apparently these two varieties constitute a team. Together they can assault the tissues successfully. One produces ideal conditions for the growth of the other.

The malady may start as a simple ulcer. Later, pyorrhea develops, with the formation of tiny abscesses. Still later, the gum margins recede and teeth may be loosened to such an extent that chewing is interfered with. As a rule, the breath will be foul and the foundation is thus laid for a chronic condition which eventually will involve the digestive tract.

How can we prevent this destructive disorder? Every one can practice good hygiene of the oral cavity and use separate drinking glasses, wash cloths, and towels. Many of us cling to old, polluted toothbrushes which are rarely sterilized. It would be a good idea to plunge the brush into hot water and soapsuds every day. If a member of the family is attacked, more than ordinary precautions may be adopted.

Should the condition be detected early, we can use a mild antiseptic mouth wash routinely. In addition, sodium perborate [which supplies free oxygen] will create a situation which will prevent the microbes from propagating. Now and then, swabs of stronger remedies will need to be applied directly to the ulcers. But all such treatment should be directed by the family dentist or doctor. I saw a patient recently with whom the antiseptic caused more damage than the disease.

Occasionally, from a local infection, the ailment will become systemic, but with care we can ward off fever, malaise, and exhaustion. If such symptoms present themselves, more drastic measures will be demanded.

On general principles it is well to give plenty of vitamins, chiefly C. Furthermore, we can make certain that some of the gargles employed will furnish oxygen, in the presence of which the causative bacteria cannot exist.

CONTENTED HOURS.

Mrs. R. writes: What can be done to cure lonesomeness in a woman of 74? She has lost her old friends and cannot make new ones. She has no family.

REPLY.

Good reading, various types of fancy work including needlepoint, listening to the world's best music via radio and records, and the cultivation of a hobby. Try clipping the health articles, for example, to see if you can catch the editor in a mistake.

OFF WITH THE OLD, ETC.

L. J. writes: Is it true that as some diseases are conquered, others come along to plague us?

REPLY.

It would seem so. We may be at fault, however. With strict sanitation, we could stamp out relatively new disorders such as undulant fever, Rocky mountain fever, etc.

KOCH.

R. L. writes: What is Koch's disease?

REPLY.

No such malady listed. You may have in mind pulmonary tuberculosis, inasmuch as Robert Koch discovered the causative bacillus.

THE OSTRICH

Front Views & Profiles
By MARCIA WINN

The Hour Is Late.

Hear the guns, heavy guns;
Hear the marching of your sons
On the roads of Normandy.

Hark the planes, throbbing planes
Plunging thru the lofty lanes
Over land and over sea.

Hear the wailing, bitter wailing
Of a grief that's unavailing;
What must be, alas, must be.

Ah, but after, golden after!
Flowers, wine, and happy laughter—
And a sleeping memory.

Homecoming.

It happened the other day. A long troop train pulled into Chicago. On board were men from the South Pacific coming home for the first time in 30 months. Somewhere on the west side the train halted, a long halt. One of the boys looked up abstractedly from his game of cards, glanced absent-mindedly out the window, and let out a yelp. "Say!" he yelled, "This is my neighborhood! Why, there, there—" and he beckoned excitedly to his fellows, "there's my old man's butcher shop! Look, you can see it from here." And he pointed to a small shop barely visible a block away.

The train was sealed. None of the returning soldiers or marines could get off, but a trainman heard the excitement and drew near. "That shop over there, son?" he asked, pointing. The boy said yes. With that the trainman took to his heels and raced over. "Hey," he yelled to the man behind the butcher counter. "Forget that stuff. I've got your boy over here on a train. He's back!"

The butcher, enmeshed in a busy Saturday trade, looked up, aghast. He dropped his knives, his saws, his meat, and loped out the door, his butcher's apron still around his waist. His customers ran after him. Traffic stopped to let them pass. Soon other shop keepers joined in the rush. Housewives left their kitchens and loped out to the train siding. Soon the whole neighborhood, one of those warm, friendly little neighborhoods in which Chicago abounds, where every one knows every one else, was there.

It must have been a beautiful thing, and a fact worth noting is that when the butcher later returned to his shop, after the train had moved on to a point far from Chicago where the returning boys would be released for furlough, his cash register was just as he had left it. So, possibly more startling in times of meat rationing, was his meat.

Days of Hope Dept.

Marketing Is Fun Note.

The young woman pawed vigorously over the counter of sweet corn in the grocery. "O," she cried in disgust, holding one ear gingerly aloft, "this one has a big worm on it." The grocer snatched the ear away. "Listen, lady," he protested, "are you shopping for worms or for corn?"

Sailor Ashore.

A Chicago couple who occupy a first floor apartment were awakened early one Sunday by a pounding on the door of their janitor's basement apartment. The man of the house got up, looked out the window, and saw a sailor below. "Trying to get in?" he asked unnecessarily. "Yes," the sailor replied. "My cousins live here, and they don't know I'm in town." The Chicagoan said he thought the janitor had left the city for the week-end, but would the sailor like to come up and have breakfast with him and his wife? The sailor said he would, but he'd like to get into his cousin's flat first. So the Chicagoan lent him a chisel and advice, and the sailor jimmied a window. Soon he was upstairs, happily wolfing down a breakfast. At its conclusion the woman of the house said perhaps he'd like to go back to his cousin's and rest. "Well, no," the sailor said hesitantly. "I think not. When I got in, I found it wasn't my cousin's flat after all."

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

Writers should confine themselves to 200 or 300 words. Give full names and addresses. No manuscripts can be returned. Address Voice of the People, THE TRIBUNE.

THEY CAN SELL NEW DEAL APPLES THIS TIME.

Chicago, Aug. 7.—I have read many times of the wonderful things this administration is doing for the returning veteran, and, hence would like to submit my experience.

Upon my discharge from the army I went to the United States employment agency where, after spending an hour, I was finally interviewed by the veteran's representative. After looking over my qualifications [a degree in law, two years of schooling in Europe in languages, and a graduate of the United States army clerical school] I was told very curtly that they had nothing for me, and that "I should look in the papers." I left, very bewildered and angry, with memories of the returning veteran of 1918. I thereupon went to a private employment agency where I immediately secured employment at a cost of $90.

About six months later I received a letter from the United States employment agency asking if I would be interested in a position as a veteran's representative as there was a position open. Knowing what had happened to me, I thought that this should not happen to another returning soldier and went to see them. I spent about one hour filling out various forms and was told that they would let me know within a few weeks. One week passed and I received a letter asking for my discharge papers, which I sent. A week later was asked to produce my citizenship papers [I have been in this country since I was 6 months old]. These I also sent. Another week passed and I was informed that I had to submit proof of lawful entry into this country. I thereupon inclosed a 50 cent money order and wrote to the department of justice. After two weeks had passed the department of justice returned my money order stating that it had to be a government postal money order. This request also was complied with. Six weeks passed and the department of justice stated that they were giving my request their attention.

Four months after I had applied for the position I received a letter stating that the position had been filled. Why was I asked so many questions when I wished to apply for a position with the government when at the time of my enlistment two years before no questions were asked? After my experience with this administration, if they are allowed to remain in power, I expect my fellow soldiers to be selling apples on the corners as their fathers did after the World war.
EX-CORPORAL.

HOSTILITIES BUT NO ADVANTAGES.

Warrenville, Ill., Aug. 7.—Some people have made the statement that we must keep Mr. Roosevelt in office for a fourth term because there is no other man in America so skilled in world diplomacy.

I have just looked up the full meaning of the word "diplomacy" in Webster's dictionary and find it described as "artful management in securing advantages without arousing hostilities."

This description certainly fits Mr. Churchill and Mr. Stalin, but I am trying hard to discover what advantages Mr. Roosevelt has secured for the United States. REVELLE DUX.

NOT INDISPENSABLE.

Toledo, O., Aug. 7.—Hitler may be indispensable to Germany, but Roosevelt is not indispensable to the United States of America.
HARRY L. HASKELL.

DEVALUED DOLLARS.

Chicago, Aug. 4.—All of us, Democrat or Republican, laborer or millionaire, are interested in keeping up the purchasing power of the dollar. Some of use even have brains enough to understand that calling a bit of paper a dollar does not give it the purchasing power of one, and every one knows that the dollar of today will only buy about half as much as the dollar of four years ago, and that decrease is due entirely to Mr. Roosevelt's policies. Also reason tells us that a promise to pay of an individual, a corporation, or a nation declines in proportion to the individual's, corporation's, or nation's debts, as witness the old German mark, the French franc, and dozens of other currencies. Another four years of Roosevelt with his Santa Claus ideas may perhaps see all life insurance, social securities, pensions, etc., worthless. Such things have happened all over the world in the past by nations spending more than they take in. Why not here?

What do increased wages amount to if you cannot buy any more with them than you could with the old pay? Or are Mr. Roosevelt and others with Nazi ideas right in thinking that the average voter is so dumb that he needs a guardian? CHARLIE HAWKINS.

LEND-LEASE AFTER THE WAR.

Chicago, Aug. 7.—Today's TRIBUNE carries the statement "Britain pleads for lend-lease after the war." She wants us poor nitwits to keep on paying huge taxes so we can continue pouring money, clothing, food, etc., in her lap. Then, when she has herself nicely stabilized and all set up for business as usual, where will we be? We'll still be staggering under a burden of taxes, she will have our commercial trade all sewed up, and we will be holding an empty bag except for debt, disabled and jobless veterans, hungry children, more WPA, and dole.

Then Britain can laugh in our dumb faces and say, "See, we always knew the British were vawstly superiah to the Americans." I say when the war is over we've done all we should, and more. Let them sink or swim for themselves from there on out. They've used us for cat's paws long enough. Or will we have to fight for our independence? MRS. HENRY KAMINSKI.

THE FLAG AND THE ANTHEM.

Cleveland, O., Aug. 5.—I happened to be in Chicago the week of July 30, attending the Elks convention, and while there attended several shows. The greatest disappointment to me was when the entire audience arose, including men and officers of the service, for the playing of the national anthem and not an American flag present. I immediately told my friends that this was against the flag code of the United States. The flag must be present when this is played. C. SAM DREYER.

CIO REBELS TELL 'BACK F.D.R. OR BE FIRED' EDICT

Letter by Grant Oakes Is Called Veiled Threat.

BY GEORGE HARTMANN.

Members and officers of local CIO United Farm Equipment and Metal Workers' unions protested yesterday against what they described as a veiled threat by Grant Oakes, president of the international union, that they will be expelled if they interfere with the Communists in their local unions or fail to support wholeheartedly the CIO political action activities for the reëlection of President Roosevelt.

Grant Oakes.

The local officers and members said the so-called threat was received in the form of a resume of the action taken by the UFEMW executive board against six members at the tractor works of the International Harvester company early this week.

The six were expelled from membership on charges that they held "secret meetings during which they planned the ouster of reds from the local union." On Tuesday the company received a demand from the CIO union that the six be discharged from their jobs because they are not "members in good standing."

Letter Recites Union Pledge.

"The expelled persons had been the spearhead of a movement to wreck the local union and to reduce it to a state in which it would no longer fight for the demands of the workers," said Oakes' letter to the locals. "Our union is pledged to adhere to CIO policy to back the war effort, to fight strikes, and to uphold our President, Roosevelt. Like other international unions we have found a few members within our ranks who connive against and disrupt the fulfillment of that CIO program."

The union officers who complained said they had been ordered to warn their memberships that if they did not "follow the CIO political line and quit interfering with the Communists they would be fired from the union and would lose their jobs like 'the smart guys at International Harvester'."

The Harvester case resume sent to the locals revealed that the UFEMW executive board was guided by a resolution adopted by the board May 29, 1943, wherein anti-Communists are called "Red baiters" whom "the international union should take whatever steps necessary to eliminate."

Members Repudiate Expulsions.

During the reading of the expulsion order at a meeting of the tractor works local last Sunday, several hundred members protested and created such a bedlam that the chairman and his followers left without adjourning the meeting, it was learned yesterday. The remaining 226 members then voted "not to recognize the expulsion."

Joseph Weber, the international organizer of the UFEMW union who reportedly ordered the expulsion of the six Harvester workers, was revealed to be a Communist of many aliases. The name given him at his birth on March 12, 1904, in Grohete, Yugoslavia, was Josip Ruic, records reveal. He always has used his given name, Joe, but since he was graduated in 1929 from the Moscow Lenin school, where he majored in strike strategy and revolutionary tactics, he has used the aliases of Weber, Ruick, Ross, Ray, Judson, and Hudson.

JURY HEARS FIVE IN PHILADELPHIA STRIKE INQUIRY

Philadelphia, Pa., Aug. 10 [Special].—Mayor Bernard Samuel and James H. Malone, director of public safety, today headed a list of officials who told the federal grand jury what they knew of the six day strike which paralyzed the Philadelphia Transportation company system last week.

Testimony of the witnesses was not disclosed, but Henry A. Schweinhaut, special assistant to the attorney general, said it was so extensive that only five of the 10 persons scheduled to have appeared today were questioned before the jurors recessed. Other witnesses included included Frank L. McNamee, regional director of the war labor board, and G. James Fleming, regional director of the fair employment practices committee.

With calm continuing to prevail thruout the city, it became known that 400 of the federal troops which took over the lines would be released for other duties tomorrow.

Aug. 10, 1944.

A NEW field machine is being tested at the Wheaton farm. It is designed to do the job of plowing, disking, and harrowing all in one operation, and the men are excited over its possibilities.

In principle the machine is an oversized garden rotary tiller. It is pulled and powered by the tractor and has a hydraulic attachment for raising or lowering while operating. The machine does not turn the ground over as does a plow but stirs and beats it to a depth of about six inches.

In the middle of a revolving axle is a small lister blade. When set into the ground this blade serves to keep the machine working the ground at a certain depth.

Dig as They Smash.

On both sides of the lister are a series of curved iron arms, somewhat like the teeth on a spring toothed harrow. These irons do the actual job of stirring the earth. Placed so they revolve close to each other, they dig into the ground and smash the clods in one operation.

In one test the tiller was run over a bad piece of quack grass in one of the alfalfa fields. Two trips over one strip of ground and the quack grass was torn out and the roots brought to the surface where the sun quickly killed them. The machine left the soil pulverized and in a good mulch condition.

Disadvantages Told.

The advantages of the tiller are many. It does away with the long and expensive job of fitting ground for planting. In two trips over a field it can leave the ground in a condition that could be approximated only by a plowing, four or five diskings, and a harrowing with the usual type of field equipment. Fitting ground becomes an easy task quickly performed with the tiller.

The tiller also has quite a few disadvantages. It is extremely heavy and the tractor must travel in low gear to pull it. A caterpiller tractor is the best type of power to use for the tiller.

The axle on which the iron arms are mounted is only four feet long and hence it takes a long time to cover much ground. An acre an hour probably is the best operating speed.

Those are the facts discovered in the tests run so far at the farm. The manager plans to continue trying out the tiller under varying conditions to discover the full range of its abilities. The men are wondering how it will handle heavy stalk land this fall.

★ The GARDEN ★

GARDENERS sometimes confuse the corn borer with the corn ear worm. The ear worm is slightly larger than the borer, being more than an inch long. In color it varies from light green to brown, but usually has a brownish tinge. Unlike the borer, which drills into the stalks and thru the ear husks, the ear worm enters thru the silks and feeds on the kernels.

If ear worm infestation is not heavy, the insects merely damage a few of the terminal kernels, which can be cut off before cooking. Grocer's string tied tightly around the ear about two inches from the tip provides a barrier to the insects. There are commercially bottled insecticides on the market made only for this particular insect, the liquid being placed into the silks with a medicine dropper. Application of this insecticide will control the ear worms in small gardens, but is not practical for large plots of sweet corn.

CIO LEADER GETS JAIL TERM FOR LIE UNDER OATH

New York, Aug. 10 [Special].—Thomas V. De Lorenzo, 35, CIO union president, was sentenced to 30 days imprisonment and fined $500 today in federal court where he was found guilty of having falsely sworn to the United States civil service commission that he did not have a criminal record.

He is president of local 365 of the United Automobile Workers, which represents employes of the Brewster Aeronautical corporation plant.

Arrested Three Times.

The statements adjudged false were made in his application to the civil service commission for appointment as a member of the war labor board. To refute his assertion he had no criminal record, evidence was submitted to show he had been arrested three times and had been indicted, altho subsequent charges were dismissed.

Asst. U. S. Atty. Thomas F. Murphy said De Lorenzo was arrested March 15, 1933, on a disorderly conduct charge; on Dec. 16, 1933, on a homicide by automobile charge, and July 7, 1941, on charges of inciting a riot and malicious mischief, for which he later was indicted.

Used Eight Names.

As a witness last fall before a congressional subcommittee investigating production at the Brewster plant, De Lorenzo acknowledged that he has used eight different names "when they come in handy."

He said he had lied in a number of official documents, among them his 1940 income tax return and hi. draft board record. Asked how far he intended to continue lying, the CIO leader replied: "Frankly, I will lie at all times in order to support myself."

The sentence today was imposed by Federal Judge John McDuffie, who then released De Lorenzo in $2,000 bail pending appeal. The defendant had faced a maximum penalty of 10 years imprisonment and $10,000 fine for conviction on the charges contained in the indictment against him.

ACTOR TAKES HIS BRAWL WOUNDS TO D.A.'S OFFICE

Hall Displays Mutilated Sport Coat, Too.

Los Angeles, Cal., Aug. 10 [Special].—Perspiring freely thru his brown silk shirt, Jon Hall, tanned and bandaged hero of the movies, today visited the district attorney's office as the first "invitational witness" in the investigation of "the battle of the balcony" staged at Band Leader Tommy Dorsey's apartment early Saturday.

Hall wore a bandage on the tip of his nose and a small patch on a wound under his chin. His other facial adornments were long sideburns that he had grown for his role as slave to an Egyptian princess.

Ends Up in Free for All.

Hall was the most seriously injured participant in the brawl that followed an all-night party at Dorsey's Sunset Plaza dr. apartment. He said hostilities started after he playfully put his arms around Actress Pat Dane, the band leader's wife.

What apparently started as a "man to man" fight between Hall and Dorsey ended up as a free for all in which residents of an adjoining apartment were reported to have joined. Besides fists and feet, other weapons mentioned were knives and flower pots.

Hall suffered a broken nose and cuts on the head and face. As he went to see District Atty. Fred Howser, Hall said he intended to tell all he knew about the fracas.

"Of course," he said, "I don't know too much about it. I was pretty busy protecting myself after the first few seconds."

One of His Exhibits.

As an exhibit, he brought along a sport coat he said he was wearing at the time of the fight. The left sleeve bore four slash marks. The right was ripped from the shoulder. A number of spots on it appeared to be blood stains.

Howser has asserted he will make a thoro investigation "in view of the fact that Jon Hall has publicly indicated that he thinks he has been the victim of a criminal assault."

Two other participants in the battle, Eddie Norris, actor and former husband of Ann Sheridan, and Miss Jane Churchill, society singer who says she is a third cousin of the British prime minister, will see the district attorney tomorrow. Norris suffered two black eyes, and Miss Churchill admitted engaging in a dress ripping contest with Miss Dane.

Want to See Attorneys.

The Dorseys and Allan Smiley, assistant movie director, have indicated a willingness to appear, but said they preferred to talk to their attorneys first.

Another witness will be Tony Icaza, Panamanian actor, who has filed a $40,000 damage suit against Dorsey and nine others—seven John Does and two Jane Does. He charges Dorsey whacked him on the ear with a broken bottle.

VICTIMS' ANTICS BLAMED IN CRASH OF FERRIS WHEEL

Condition of three victims, including two soldiers, who were injured Wednesday night in the crash of a Ferris wheel gondola at 51st and Elizabeth sts., was reported favorable yesterday. They are Sgt. Thaddeus Pajak, 21, of 4552 McDowell av., and Pvt. Frank S. Laff, 20, of 4634 S. Bishop st., who are in the Gardiner General hospital, and Joseph Fron, 23, of 5114 S. Loomis st., in the Evangelical hospital.

Fron suffered head and back injuries and his doctor said there was a possibility his back was broken.

Building department officials absolved Anton Guza, operator of the wheel, of any blame for the accident. Edward J. Carey, acting head of the department's elevator division, said the soldiers, despite warnings, turned somersaults in the car, causing it to pitch downward. Fron, who was in a car below, also was carried to the ground.

Without Painful Backache

Many sufferers relieve nagging backache quickly, once they discover that the real cause of their trouble may be tired kidneys.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking the excess acids and waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.

When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

JACKIE COOPER POSTS BAIL ON MORALS CHARGE

Case Involving Girl in Civil Court.

South Bend, Ind., Aug. 10 [Special].—Jackie Cooper, 21, former Hollywood movie star, and George Bender, 24, Sheffield, Ill., were at liberty under bonds tonight at the Notre Dame naval training station, where they are V-12 trainees, after surrendering to St. Joseph county authorities on charges of contributing to the delinquency of a 15 year old South Bend girl.

Their surrender to Sheriff Steve Molnar took place after the secretary of the navy, acting on a demand from Prosecutor Albert F. Scheer, had ordered their release to civil authorities. Juvenile Referee Albert L. Doyle, before whom the cases will be heard, previously had fixed Cooper's bond at $1,000 and Bender's at $1,500.

Outgrowth of Party.

Their arrest was the outgrowth of a party in South Bend's Hotel La Salle, during which the girl allegedly was seduced by Bender in a ninth floor room which the prosecutor's office charged Cooper with engaging.

Two others also are under arrest in connection with the party, Pauline Frederick, 19, South Bend, described as Cooper's companion that night and Olie Lowery, Negro waiter in the Brandywine room of the hotel, who was charged with serving drinks to the 15 year old and a 16 year old girl before they went to the hotel's ninth floor.

Drive on Illegal Liquor.

Miss Frederick was accused of inviting the girls to the party and encouraging the 16 year old one to stay over night in one of the three rooms Cooper engaged.

Meanwhile, police continued their drive to curb illegal liquor sales to minors by arresting one tavern owner and employes of two others on charges of furnishing intoxicants to persons under 21. The three are Amy Kekko, proprietress of the Showboat; Vincent F. Mejer, bartender at the Bowl-Mor bar, and Cleo Ryan, waitress in the Jefferson grill. Cases of all were set for next week in City court.

TWO BANK BOXES OF POLICY KING YIELD NO MONEY

Empty safety deposit boxes were all that rewarded representatives of the state treasurer's office and the attorney general in their search for a fortune of $850,000 in cash and valuables believed to have been in the possession of McKissick McHenry Jones, 39, south side policy king, when he was killed in an automobile crash July 21.

Two boxes were drilled open in the presence of Mrs. Jean Jones, the widow, and Jack Sheldon of the treasurer's office and Robert Anderson of Atty. Gen. Barrett's staff. One was in the National Bank of Hyde Park, the other in the Live Stock National bank. Not a scrap of anything valuable was found in either after they were forced because the keys were missing.

McKissick Jones' box in the Drexel National bank, 3944 Cottage Grove av., previously had yielded jewelry valued at about $5,000.

The deceased, with his brothers, Edward and George, former Pullman porters, were sued several years ago by the government for $2,000,000 in income taxes. The claims were settled for approximately $500,000, and a total of $850,000 seized in excess of the settlement was returned to the brothers.

PULASKI, FORCED TO MOVE, FINDS A HOME HE LIKES

Stanley R. Pulaski, a Republican candidate for Municipal court judge, chuckled yesterday as he announced that on Aug. 3 he had moved his family to an apartment at 6442 N. Albany av., in response to the suit of his former landlord, Ralph J. Schneider, to evict him from the latter's building at 5911 N. Rockwell st.

Schneider had contended Pulaski's children, Robert, 13, and Jean, 7, were too noisy. Judge Matthew D. Hartigan on July 10 continued the case to Aug. 10, and Pulaski and the landlord's attorneys signed a stipulation to dismiss the action which Pulaski said should have expired automatically yesterday.

"It was politics," Pulaski said, referring to rivalry for 50th ward committeeman in the primary. "We now are living where we belong, in a community where nearly every family has children, and about two blocks inside the city limits. There are not so many dogs, tho."

SAILOR GRANTED 1ST ANNULMENT ON A DEPOSITION

The first annulment ever obtained in a Cook county court by deposition was granted yesterday to William P. Mercer, 21, a pharmacist's mate stationed at Little Creek, Va., by Judge Denis J. Normoyle in Circuit court.

William P. Mercer.

Mercer, unable to make a personal appearance, charged in his deposition that his wife, Cornelia Sue Smith Schnieder Mercer, 23, of Norfolk, Va., had not been divorced from a previous husband when he married her Oct. 6, 1942, at Corpus Christi, Tex. Mercer's mother, Eulalia, of 7951 S. Winchester av., testified that the previous husband, Donald Schneider, still had a divorce suit pending in Paducah, Ky.

Atty. Sol R. Friedman, representing Mercer, said the sailor's wife received $1,510 in allotments from his pay. When the navy department learned that she had another husband, it deducted $550 from Mercer's pay to recover money it had provided in the allotments.

In Memoriam

BRADLEY—William J. Bradley. In loving memory of our dear husband and father, who passed away one year ago today.
He bid no one a last farewell.

Before we knew it, he was gone.
He did not fail to do his best.
His heart was true and tender.
He worked hard for those he left,
And ever will be remembered.

TOMORROW'S DAY TO PLACE WASTE PAPER ON CURBS

Chicago Boy Scouts, office of civilian defense personnel, and Legionnaires will coöperate tomorrow in a city wide curb collection of vitally needed waste paper that is expected to set a record for such activities. More than 100,000 persons and 600 trucks will canvas 18,000 city blocks in an effort to collect 5,000 tons.

Proceeds from the collection have been ear marked for the Service Men's centers, which already have received $25,000 from such collections, and for the Boy Scouts and other youth organizations in proportion to their participation in the collections. The collections will be weighed on city scales. A subcommittee of the Chicago Waste Paper Salvage committee will allocate the proceeds.

Meanwhile, suburban communities from Valparaiso, Ind., to Waukegan and Aurora also are staging collections, most of them today, some tomorrow, and still others a week from tomorrow.

Athlete's Foot Thrives On Damp Perspiring Feet

Athlete's Foot loves nothing better than to take up housekeeping in damp, perspiring feet—especially in the soggy flesh between the toes. So don't let your perspiring feet invite Athlete's Foot. Get Allen's Foot-Ease from your druggist and sprinkle this soothing medicated powder over your feet, between your toes and in your shoes. Allen's Foot-Ease is not a cure or treatment for Athlete's Foot but it does help to absorb excessive perspiration, keep feet dry and odorless and maintain a wholesome foot condition that helps prevent infection by Athlete's Foot. Get Allen's Foot-Ease today—it's a grand way to foot-comfort.

TRAP TRAINING SCHOOL FUGITIVE AFTER SMASHUP

Stolen Car's Brakes His Downfall.

Robert Yager, 15, of 11948 Stewart av., Chicago, escaped from a guard at the State Training School for Boys near St. Charles while on work detail yesterday afternoon, stole a car in Geneva and led Elmhurst police a 10-mile chase thru Chicago suburbs before he finally crashed head-on into a Michigan car at Harlem av. and Harvard st., sending its four occupants to Oak Park hospital.

Robert Yager.

Captured at the scene of the wreck by Sgt. Frank Williams and Officer William Grobe of the Elmhurst police, Yager remarked surlily, "If the brakes had held I wouldn't have hit them." Sgt. Williams said he fired 15 shots at the fleeing boy during the chase and later counted nine bullet holes in the automobile body.

None Seriously Hurt.

The four Michigan residents were not injured seriously and were released following treatment. They were Ruben Norton, 44, Olivet, Mich., live stock dealer; his wife, Sylvia, 40; Dr. Joseph Nicholson, 54, Bellevue, Mich., and his wife, Ellen, 38. The car was a total loss.

Police said Yager, working at the state training school for girls at Geneva, had asked his supervisor to be excused. He walked along the Fox river bank into Geneva, where he stole a car owned by C. A. White, 227 N. McKinley st., Geneva.

Sees Car Drive Away.

White, who was in an office directly above his parked car, saw Yager drive away and called police. The car's description was broadcast and a blockade set up. Two hours later, Sgt. Williams and Officer Grobe attempted to stop the car at North av. and Lake st.

Yager crashed into the Michigan car when he attempted to turn south off Harvard av. in to Harlem av. Police said his brakes failed to hold and the car swung into a north bound lane, hitting the Michigan auto.

Charles W. Reed, assistant managing officer at the school, said Yager was eligible for parole this week. He was sent to the training school Dec. 23, 1942, for auto larceny. He was paroled last February and returned in May for parole violation. Reed described the youth as having "a good record." Elmhurst police returned him to the training school last night.

BEEF AND LAMB UTILITY CUTS TO GO OFF RATION

Utility grade—the next to lowest quality—of beef and lamb will be removed from rationing Sunday; pork loins and chops and hams will go back on the point lists, and canned fish also will be restored to rationing, the office of price administration said yesterday.

The new point values will be good for three weeks. A new red stamp, D5, worth 10 points, will be validated Sunday, the OPA said, to compensate for the return of some meats to rationing. Commercial, good, and choice grades of beef and lamb will retain their present values.

New pork loin point values will range from 4 per pound for end cuts, to 8 for center cuts and chops, with entire loins at 5 points. Hams will be 5 points, the shank ends 2, and slices 9. Most popular kinds of canned fish will be 6 points per pound, mackerel and sardines will be 4, and oysters and miscellaneous fish, 2.

Cheese will rise from 2 to 4 points to 6 to 12. Creamery butter will remain unchanged at 16 points, but country butter will be increased to 12 points from 8.

LEAP SAVES LIFE AS TRAIN PLOWS INTO HIS AUTO

Hans Hauboff, 47, a cement finisher living in unincorporated Wilson, five miles west of Waukegan, narrowly escaped death yesterday when the brakes of his auto failed to hold and his car skidded onto railroad tracks in front of the Milwaukee road's southbound Pioneer limited. Hauboff jumped from the car, which was demolished. The accident occurred within 100 yards of Hauboff's home.

An oft-repeated remark these days is: "What can I do for whipped cream in my favorite recipes? The cream we get now just won't whip." But there are ways and means of whipping cream or of using a substitute in recipes calling for cream. With a little help, evaporated milk forms a whipped cream which may become the base for delicious frozen desserts.

To whip war time light cream, use cream which is 24 hours old and which has been thoroly chilled. Also chill the mixing bowl and rotary beater. Add 1 teaspoon plain gelatin softened in 1 tablespoon cold water to 1 cup of cream. This will not only help it to whip but also will make it stand up longer.

If you don't mind the lemon flavor resulting, 1 teaspoon lemon juice to 1 cup of cream, instead of the gelatin, also will make it whip more easily.

To substitute evaporated milk for cream in frozen desserts or as a topping, first chill the can thoroly. Pour contents into freezing tray, chill quickly but thoroly, and whip. Again, use a cold bowl and beater. Gelatin or lemon juice also may be added to evaporated milk to insure a smooth whipped cream.

Since this is not only the hot season but also the peach season, here's a tasty, cooling dessert you'll enjoy making at home:

Peach Mousse.

[Serves six to eight.]

1 envelope unflavored gelatin
¼ cup cold water
1½ cups peach pulp
½ cup confectioner's sugar
2 cups cream or evaporated milk, whipped
¼ teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon lemon juice
½ teaspoon vanilla

Soften gelatin in cold water. Place over boiling water and stir until gelatin is dissolved. Drain fruit pulp of juice and combine with confectioner's sugar. Mix gelatin with fruit pulp. Fold in whipped cream. Add salt, lemon juice, and vanilla, and turn mixture into refrigerator trays. Freeze until firm.

Another favorite summer dessert uses raisins and maraschino cherries to make it unusual. Evaporated milk may be substituted for the cream with just as good a result.

Neapolitan Cream Pudding.

[Serves six.]

2 cups crushed vanilla wafers
2 egg yolks
2 egg whites
½ cup confectioner's sugar
½ cup butter or margarine
½ teaspoon vanilla
3 tablespoons walnuts, chopped fine
3 tablespoons raisins, chopped fine
3 tablespoons maraschino cherries chopped
1 cup cream or evaporated milk
1 teaspoon lemon juice

Cover bottom of freezing tray with 1 cup wafer crumbs. Cream egg yolks, 1 egg white, sugar, and butter or margarine until fluffy. Spread over wafer crumbs. Beat the other egg white until stiff. Add vanilla, walnuts, raisins, and cherries. Beat cream slightly, add lemon juice, and continue beating until thick. Add to walnut, raisin, cherry mixture and spread on top of first two layers. Top with remaining wafer crumbs. Freeze until firm.

Prunes are taking their place on the grocery shelves again, and this prune whip is a welcome addition to August dinners.

Prune Whip.

[Serves six to eight.]

3 cups cooked prunes
1 tablespoon lemon juice
3 tablespoons honey
1 tablespoon unflavored gelatin
2 tablespoons cold water
1¾ cups evaporated milk [1 tall can]

Remove pits from prunes and mash prunes to a pulp. Add lemon juice and honey. Soften gelatin in cold water. Scald milk and remove from heat. Add gelatin and stir to dissolve. Chill. Beat with rotary beater until very thick. Mix in prune pulp. Chill until ready to serve.

Colored Satin Dresses Among New Arrivals

BY REA SEEGER.

Sleek black all satin dresses, fashioned in sheath-slim silhouettes arrive each August to tempt shoppers, and this time there are blacks plus some of the best looking high colors ever cut and fitted. The latter are made with the same telling simplicity as the blacks, of the same lustrous sheened material, and look as sophisticated as the blacks. Most of them are made with very short sleeves, soft high neck lines, and a fitted basque line. Anything extra consists of soft bows of the satin, with hand hemmed edges.

Deep crimson and deep amethyst purple are two of the flattering colors for fall. Both are deep enough to serve as a background color for lighter costume accessories and contrast jewelry as smoothly and effectively as the pitch blacks. The sheen of the satin serves as the only contrast, bands or bows being of the same material with the crepe dull side out. Skirts are narrow with side insets or pleats for extra width. Hip lines are low and accentuated with a soft fold or an inset band of the dull crepe, and the bodices are all simple and unrelieved, the better to spotlight the satin in the general scheme of things.

Tiny hats of satin in color complete these street dresses to wear now, then later under furs or jackets and coats. The hats are feathered in the same color, so that the one color ensemble is achieved. Both coq and ostrich feathers are featured, the hats themselves are either small discs or big puffed berets and fallen souffle models. Such costumes are as new as tomorrow, jeweled colors to celebrate a new season.

Food Planners Steer U. S. Into a Meat Famine

BY ARNOLD ERICKSON.

When Mrs. Housewife goes to the icebox to get an extra pork chop for her husband at any time early next year, the chances are the chop won't be there—unless the Washington burocrats stop tinkering with the nation's food supply. For, if plans to expand lend-lease purchases and to put price pressure on hog producers are not changed quickly, there won't be enough hogs produced to meet all pork requirements. That opinion was expressed at the stock yards yesterday.

Distribution experts in Packingtown predicted that restrictions on civilian consumption of meat will be tighter in the coming year than during any period since point rationing began and that the end of the war will bring a huge expansion in demand from abroad. Lend-lease and army buyers already are pressing packers for more meat than they can deliver, particularly pork which has slumped sharply in tonnage in recent weeks.

Packers this week received letters from lend-lease officials which some in the industry interpreted as a "deliver or else" threat. The wording of the letter indicated how urgent has become the demand for export pork.

Huge quantities of canned and frozen pork were asked for, despite the current seasonal slump of pork production, and packers unable to deliver specified quantities were asked to explain why. Lend-lease officials offered to "assist" packers in eliminating any difficulties that might stand in the way of such deliveries.

Consumers face stricter rationing of all kinds of meat as soon as the flood of western range cattle subsides in late fall, and there will be few meat items off the ration list by Jan. 1, meat experts forecast. Their prediction of dwindling supplies of all meat for civilians is based on the smaller numbers of animals estimated by the department of agriculture being made ready on farms for winter and spring selling, as well as the recent evidence that the services and lend-lease are in need of greater tonnage.

Reports reaching here from Washington imply that price planners, who are largely responsible for the current slump in pork and lard output because they forced the sale of so many hogs by "freezing" corn in 125 counties earlier in the season, are now greatly concerned over the possibility of a meat shortage coming simultaneously with the end of the war and the opening of shipping lanes. Such a situation would embarrass those at the peace table representing the allied nations' "larder," which is pledged to help write a just peace with an abundance of food for liberated Europe. Current production of pork and lard in packing plants under federal inspection over the entire country is running about 50,000 tons monthly behind last year, and is at its lowest since last September.

It was recalled in the trade at the stock yards that a huge expansion in exports to Europe followed the end of the last war. Under lend-lease, the foreign demand for American products will be even greater at the close of this conflict, it was said.

Several Drop Debut Parties for This Year

BY JUDITH CASS.

FIVE young women who are of debutante age but who have decided against having debut parties this year are Miss Edith Soames, Miss Anne Finnerud, Miss Ann Wilcox, Miss Diane Holliday, and Miss Marion Peter. All of them, however, will be included in the curtailed debutante festivities of this war season.

Miss Soames will enter Bryn Mawr college when classes resume, and her mother, Mrs. Julian Soames, has returned to Lake Forest to open her home. For the last few winters, while Miss Soames has been a day pupil at the Milton academy, her mother has been living in Boston, Mass., but from now on the north shore will be their permanent address.

Currently Mrs. Soames is heading the British War Relief society's book campaign to obtain reading material for the hospitals and rest camps in the Mediterranean and Italian battle areas. Books sent to the society are distributed thru welfare officials to American, British, and other allied soldiers, whose response has indicated the books are badly needed and greatly appreciated. Like her mother, Miss Soames also has a war time job, commuting into town every day to work for the British ministry of information.

Miss Finnerud, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Clark W. Finnerud, also will enter Bryn Mawr early next month. She and her younger sister, Mary, are spending the summer at their parents' summer home in Minocqua, Wis.

Miss Wilcox, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Byers Wilcox, and Miss Holliday, daughter of the Preston Hollidays, both of Winnetka, are graduates of the North Shore Country Day school. Miss Wilcox is a student at Smith, and Miss Holliday attends Vassar.

Miss Peter, daughter of the William F. Peters of Lake Forest, is working in a war plant this summer and expects to go to Stephens college early next month to study aviation, with a pilot's license as her goal. The scarcity of young men, combined with the emphasis now being placed by girls at home on war service activities, led Mr. and Mrs. Peter to decide against a war time debut for their youngest child.

Wedding News.

In the children's chapel of the Winnetka Congregational church Miss Dolores Elise Neef and Lt. Bruce K. Thomas of the army, son of Mrs. Roscoe Thomas and the late Mr. Thomas of Madison, Wis., will be married at 8:30 o'clock tonight. Later the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick A. Neef of Glencoe, will give a reception at the Michigan Shores club. The bride will be attended by Mrs. John C. Rasmussen as matron of honor and Miss Elizabeth Spaeth, Miss Katherine Loucks, and Miss Elizabeth Ranstead as bridesmaids. Capt. Edward J. Stehle will serve as best man. After a brief wedding trip, Lt. Thomas and his bride will live in Glencoe temporarily, as he is stationed in Chicago following overseas service.

Announcement is made of the marriage July 30 in the First Methodist church of Evanston of Miss Barbara Kathryn Anderson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald K. Anderson of Evanston, to Pvt. Roland D. Paine Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Paine of Evanston. Miss Jeanne Vail of Washington, D. C., served as maid of honor, and the bride-

Maxwell St.'s Children Play in a Penthouse!

A penthouse playroom has been opened in the Maxwell st. district where children who formerly romped in the hot, crowded streets below can play in clean, white sand, and cool off in a wading pool. The new playroom is atop the Old Town club, 1300 Newberry av., and is sponsored by the Chicago Boys Club, Inc.

Fidel and Charley Martinez are typical of the children who take advantage of the playroom and nursery, according to Mrs. V. W. Cooper, manager. The mother is employed in a nearby factory and the father is in the army. The children are left at the Sunshine House as early at 6:30 a. m. when their mother is on her way to work and they remain until 5:30 p. m.

The day's routine includes breakfast, lunch, a nap after each meal, and playtime on the roof. The playroom is dotted with gay blue and white striped awning shades over the sand boxes.

Most popular of all, however, is the wading pool which is built in the shape of a boat and has running water in it. On the rooftop there is always a breeze which never penetrates the hot streets below, a comfort which helps the youngsters overlook the view of smokestacks, factory roofs, and water tanks.

"We went a little beyond our call of duty to establish the nursery and rooftop playroom," Mrs. Cooper said in explaining it is a war measure.

"Last year," she related, "three children burned to death when their war working mother left them alone in the house. We don't want tragedy to strike again, and as long as mothers must work we will supervise their children."

Ten youngsters between the ages of 2 and 6 were at Sunshine House yesterday. There, four stories up, they were busily engaged in playing with a new hobby horse, rag dolls, block and games, and building sand pile castles. The mothers pay a nominal fee of 50 cents a day for the care of the first child, and 35 cents for each additional child. Because some of the children speak Spanish instead of English, Mrs. Carmen Ramirez is employed to supervise the group.

Ravinia Crowd Is Charmed by Famed Quartet

Concert by the Budapest String quartet [Josef Roismann, first violin; Edzar Ortenberg, second violin; Boris Kroyt, viola; Mischa Schneider, violoncello]. Presented at Ravinia Thursday evening, Aug. 10, 1944. The program:

Quartet, G major, Opus 77, No. 1.....Haydn
Quartet, D minor, Köchel 421....Mozart

BY CLAUDIA CASSIDY.

One of Ravinia's more successful experiments has been the annual aftermath of chamber music, and about 2,000 people turned out last night to welcome the Budapest String Quartet, which will devote its fourth season to the mature quartets of Haydn and Mozart and the Rasoumowsky trio of Beethoven. This is all symmetrical and highly agreeable, particularly when we know that the Budapest will come to Fullerton hall next winter with some contemporary works dangling from its master bows.

For whatever they play, it is a pleasure to realize that the current four rival in virtuosity the quartet slightly altered when Alexander Schneider left the second violin post and was replaced by Edgar Ortenberg. Last night even cool Ravinia had some of the qualities of a blast furnace and it could not have been hospitable to strings, yet the Budapest had much of its old time sound of sweet gravity, polished clarity, and the lacy wit to remind you that a Mozart minuetto might have been danced by Figaro —and who knows how many lovely ladies?

People who are determined to find Jocund Papa Haydn in every bar he ever wrote must have a hard time with the G. Major quartet of Opus 77. It is a philosopher's music, thoughtful, rich in ideas, touched with splendor in its quiet style. Sometimes it is nicknamed the "Courtesies" quartet, and I warn you that in such cases I resemble Polonius, able to see almost anything any Hamlet points out as possible. Certainly it might be some wise old men talking, if so it would be a wise young man who listened.

Of last night's three quartets, Mozart's in D minor "Kochel 421" was the only one not previously played at Ravinia by this gifted group. It is exceptionally beautiful, with a gentle graciousness, a truly Mozartean delicacy, and that witty exuberance that spills out in endless inspiration. The finale signs off each instrument with a mood that would be amusingly decorous were it less poignantly the signature of a master.

The first Rasoumowsky struck the evening's first fire. Separated from Beethoven's earlier quartets by six years of musical creation that strode with seven league boots, it opens the pages of three of the most beautiful quartets ever written. It strikes out boldly, with an iconoclast's daring and the brilliance of genius, and yet at the end it remembers to say thank you to a Russian patron with a Russian theme. A gracious gesture, not a servile one, because Beethoven made it.

The performance was typical Budapest as I heard it from outside under the trees. The men were playing, by the way, in a drawing room setting from the by-gone days of Ravinia opera. Edith Mason, who was Mrs. Louis Eckstein's guest, says she sang the first Manon of her career in those very surroundings on that same stage.

Women in War Work

By Dorothy Johnson

In the contingent of newly enlisted SPARS who left yesterday for the training school of the Coast Guard women's reserve in Palm Beach, Fla., was Mrs. Illiana Krupowicz Flynn, a native of Poland.

She was doubly privileged yesterday morning when she received United States citizenship from Judge Elwyn R. Shaw and was sworn into the SPARS by Lt. Dorothy Beckwith, senior recruiting officer for women in the Chicago district. Mrs. Flynn's mother, Mrs. Anna Krupowicz, and Yeomen 3d Class Eloise Holbrook and Alma Lester of the procurement staff witnessed both ceremonies.

"No one could be happier or prouder than I am," SPAR Flynn said. "I want the hardest job the Coast Guard has to offer women."

Others in the group of new SPARS were three roommates who had urged one another to enlist. Jean Alban, Doris Shekelton, and Martha Weinshenk, 6529 Lakewood av., all were clerical workers before signing up with the Coast Guard. Miss Shekelton and Miss Weinshenk were employed in the same office of a container manufacturer.

Barbara Jane Furst, 215 Columbia av., Park Ridge; Louise M. McIntee, 8241 Clyde av., and Lorraine Bauer, 2036 E. 80th st., all are following older sisters into the SPARS. Seaman 2d Class Billie L. Furst will welcome her sister to Palm Beach, as will Marie McIntee, as both are stationed in Florida. Ruth Bauer, a storekeeper with a 3d class petty officer's rating, is on duty at the Chicago Coast Guard base.

The WAC also sent Chicago women into training yesterday. Eighty recruits left the city for Fort Oglethorpe, Ga., two of them sisters, Mary Jane and Josephine M. Kimmey, 7654 S. May st., who have two brothers in the army, Staff Sgt. Joseph, with a bomber group overseas, and Pvt. Francis, at Camp Crowder.

Mary Jane worked as a civilian in the general offices of a Chicago packing house. Josephine was an operator with the Illinois Bell Telephone company, which already has 161 operators on military leave with the WAC, more than enough to make a full company of 150. Illinois Bell's, women in uniform also include 147 WAVES, 10 SPARS, 50 members of the marine corps women's reserve, and 3 army nurses. Twenty-nine of them are overseas with the WAC and the army nurse corps.

Also in the WAC contingent which left yesterday is Clarice Sorenson, whose only brother was killed in action in Italy. Helen Dvorak left for Fort Oglethorpe for her second stint of army training. She formerly was a member of the WAAC.

A Busy Week to Lead Up to Music Festival

Tickets for reserved seats at the Chicago Music Festival, at $1.25 and 80 cents each, are on sale at The Tribune Public Service offices, 1 S. Dearborn st. and Tribune Tower. They also may be ordered by mail. Checks or money orders, made payable to Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc., should be sent to the festival ticket manager, Tribune Tower.

BY PHILIP MAXWELL.

Next week truly will be Chicago Music Festival week here. Beginning Monday evening and on each succeeding day there will be rehearsals and other meetings pertaining to the big festival concert to be held in Soldiers' field Saturday night, Aug. 19. Thousands will participate in these pre-festival gatherings.

Dr. Edgar Nelson, general choral director of the festival, announces that the first rehearsal for the Hallelujah chorus will be held at 6 p. m. Monday in Orchestra hall. The time has been selected so singers who work in the loop can attend before returning home. Capt. Howard Stube, general instrumental director, will hold the second trombone choir practice at 7 p. m. in the Lyon & Healy concert hall, 64 E. Jackson blvd.

Tuesday noon the 10 Cook county vocal winners will be Chicago Rotary club guests in the grand ballroom of the Hotel Sherman and each will sing part of the aria which he or she did in the recent contest in the Drake hotel. Robert McDonald will be accompanist. Frank Bennett will lead the Rotarians, of whom he is one, in "Sweet Adeline," and tell the story of the "Sweet Adeline" contest, a festival feature

At 5 p. m. the Cook county baton contest will be held in Soldiers' field. Fred Miller, festival field supervisor and in charge of this contest, announces that Mrs. Grace Hansen has been appointed chairman for this competition.

John G. Reick, director of the children's chorus of 800 voices which will sing at the festival concert, will hold his first rehearsal at 10 a. m. Wednesday in St. Luke's school auditorium, 1510 Belmont av. At 9:30 p. m. the nearly 50 contestants in the "Sweet Adeline" contest will be the guests of the C. & B. Line on its steamer City of Grand Rapids for a moonlight excursion on the lake. The party also will include the Four Misfits, barber shop quartet, who will sing in Soldiers' field.

At 10 a. m. Thursday Mr. Reick will hold a second rehearsal in the St. Stephen's parish house, 6453 S. Peoria st., and at 8:30 p. m. the festival Negro chorus, under the direction of Prof. J. Wesley Jones, will have its rehearsal at the Metropolitan Community church, 41st st. and South Park way.

The festival orchestra of 104 members, with Henry Weber, general musical director of the festival, conducting, will rehearse in Orchestra hall at 9 a. m. Friday.

The eighth annual festival luncheon will be held in the Terrace Casino of the Morrison hotel Friday noon. More than 1,200 persons have purchased seats for the luncheon at which speakers will be John Alden Carpenter, whose composition "Song of Faith" will be heard in Soldiers' field, and Harry Armstrong of New York, composer of "Sweet Adeline."

Mrs. Edmund J. Tyler, chairman of the festival contests, will hold competitions for out-of-town singers at 4 p. m. and 7 p. m. Friday in the grand ballroom of the Drake hotel. Beginning at 7 and lasting for three hours, formal rehearsals will be held by participating groups at Soldiers' field.

Saturday events leading up to the Soldiers' field concert will be announced later.

White Collar GIRL

BY RUTH MAC KAY

Doctors' Aids.

In many a doctor's office not large enough to require a technical and secretarial staff there is need for a medical office assistant who combines the duties of secretary, receptionist, nurse, and technician.

About 15 years ago three special schools were opened in the United States to give a complete course of instruction in medical office procedure. Today there are about 10 such schools, and enrollments, with doctors so hard pressed, indicate deep interest in this type of work and a genuine desire to be of service.

For the girl who is attracted to a vocation with a humanitarian aspect, the training for doctor's aid offers an inviting field. Students are instructed in laboratory work and taught how to handle complicated medical and hospital equipment; they learn about the use of X-ray and physical therapy, study anatomy, and, of course, are schooled in secretarial work, such as making out bills and reports.

The dean of the Eastern School for Physicians' Aids in New York is Miriam Bredow, a feminine first, for her "Handbook for the Medical Secretary" is the first book published on this subject. She says in her preface that, were it not for the painstaking instruction of doctors with whom she was associated, her career in this field would have come swiftly to an end. Chapters of her book are devoted to such subjects as personality, appointments, patients, patients' records, fees and bills, correspondence, medical practice, office procedure, preparation of manuscripts, and medical terminology. Published by McGraw-Hill, it should be valuable to both teacher and student.

Knees.

They'd be a heart-softener
If they were scrubbed oftener.
BETA EPSILON SECRETARY.

A Lift to the Spirits.

One of the nicest persons we know here at the ordnance office is one of our men employes who, this spring and summer, has spent his evenings cutting fresh flowers and then the next morning, bright and early, passed them out to the girls, some of whom do not even know him. He says he likes to bring them for all. With so few nice things happening in this topsy-turvy world, this really gives our spirits a lift.
SEE-BEE.

Dis and Data.

To the query: "Do men do typewriter drawings?" the answer is "Yes"; they draw footballs on the field and tanks and sometimes it's the big bosses, no less. . . . Too bad that a heartfelt and appealing note in the mail is unsigned; it complains that those in public life do not offer up a simple prayer for our boys. A copy of the beautiful prayer of Thomas Mulroy, retiring president of the Executives' club, should be sent to the unidentified correspondent. . . . There are many forms of address, and a recent one which tickles us is "White Collar Shirt"—referring to this column. Perhaps a war plant dreamer thinking back to the days when he wore one. Or, could it be a mental go-together like ham 'n' eggs? . . . The fastest sender of semaphore is a woman, but does any one know her name?

Looking at Hollywood

By Hedda Hopper

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Aug. 10.—Since "Going My Way" is a smash, and "Song of Bernadette" a success, Metro will produce as one of its biggest pictures Archbishop Spellman's "The Arisen Soldier." . . . Remember Adela Rogers St. John's "A Free Soul" which did so much for Clark Gable? The studio's asked her to write another for him. I remember the controversy over "A Free Soul" because in it Norma Shearer, the heroine, was in love with Clarke Gable, the gangster. In the face of what's happening today, that would appear very old fashioned. . . . It was Brynie Foy who said, "Gosh! Our 4-F's are the fightingest men out of uniform." Reason it will take Jon Hall's broken nose so long to heal is that he had plastic surgery performed on it seven or eight years ago, before he did "Hurricane." It's always dangerous to re-do a job that's already been done. . . . Greg McClure's name was changed from Dale Easton because Frank Tuttle, who's directing "The Great John L.," didn't think Dale sounded like a prize fighting name.

Hi Diddle Diddle—or Is R. K. O. Asleep?

Metro wants a story that R. K. O. doesn't even know it owns. It's "The Second Man," by Sam Behrman. It's good. R. K. O.'s looking far and wide for a vehicle for Cary Grant, and here it has one. Wait till Bill Dozier, who's just joined that organization, hears about this. He'll grab onto it. . . . When I saw Salvador Dali's painting of Ann Warner, I knew he was destined for a screen offer. Sure enough, it came the night of the unveiling. Dali will do backgrounds, furniture, and costumes for dream sequences in "The House of Dr. Edwardes"—all because Alfred Hitchcock thought the painting so outstanding. Hitchy, who's 'way ahead of schedule on this one, is trying to finish it before David Selznick returns from drifting down the Delaware. . . . Carl Schroeder, Vic Mature's brain trust, has written a play about the days when he and Vic lived in the same house. It's called "A Cast of Characters." Carl's in New York visiting his wife, Lucia Carroll, and watching her in "A School for Brides." They'd not seen each other in four months.

I Hope, I Hope, I Hope——.

If Lunt and Fontanne can find a good screen story, they're willing to settle into a studio cozily when they get back from Europe, with Metro trying to help them. . . . Remember the time—O, 'way back when—that film stars weren't supposed to have babies, and male stars kicked like mules at wearing a beard? Well, Paul Muni built up his screen reputation on beards. Now, since he's clean shaven, I'm told he's no longer in demand. I heard a cutie about him from Canada. When he was up there making "Commandos Strike at Dawn," he slipped thru the back door of his hotel to escape being asked for autographs. My Canadian friend added, "He could have saved himself the trouble. Our people wouldn't have dreamed of intruding on his privacy." . . . Cass Daley winds up "Out of This World," then devotes all her time to Frank Morgan. That should be a winning duet. . . . What cooks? Reporter claims Bing Crosby's waiting in San Francisco to go to the south seas; Variety has him in New York, bound for England. But how come he's waiting, when the fellows want him so badly?

This and That in and Around Hollywood.

Greta Garbo, after deciding to buy Gladys Swarthout's home, ignored the real estate man who showed her the house and phoned the owner. She didn't get a cheaper price. . . . Well, Well! Ray Bourbon, who's out of "Catherine Was Great," complains he didn't want to double for Catherine by walking up and down Broadway with a hand organ in order to make ends meet. . . . Was Mervyn Leroy kidding when he talked to Ramsay Ames about "The Robe"? Or was he talking about her robe? . . . Peggy Ann Garner, clever minx, went boom under the wage stabilization ruling. Can't have her salary increased. She's getting buttons. But she'll get a $5,000 bonus from her boss. . . . Anne Shirley has to live in seclusion at home another week. Doctor's orders.

Reckless Joe at the Wheel Is No Hero!

[Copyright: 1944: By The Chicago Tribune.]

A few young characters in the smooth joe department still drive their own cars, the family car, or the gang's little red roadster, once in a while despite A cards and tire conservation. It may be only a short trip to escort the current honeychile to a Friday night dance, drop an older brother at the station to catch a train for Camp Crowder, or pick up the week's grocery order, but the boys still hit the road.

on the SOLID side

And too often these smooth jacksons forget that there are many more angles to sensible driving besides watching the red lights and keeping the windshield clean. They forget the simple rules about driving under 35, keeping on their own side of the road, avoiding double parking, and resisting the temptation to sidewipe parked cars. In fact these supermen drive by only one rule—"Don't do anything Buck Rogers wouldn't do!"

Aside from the red, white, and blue reasons for saving gasoline and tires, careless driving just isn't smart. Think it over. Where would you be this time tomorrow if the car just wouldn't stop on a dime or if that pedestrian hadn't jumped to the curb in the nick of time? You're taking a "here today, gone tomorrow" chance if you start off with a speed reminiscent of a "bombardier to pilot" routine, turn corners on two wheels, and have to let down the landing flaps every time you come to a red light. Maj. Bong wouldn't put his combat plane thru the maneuvers some young joes expect from a two door, 8 year old four wheeled car!

No date is impressed with reckless driving or even casual carelessness; just keep both hands on the wheel and both eyes on the road and your honeychile will be happier. You may be an excellent driver but you can never tell about the other fellow.

Household Forum

—By Louise Bargelt—

Mrs. Eddie J., Chicago—Here's the way my husband removes old caulking compound from storm sash: He softens it first with a hot soldering iron and then rubs lightly with steel wool or substitute.

Ellen B., Milwaukee, Wis.—I invested in some unbleached muslin table cloths and other articles last month. I did not put them thru the wringer the first time I washed them, as a friend said this would make them much harder to iron.

Kitty H., Benton Harbor, Mich.—I use my old pillow cases as protective coverings for dresses, skirts, etc., in my closets. All I need to do is make an opening large enough for the hanger hook.

Now—Please—Your—Idea!

Neat Lingerie

This one simple pattern creates a matching slip and pantie set worthy of a trousseau. The yardage is minimum, so you can make several such ensembles. Style No. 3641 is designed for sizes 12 to 48. Size 36 requires, for slip, 2¼ yards of 39 inch fabric with 1⅝ yards of 2 inch lace and 1¾ yards of narrow lace; panties, 1⅛ yards of 39 inch fabric with 1¾ yards of 2 inch lace.

Order Clotilde patterns from Chicago Tribune, P. O. Box 537, Grand Central Annex, NEW YORK CITY. Print name and address; state size. Each pattern is 10 cents, plus 2 cents for mailing. The summer fashion book, on sale at Tribune Public Services offices, is 15 cents, 12 cents if ordered by mail with a pattern.

Inbetween Age Children Often Are Dawdlers

[Copyright: 1944: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

"Billy, you are to come when you are called. I'm busy, and I haven't the time to run to the door and call you two or three times when meals are ready."

"Sue, get along with the dusting and stop mooning about."

"Jack, you will be late if you dawdle much longer. I never knew any one as slow as you. Hurry!"

I'd almost wager that a score of mothers could write "ditto" to each one of these quotations if they have an "inbetween" youngster in their home.

Take, for example, the inability to hear the voice of authority. This may be due to an intense preoccupation in play or an interesting sport. Or perhaps a child grows so used to being scolded constantly or ordered about that he no longer takes his superiors seriously. The solution is to respect this concentration, to cut down the interruptions, or be sure you have a child's full attention if you want him to hear what you are saying the first time you say it.

Another usual phase of these years is "day dreaming." This often is due to the development of the growing child's inner life of a spiritual awakening. Sometimes it is a state of just "being." As much as possible a child should be left alone during these times unless his withdrawal seems to interfere with the normal counter-balance of physical activity and companionships. If you must bring them back into the present, try doing it in as mild a way as you can.

One of the inbetween characteristics is the reversal from a willingness to "help mother" to a distaste for all household chores or duties. When little, "helping mother" represents, among other things, learning new tricks, such as setting the table, and when these skills are acquired interest lessens and there are new fields to conquer. Also because the outside world is calling, home duties later are less attractive. It often is wise to lessen the household demands during these ages if possible.

Probably the problem that most often stumps us during this age is dawdling. A child's world is timeless. Adults are conscious of the necessity to live by the clock. We are particularly conscious of a child's dawdling when he becomes older and the necessity that things be done on a schedule is more pressing. He must get dressed by a certain time. He must get to school at a given hour.

We must help our inbetweens to adjust themselves to the rules of our adult world, but we can help matters by gentle reminders and by seeing to it, for example, that they are awakened early enough on school days to allow for the inevitable slowness. It is best to let our youngsters slide thru this phase with as little friction as possible. It will pass. Take comfort in that fact.

FASHIONS

By Angela

Black dresses, fringe trimmed, are sleek and exciting fashions. Pen-line silhouettes are the rule for the dashing date frocks which are geared to high powered allure. Whether they are two piece or one, these rich, black crepes are a magnificent foil for brilliantly hued hats and gloves.

The jet black two piece dress sketched at left has a looped fringe forming a peplum on the fitted jacket. The V neckline is emphasized by a horizontal slit bound in self-material. Three large pearl buttons mark the front closing.

Sophisticated to the nth degree is the one piece dress at right, with a flattering, deep V neckline. An elongated peplum of fringe adds to the fluid lines of the silhouette. Two bands of fringe cover a short, short sleeve.

Church Open House Tonight Will Honor Mrs. Lindstrom, 90

Mrs. Gustaf Lindstrom, a pioneer of Lake View, will be honored tonight on her 90th birthday at an open house at Messiah Lutheran church, Seminary av. and School st., of which she is a charter member. Mrs. Lindstrom, active and in possession of all her faculties, addressed the members on the 48th anniversary of the church recently and plans are being made for her, sole survivor of the charter members, to burn the mortgage on the 50th anniversary two years hence when the small church debt will have been liquidated.

Also a charter member of the Augustana Hospital auxiliary, organized in 1884, Mrs. Lindstrom finds time to do needlepoint work. She was born in Sweden and came to Chicago in 1872. Her husband, Gustaf, an interior decorator, died 15 years ago. After many years' residence in Lake View the family moved to the present home at 2218 Thome av. There are two daughters, Amanda, employed in the administrative offices of Augustana hospital, and Mrs. Elsie Carlson of Elgin.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 heart	1 spade	2 diamonds	Pass
3 hearts	Pass	4 hearts

South's three heart bid was a stretch, but he was encouraged by his excellent fit with partner's diamond call.

West led the club four. Declarer put up the jack on the hope that East had the king and would [incorrectly] cover, but East could not make that mistake. The blank ace won the trick and declarer immediately led three rounds of trumps. East got in to lead the spade thru the king, and South ruffed the third round of the suit. Now the diamond queen was led thru West who, not unnaturally, covered. Declarer could not know that the king had been blank, so he returned a diamond to the jack, and was disgusted to learn that he would have to concede the setting trick to East's well guarded diamond nine.

Correct play was as follows: Declarer plays a low club from dummy on the first trick. He takes the diamond finesse at the second trick. When the king appears, he wins with the ace, leads the club queen and throws the diamond eight on it. If West has the club king he now must return a spade, because if he doesn't, declarer will discard a spade on the club jack. Thus, declarer will lose only one spade trick, one club, one trump, and no diamonds.

Thru the Looking Glass

There's one all around cream we'd like to see in the cabinet of every normally active family, especially in the summer.

We've never found anything to compare with this for the relief of sunburn. It's cooling against the skin and its quick healing action is pretty close to being marvelous, as we know from personal experience. When any one in the family picks up a burn just slather this white cream on; it gives instant relief from the burning sensation and, with any luck at all, will ward off the blisters. What's more, it won't destroy the linen when applied before the sufferer tumbles into bed at night.

This is one of the purest creams made. It serves many, many purposes—it's a good hand cream, a good skin soother in cold weather, and a lovely foot cream. One of the best chiropodists we've ever found uses it after every foot treatment, massaging it in well and then removing it with alcohol. You feel like the original Miss Twinkletoes in a matter of minutes. It's also something of a treatment cream for the kind of foot skin that is sensitive and prone to infection.

And we've just learned that this same cream is a perfect choice for the thin skinned shaver who has been exposed to more sun than usual. It makes the beard pliable and is, so the gentlemen say, the ideal skin soother. Any that remains on the skin in the wake of the razor can be worked into the surface, where it will do admirable work in making the skin comfortable, but won't leave it at all greasy.

This isn't a new cream, nor an expensive one. But it's one of the finest made, with usefulness on occasion to every member of the family, from youngsters with chafed skin to grownups who've absorbed too much sun.

Sinatra Movie Fills the Bill as Gloom Chaser

"STEP LIVELY."

An RKO-Radio picture, directed by Tim Whelan, featuring Frank Sinatra, George Murphy, Walter Slezak, and Gloria de Haven, and presented at the Palace.

By Mae Tinée.

Good Morning!

"Room Service," a gay stage and screen comedy of not so long ago, serves as basis for this movie.

The plot has been revamped and the piece emerges now as a musical with lots and lots of opportunity for "The Voice" to sing, and George Murphy to comment on Mr. Sinatra's framework. As is the Hollywood way, the film is a lot more dolled up than was the original.

Mr. Murphy is a producer who, with a large staff of helpers—and hinderers—occupies a hotel penthouse, signing checks for service—which the management demands be made good. . . . Enters Frankie, a playwright who sings better than he writes plays. He is admitted to the Murphy presence because he's mistaken for an expected "angel" bearing funds . . .

And from this situation stem acting, songs, and dancing.

The participants snapped into their various routines with zest. All are able, stressing the work of George Murphy and Walter Slezak. The latter, playing the harassed hotel manager, is very funny.

Mr. Sinatra performs and sings with ease. He and Gloria de Haven put over very neatly a number of good songs—"As Long As There's Music," "Step Lively," "Come Out, Come Out, Wherever You Are," and "Some Other Time."

See you tomorrow.

'Miss Lieutenant'

By Nina Wilcox Putnam

(Copyright: 1944: By Ines Eliot.)

SYNOPSIS: Lt. Carol Melton of Kansas, an army nurse in North Africa, overhears a military conference in which the need for maps and photographs of the crooked little towns along the Riviera is discussed. She tells Col. Barlow that her identical twin, Lita, is married to a Frenchman who has a collection of maps, drawings, and photographs of all the secret passageways along the coast, that she was educated at Nice, speaks French fluently, and knows every inch of the coastline. She persuades the colonel, who is in love with her, to recommend her for the mission. Carol is called to American headquarters, warned of the danger, and transferred to intelligence. Two experienced Commandos will accompany her. Col. Barlow confides to her that information known only to trusted officials about the troops in Africa has been leaking out. The informer knows the Riviera well. Taken by ferry to a submarine, Carol discovers one of the commandos is Bright Stoner of Kansas, a childhood sweetheart, who has always stood between her and other men. From the submarine they go by fishing smack to the shore. Carol will lead the way to Le Bastion, home of Lita and Jacques Cassard. They come to the old restaurant of Papa Brochard, husband of Carol's old nurse, Mme. Victorine, and learn Lita and Jacques are friendly with the German officials. Wearing clothing Lita had given Victorine, and with Stoner disguised as her porter, they contact a member of the underground, who takes them in his cart to the military trail which leads to the shore and Le Bastion. A Gestapo car passes them. Jacques Cassard is in it. Stoner and Carol arrive at the castle. Bright hides in the toolshed while Carol enters the house. In the drawing room Marshal Karl Herman Janner greets her as Lita. She excuses herself and goes to the kitchen.

INSTALMENT XI.

A TWOFOLD PURPOSE.

"Mme. Victorine!" Carol said softly. The old bonne put down the dish in her hand quietly and turned, with instant recognition in her eyes. Her arms went out and Carol into them.

"Ma petite, ma bebe!" she said over and over. "Quelle jolie chance! How good God is!"

Carol drew herself away, wet-eyed, remembering.

"But tell me," she asked, "what has happened to Lita? Where is she, Victorine?"

The older woman's face clouded and the fine lines about her sensitive mouth puckered.

"The saints be merciful," she said slowly. "I don't know where our Lita is. I wish I did know!"

Carol stared at her old nurse open mouthed. The idea that Lita was gone and that Mme. Victorine did not know where was alarming—terribly alarming.

"Was she taken away?" Carol heard herself saying.

"You are thinking of protective custody," said Victorine. "No, no! It is nothing like that! Mme. Lita has been gone three days, but she went of her own accord and alone."

"But there must have been some reason for that!"

"Monsieur Cassard explained that madame had gone to his sick mother at Castellaine—you will remember, my little one, that monsieur came from that mountain town originally. His aged mother is not well—naturally his wife goes to her at once.

"But you don't believe that story Victorine," Carol eyed the old woman keenly and Victorine looked at the floor.

"The dirty Germans who soil Le Bastion by their presence seem to have accepted the explanation."

"But you don't, Victorine. Why?"

"I do not believe Mme. Lita intends coming back at all," she stated.

The woman's evasion was maddening until Carol remembered that after all she, Carol, still had to account to Victorine for her own presence.

"Victorine," Carol spoke pleadingly. "You have got to trust me. I have already been to your husband's place—look, I am wearing a dress from your own armoire!"

Mme. Victorine's eyes came up from the floor and traveled over the familiar garment while Carol told her the rest of the story. When Carol had finished, a change came over the older woman.

"You must forgive me, my little one," she said, "but it is impossible to be too careful. This place listens with enemy ears. Mme. Lita has undoubtedly gone to join some of us—but I do not know at the moment where she actually is. I have not told even this much to my own husband. The fewer who know, the better."

"And Monsieur Jacques?"

"Monsieur has been openly collaborating with the invaders. It is my belief that our Lita is trying to escape from him and from the entanglements he has got her into, and that she intends, if possible, to reach England."

"Victorine! You helped her get away!"

"And why not? That poor little one! Nobody but myself knows that she took money and other valuables with her—probably not even Monsieur Cassard knows that. Perhaps he even believes that she has gone to his mother at Castellaine."

This presented a new danger. Suppose Jacques were to return from the mysterious ride of his and find Carol in his wife's place? Jacques would know her instantly. Well, better tell Victorine what had happened, at any rate. She explained that Janner and the others had already mistaken her for Lita.

"Marshal Janner is the big one," Victorine told her. "Then the older man is Gen. von Kirch and the cropped head with the pig's eyes and the shifty manner is named Gen. Bachmann. They have been here at monsieur's invitation for a month. The drunken clown comes every day. That's his car and driver out there now. He is Maj. Fritz Uhlan.

"He's in love with my sister."

"But yes! And also Janner. I heard them quarreling about it."

"What is Monsieur Cassard's attitude—does he know about this?"

"I do not know. But monsieur had violent words with Janner about something only this morning."

"And where is my brother-in-law now?"

"He went away with some soldiers a while ago. But that has happened with a frequency."

"Will he return?"

"How am I to know? There is much goes on here of which I know nothing."

Looking around her, Carol noticed that there was plenty of food. Geese, ducks, mutton, even milk and eggs—an abundance of everything.

"Some important things could come into your kitchen," Carol said. "Monsieur used to be very proud of the secrets of this old place. Has he shown Janner the passage to the waterfront that leads down from that well?"

"But no!" she said. "I think not. In fact, I feel quite sure he has not."

This was good hearing. Ordinarily the first thing Jacques did with visitors was to show them the secret chamber in the roof, the blind staircase behind paneling, and this hidden way to the sea. He would boast of how he had restored them to their original condition and ramble on and on, delving into his fund of knowledge concerning other similar places in the district. If it was true that he had not shown any of these things to Janner it must be because they had not yet secured Jacques' full cooperation. It was pretty sickening to think that her mild likable brother-in-law had turned out to be such a poor creature, but it also meant that his collection of maps and photographs was probably still in its hiding place. In line with his incurable romanticism he had always kept them hidden.

Just how she was to find them was not yet clear, but her presence at Le Bastion would serve a twofold purpose—to get what she had come for and to give Lita as much of a head start as was possible. While the Germans thought Lita was still at Le Bastion they would not begin looking for her elsewhere. Meanwhile there was Bright waiting out in the garden. A plan in which he could help her was beginning to form in her head. She told Victorine about Bright and where he was hiding.

"We've got to get him into the house and up into the secret room under the roof."

"Look, Victorine!" she said briskly, "I'm going to fetch him right now. You go on fixing dinner as if nothing was happening and when we walk thru the kitchen, if there is any one else in here, you speak to Bright as if you knew him. I'll show him where to go."

A Lasting Peace.

No nation can know final victory
As long as enmity directs its aim,
Malice will blind the eyes that strive to see
And turn a country's triumph into shame;
Only that justice which is from above
Can bring a lasting peace to any state,
For harmony is born of Christian love
And dies when nurtured on the virus, hate.

Two thousand years ago there rose a cross
On which the Nazerene was crucified,
And tho the world believed His life a loss
The very principles for which He died
Are now the fountainheads of all true life,
For only love can ever outlaw strife.

Paul Sizemore, Furman university end, and Roy McKay, University of Texas full back, both of whom were members of the 1943 All-Star squad, headed a group of five players who arrived at the All-Star camp at Northwestern university last night. They were the advance guard of the squad which will play the Chicago Bears Aug. 30 in Dyche stadium in the 11th game of the series sponsored by The Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc. The other three, all of whom are from the University of Missouri, are Jack Morton, end; Jim Kekeris, tackle, and Bill Dellastatious, half back.

Meredith Cushing, center and captain of the 1943 Cornell university team, will arrive at the All-Star camp today. Undoubtedly other collegians also will make an appearance altho tomorrow is the official date for practice to start. More than half of the squad will be in uniform for the first drill tomorrow afternoon.

They're Giving Own Time.

Thirty-two members of the college squad are service men. They have received regular furloughs on personal application and are devoting their own time to participating in the charity football contest. Some of these service men, because of the length of time granted, cannot report to Head Coach Lynn Waldorf and his assistants until next week.

Jeff Cravath, Southern California football coach; Henry Frnka of Tulsa, and A. N. [Bo] McMillan of Indiana university, who was head coach of the All-Stars in 1938, will meet with Waldorf tomorrow to plan the practice programs. Waldorf has announced that one drill will be held tomorrow and the two a day schedule will start Sunday. The All-Star staff also will include Wes Fry, Northwestern university back field coach.

"Our first task," Waldorf said yesterday, "is to convince the college players that the Bears still are one of the greatest teams in professional football. There may be a tendency to minimize the strength of the professionals because they have lost a few men to the services. One glance at the Bears' roster should be enough to disprove this, for they have veterans at practically each position."

Miller Unable to Play.

Don Honig, center for the last two seasons on the Wentworth Military academy team, was added to the All-Star squad yesterday. Honig, who lives in Omaha, Neb., had accepted an invitation to play earlier but did not know the exact time he would be inducted into the army. Yesterday he wired that the date would be Sept. 4 and that he would report tomorrow.

The All-Star squad now numbers 71 since two of the original group will be unable to participate. Creighton Miller, Notre Dame half back, who received a medical discharge from the army last year because of high blood pressure, wrote that his family physician would not give permission for him to play because of this condition.

Lt. Albert Sabo, former University of Alabama quarter back who was stationed at Fort Benning, Ga., when he accepted an invitation to the All-Star squad, also will not be available. Lt. Sabo now is en route overseas.

SOARING MERCURY DOESN'T DISCOURAGE BEARS

McENULTY FILLS IMPORTANT ROLE IN BEARS' PLANS

Bulldog Reports

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

COLLEGEVILLE, Ind., Aug. 10.—Clyde [Bulldog] Turner, Chicago Bears' veteran center and outstanding man at the position in the National Football league, arrived in camp today. He said he may be called for military service soon, but will be available for the game against the College All-Stars Aug. 30.

BY EDWARD PRELL.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Collegeville, Ind., Aug. 10.—Doug McEnulty, the huge full back and prodigious punter from the Kansas plains, today was told that he has a new position. The Chicago Bears, training under a terrifically hot sun for their game Aug. 30 with the College All-Stars in Evanston, shifted large Doug to right half back. This development took slight precedence over the combined coaching staff prophecy that Gary Famiglietti, full back, and Ray McLean, right half back, will shake off their 1943 slumps and play up to 1942 form.

Await Word from Luckman.

The quarter back? That's still up in the air. The pro champions are waiting for a telephone call from New York, with Ensign Sid Luckman of the maritime service on that end of the line. None of the four quarter back candidates has yet pulled out in front in consideration for the job in the event Luckman doesn't play.

Most of the Bears' punting against the All-Stars will be handled by McEnulty, who is the most powerful kicker in pro football. Paddy Driscoll, the back field coach, who has seen some great kickers in his time, including Jim Thorpe, says that the big Indian didn't hit 'em as hard as does McEnulty.

"Thorpe's good punts went 60 yards," declared Paddy, "but McEnulty gets this disance when he doesn't connect squarely. He's kicking the ball 20 to 25 yards farther than any one in camp."

Gary Is Down to Mere 250.

McEnulty's legs are tremendously powerful and he has excellent coordination. Two years ago big Doug was playing with a Wichita eleven which met the Chicago Cardinals in the Kansas metropolis. Standing back of his goal line, McEnulty sent a towering spiral that bounced into the Cardinals' end zone. He was only the second string full back and the Cards passed him up for the No. 1 man, who never reported.

As for Famiglietti, he has his mind on football this year. He reported here weighing 250 pounds, as compared to the 263 he carried when training started last year. This time, Gary has some rivals he can't laugh off, and being a proud Latin, he's not going to surrender the job without a struggle. Further proof of his determination is that he is staying in his room while breakfast and lunch are being served.

McLean, whose speed earned him the name of Scooter, appeared to have lost some of it last season and was erratic on catching passes. He still was suffering from the effects of injuries received when he was hit by a street car.

Miss Sessions Eliminated in Women's Golf

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

Recipe for a championship golf semi-final dish: The defending champion vs. the winner of a 21 hole quarter final match, and a battle between two bright youngsters who have met three times before.

That was the formula followed yesterday as Dorothy Germain of Philadelphia, Pa., Mrs. H. M. Sims of Evanston, Phyllis Otto of Omaha, Neb., and Georgia Tainter of Fargo, N. D., won their way into today's final foursome of the 44th annual Women's Western Amateur Golf tournament at the Onwentsia club. The Misses Otto and Tainter will start out at 1:30 p. m. and will be followed a half hour later by Champion Germain and Mrs. Sims.

Miss Germain Easy Winner.

The poised Miss Germain, who won the title last summer at Evanston, moved along easily by defeating Betty Jean Rucker of Spokane, Wash., 6 and 5, with a closing burst that earned her the last four holes. Miss Otto was only one over par for the 14 holes she worked to eliminate Mary Jane Garman of Hammond, Ind., 5 and 4, while Miss Tainter also was one over in the course of a 3 and 2 conquest of the tournament medalist, Sally Sessions of Muskegon, Mich. Today's Tainter-Otto meeting will be the fourth between the two young collegians, with Phyllis holding a 2 to 1 edge in their tournament rivalry.

All of these three had comfortable going, as can be seen by their margins, but it was Mrs. Sims who was the day's heroine. The slim, black haired mother of a 16 months' old daughter, was three down to Peggy Kirk of Findlay, O., 1943 semi-finalist, after 11 holes, and again after the 13th.

Squares Match at 18th.

She took the next two with pars, and then dropped a difficult ten-footer at the 18th to square the match. Miss Kirk, a Rollins college graduate, drove a trap at the 19th, but wangled a half in sixes when

TAKE WING WINS IN $12,250 RACE AT WASHINGTON

BY MAURICE SHEVLIN.

Take Wing, veteran of many a stirring finish in his four years of stardom in distance events, put on another one of his famous stretch drives to score a nose victory in the $12,250 Meadowland handicap at Washington Park yesterday.

The 6 year old son of Chicle — Eagle Flight—owned by Mrs. Clyde Troutt of Benton, Ill., and ridden by Freddy Smith, got up in the last stride to take first money of $8,500 from J. J. L. Powers' Welcome Pass, which beat his stable mate, Olympus, by a length and a half.

Valdina Foe Takes Fifth.

John Marsch's Valdina Foe, the ruling favorite at 7-5 odds, was fifth. Take Wing ran the mile and a quarter on the turf course in 2:04, two-fifths of a second slower than the track record established by Beautiful II. in the event last year.

Take Wing rewarded his backers with $8.40 to win, $4 to place, and $3.20 to show. The Powers entry returned $5.40 and $6.80.

Take Wing broke out of the gate in front, but soon relinquished his lead to Martian and then was held in reserve in fourth place as Olympus went to the front at the half with Valdina Foe in the second spot until they hit the stretch.

Take Wing Moves Up.

As the field of seven straightened out for home Olympus was in front by four lengths, Valdina Foe was second, just a head in front of Welcome Pass, with Take Wing fourth.

Take Wing, under the urging of Smith, then made his move and during the last sixteenth all three, Welcome Pass, Take Wing and Olympus, were nose and nose until Take Wing stuck his head out in front in the last stride.

Jockey Sylvester Haunes accounted for the second highest daily double of the Chicago season when he won on Lang's Boy in the opener and with Hollyman in the second race. The combination was worth $971, Lang's Boy paying $143.80 to win and Hollyman $11.80.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

The Cubs learned to their sorrow again yesterday that their erstwhile cousins, the Dodgers, have definite plans for paying off on past abuse. The lads from the eastern end of the Brooklyn bridge made it two in a row in Wrigley field but the Cubs, in their effort to resume a march toward the first division instead of backing away from it, were tough enough to force the debate into 10 innings before surrendering their fifth decision of the year in 17 meetings with Leo Durocher's entry. The score was 6 to 4.

For a brief spell, all too brief, the Cubs figured they had solved the unexpected revival of their guests. In an explosive second, Bill Nicholson touched Hal Gregg for Homer No. 25 and Andy Pafko for his fifth, the latter with a mate waiting. But the Dodgers shaved this down into a tie in the seventh, helped by errors and a mishap that forced Paul Derringer to hustle to the aid of a jarred Claude Passeau. Then the eighth produced a Dodger lead, as well as a tying job by the Cubs, but thereafter the latter were impotent.

Warren's Hit Does It.

The Dodgers managed to crowd into the lead for a moment in the eighth because Lou Olmo notched his seventh homer, but Derringer promptly became airtight until he met up with Paul Waner at the start of the tenth. The veteran had erred the Cubs into their tying run off Rube Melton in the eighth, so, by way of making amends, he singled. So did Olmo and both moved along on Howie Schultz's bunt. Mickey Owen was passed and then there was marked improvement. Derringer slipped three strikes past Pinch-batter Dixie Walker, but Tom Warren, a pitcher, batted for Melton, and slammed a single that drove in the decisive runs.

Goody Rosen opened the matinee with a single and was forced by Barney Koch, after which Augie Galan singled and Waner walked, filling the bases. Koch scored while Olmo was forcing Waner and Dewey Williams put the quietus on the enemy by picking Galan off third base.

Nick and Andy Connect.

The second inning flurry that put the Cubs in the lead and kept them there until the seventh began with Nicholson bouncing his homer on the Sheffield av. asphalt. This was so disturbing to Gregg that he walked Dom Dallessandro and, by way of making certain the gift wouldn't go to waste, Pafko sailed his homer into the right field bleachers.

Galan singled to open the fourth inning and eventually appeared at the plate with the Dodgers' second run. He went to second on Waner's tap and was forced to pull up at third when Roy Hughes intercepted Olmo's single in deep short. Schultz,

Boston Again Defeats Sox; This Time, 2-1

BY EDWARD BURNS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Boston, Mass., Aug. 10.—The Chicago White Sox were beaten, 2 to 1, in a ball game with the second place Boston Red Sox today and sagged to a point 13½ games back of the St. Louis Browns. It was no shock to Cousin Jim Dykes, who is about resigned to finish some place lower than the Browns or even the Red Sox who are in second place, thanks to the fact they have had the Sox to push around this season. The loss was the ninth for the White Sox here this year in nine endeavors. It was the 14th whipping Joe Cronin's lads have accorded Cousin Jim's fellows in 16 1944 engagements.

The White Sox looked better today than in most of their struggles with the Red Sox. Among their distinctions was their second triple play executed this season in Fenway park.

Hodgin, Carnett Stop Rally.

With the score 1 to 0 in favor of Boston in the fourth inning, Pete Fox, Bob Johnson, and Bobby Doerr singled to load the bases. Jim Tabor then sent a whizzer over third which seemed to bear a double label until Ralph Hodgin flew into space and speared the shot. He then ran to third and doubled Fox off that base and threw to Ed Carnett to nip Doerr before he could return to first base. On May 20, the White Sox executed a triple play here in the first inning, then went on to lose, 8 to 1.

Joe Haynes, who was the only American league winner who had not lost a game, went all the way to be tagged with his first setback. He got the call when Orval Grove reported he had a cold. Joe held the Red Sox to eight hits and both the Boston runs were scored after two were out. In the first inning George Metkovich singled and got home on a double by Johnson. In the fifth Skeeter Newsome singled with one out, stole second with two

BROWNS DEFEAT YANKS, 3-0, FOR TENTH STRAIGHT

New York Drops to 4th as Tigers Win.

New York, Aug. 10 (AP).—Denny Galehouse scattered the New York Yankees' six hits so effectively today that the St. Louis Browns won their 10th straight game, 3 to 0. It was Galehouse's fifth victory in a row after losing his first three 1944 starts.

Detroit's 3 to 2 victory tonight over the Washington Senators, coupled with New York's defeat, pushed the Yankees into fourth place, four percentage points behind the Tigers.

Tucker Triples for Run.

The White Sox ruh also was scored after two were out—in the sixth inning. Carnett singled and then Thurman Tucker, who had sagged under the .300 mark with strikeouts his first two tries against Emmett O'Neill, socked a triple to score Carnett. Vince Castino let Thurman die on third with the tying run when he filed to Fox.

The Sox made 7 hits, to lift their grand total for the two games of the series to 11. Skeeter Webb, with a double and a single, was the only one to make more than one hit.

The White Sox have two more chances to win a 1944 game in Boston. Tomorrow Johnny Humphries will be pitted against Yank Terry.

Mrs. Sims, former Minnesota champion, who now resides in Evanston, took three from the edge. Peggy drove a ditch at the 20th, but sank a 45-footer that forced Mrs. Sims to drop one from seven feet. The 21st saw Mrs. Sims on nicely with her third, seven feet from the pin. Miss Kirk sent her third to the left of the carpet and then missed a putt of less than four feet after getting on, giving Mrs. Sims a 1 up victory.

The Germain-Rucker match was, for nine holes, one of the strangest of the week, only one hole being halved, and that at the ninth with bogey fours. The title holder permitted her Stanford university rival to win the first hole, then took the next three. She reached the turn two up with medal card of 40, two over par. A bogey on the tenth and three pars were sufficient to send Dorothy into her fourth western semi-final in as many appearances.

Miss Otto Behind Once.

Miss Otto, runner-up for the Western Open in 1942 at Elmhurst, was down only once against Miss Garman. She trapped her drive at the short fifth to lose that, but won the seventh with a par and the eighth with a birdie. She then fired five consecutive pars to close the match on the 14th green.

Miss Tainter, 21, Rollins college junior who was a semi-finalist in this same tourney in 1941, when she lost on the 19th hole, has been playing some of the best golf of her career at Onwentsia. She allowed the determined Miss Sessions to hold a one-up lead on the ninth tee, and then took the next three holes. She went three up with a birdie at the 445 yard 13th, where she whipped a No. 2 iron a foot from the flag. They halved the last three holes. First flight quarter-finals results:

Mrs. Albert Becker, Olympia fields, beat Mrs. John E. Clauder, Milwaukee, 2 and 1.

Pairings for today's semi-finals:
Miss Whitmore vs. Miss Brown; Mrs. Becker vs. Miss Findlay.

FREE MARKETS HELD LOGICAL PRICE CONTROL

Peace Time Trends Studied by Banker.

Ask End of Controls

Absecon, N. J., Aug. 10 (AP).—The "hampering restrictions of government controls, altho necessary during the war," should be withdrawn at the first possible moment, the National Retail Dry Goods association recommended today. The burden of proof for the need of retaining them, beyond the duration of actual war, must then rest upon those who wish to keep these controls alive," the association post-war planning committee said. Favorable action by the government along those lines "would aid immeasurably in obtaining a speedy and orderly reconversion to a peace time basis," it said.

BY PHILIP HAMPSON.

The question of what will be done about prices after the war is holding the attention of many Chicago business men, a widely known Chicago banker said yesterday. One of the first subjects brought up by business men discussing the post-war outlook is the prices to be placed on the things most everyone will want when production controls are lifted, he said.

"I tell them that as we see it there are two alternatives," the banker said.

"1. We can let prices seek their own level by removing all controls and thus they will automatically control both production and consumption.

"2. We can continue, and possibly extend, governmental controls."

Would Return Free Enterprise.

The banker explained that the first method will permit resumption of the American system of free enterprise, but the second will inevitably tend toward managed economy, with burocrats winning more power.

"Strangely, many business men favor a continuation of price controls after the war," he said. "It seems odd to hear these men who have been shouting that they want free enterprise come out for price controls. You can not operate as a free enterprise system and have price controls."

The banker explained that many of these business men believe runaway price advances may develop after the war. A great many persons will have accumulated savings, either in bank accounts or in bonds, with which to purchase new automobiles, radios, irons and the dozens of other items they have had to postpone buying during the war. With production limited, business men believe the competition of these savings to buy the few goods as they become available may start prices soaring.

Jobless Period Held Possible.

More likely to happen after the war, he said, is that during the brief period while factories are shifting to peace production many persons will be out of work. This group will not be in a hurry to spend accumulated savings.

Further, the price trend itself, if regulations are lifted, will tend to keep the situation in balance, the banker continued. Rising prices automatically work in favor of increased production because manufacturers wish to produce while they can make a profit. The higher prices rise the more the ability of consumers to buy is reduced. As prices fall, the ability to buy is increased and the incentive to manufacture is reduced. The free play of prices in the long run can control production and consumption unless such a major catastrophe as run-away inflation intervenes.

Prices Concern Motor Makers.

Leading automobile manufacturers are among the enterprises concerned about the price structure after the war and it has been conceded that automobile prices probably will increase 20 to 25 per cent to offset increases in labor and other costs.

"I doubt if the public—particularly in lower priced cars—can or will take such price advances," a spokesman for one of the largest car makers said. "Mass production on the largest scale is essential to us. If we must cut our production, we would have to increase prices which would automatically cost us our market."

Utility Issues' Peace Outlook Boosts Stocks

New York, Aug. 10 (AP).—Utilities, chiefly those in the low price class, attracted the most speculative attention in the stock market again today but pivotal rails and industrials, aided by the utilities, pushed up at the last to close with gains running to a point or more.

Trends became firm after a mixed start altho the recently active junior motors again had to contend with liquidation on the belief they had been overbought and the majority finished in the losing ranks. Dealings picked up at intervals with favorites appearing in blocks of 1,000 to 10,000 shares.

The rapid drive of the allies in Europe, portending early victory, drew attention to the power and light group on the belief they will benefit from peace when excess profits taxes may be cut along with operating costs.

RAILS LIFT BOND PRICES.

New York, Aug. 10 (AP).—A cautious and selective rise in rails pushed the bond market ahead today. The carriers led other groups both in turnover and amount gained, representing close to two-thirds of the 19 issues that advanced more than a point. Utilities were next best, exhibiting strength paralleling the rise in power and light stocks.

Twenty-seven Panama Canal 3 per cent bonds of 1961 sold at 134. This was the first time this United States government security had appeared on the New York Stock exchange in more than 20 years.

CHICAGO SHARES GAIN.

Prices advanced on the Chicago Stock exchange yesterday in a turnover of 26,000 shares. Volume leaders included Chicago corporation, up ⅛, Commonwealth Edison, unchanged, Middle West corporation, up ⅛, and Hupp Motor Car, down ⅜. For the second successive day Midland United A preferred and Illinois Brick reached new 1944 highs, Midland at 24, up ⅞, and Illinois Brick at 8¼, up ⅛.

WORK ON NEGRO HOMES PROJECT TO BE STARTED

Simultaneously with the announcement yesterday by the Chicago housing authority that work would start at once on 250 homes for Negroes in the Indiana av-91st st. area, a telegram was sent to the head of the national housing agency in Washington urging 2,500 more homes for colored families in Chicago. It was signed by R. C. Weaver, executive secretary of Mayor Kelly's committee on race relations, Ferd Kramer, chairman of Metropolitan Housing council, and Robert R. Taylor, chairman of CHA.

Miss Elizabeth Wood, CHA executive secretary, said the Indiana av. homes would be built, managed and operated by CHA and sold after the war. They will be erected by the Welsco Construction company at a cost of about $1,870,000, it was announced.

Plans by Loebl & Schlossman, architectural firm, call for duplex and single family two story brick dwellings. The project will be laid out so as to discourage thru traffic.

INDIVIDUAL INCOMES TOP 75 BILLIONS IN FIRST HALF OF 1944

Washington, D. C., Aug. 10 (AP).—Income payments to individuals reached 75 billion 700 million dollars in the first six months of 1944, compared with 67 billion 892 million in 1943 and 34 billion 167 million in 1939, the commerce department announced today. Such payments to individuals in June totaled 13 billion 496 million, a new record.

BUDD DENIES BIDDLE CHARGE THAT 'CZAR' RUNS WESTERN RAILS

Ralph Budd, president of the Burlington railroad and the man selected by President Roosevelt to organize the American railroads in the defense period before Pearl Harbor, yesterday denied the charge of Atty. Gen. Biddle that the western railroads have a "czar-like boss" who tells them what they can and can't do. Biddle, who said he would sue the western roads shortly on trust charges, described the railroad boss as a "commissioner" with duties akin to those of Will Hays in the movie industry.

"If there was such a tough individual and he was responsible for the notable war job performed by the western railroads, the country should hunt him up and present him with the biggest bouquet of flowers obtainable instead of seeking to prosecute him," said Budd.

"But of course there is no such person, except in Biddle's mind. The western railroads have an organization to discuss mutual problems. It is the Western Association of Railway Executives. C. E. Johnston is chairman. But Mr. Johnston has no say over the railroads and merely presides, when he is in Chicago, at meetings to discuss traffic and other problems."

OATS, RYE DIP ON LATE SALES; WHEAT IS FIRM

Dry weather reports caused aggressive buying of oats and rye futures in the early trading yesterday on the Chicago Board of Trade, but with a government forecast on leading grain crops expected later, professional traders turned to selling on the advance and a reaction followed. Closing sales on oats were down ⅛ to ½ cent a bushel, and rye ¼ to ¾ cent. Wheat ended ⅛ cent lower to ⅜ cent higher and barley was unchanged to ¼ cent higher.

BANKS TO START CASHING BONDS, MAYBE BY OCT. 1

Washington, D. C., Aug. 10 (AP).—The treasury tentatively has set Oct. 1 for commercial banks to begin paying immediate cash for war savings bonds presented for redemption.

Undersecretary Daniel W. Bell said today the department is completing details with a committee of bankers and expects to have the program in the hands of all participating banks by Sept. 1.

Employes of Pullman company in the last three years have collected $180,000 for 14,089 approved suggestions for improvement of service operations, Ezra S. Taylor, director of the company's suggestion system, said yesterday. A total of 96,545 ideas was submitted in the period, he said.

Three Nations to Study World Rubber Needs

Washington, D. C., Aug. 10 (AP).—The United States, the Netherlands, and Great Britain have agreed to study post-war world rubber production and requirements as a preliminary to agreeing on some sort of international rubber control program, it was disclosed tonight.

An official announcement said that a "program of studies has been prepared and arrangements for carrying out the studies are being made." The announcement was released simultaneously here and in London, where the agreement was reached.

Opens New Field.

This meeting of American, British, and Dutch representatives extends into one more field the program of joint economic action which the United States and the United Kingdom have been developing for many months in preparation for post-war economic problems.

A formal agreement has been signed to establish a common oil policy for the two governments and conversations are under way toward the evolution of a common aviation program.

What will come of the rubber conversations could not be predicted by officials here except for the assertion that some sort of world agreement obviously is the objective.

Huge U. S. Synthetic Plant.

The United States is in a different position with respect to rubber production from any that it has ever occupied. Its own synthetic rubber capacity now equals almost the entire world export of natural rubber in pre-war years.

This synthetic capacity is a threat to British and Dutch natural rubber production, which is expected to be restored to a substantial degree soon after the rubber producing lands of the East Indies and Malaya are freed of Japanese domination. In addition there is a small amount of high cost natural rubber which is produced in South America.

The problem of gearing this tremendous capacity to post-war needs so as not to have a permanently unbalanced rubber economy is the main problem of the British, American, and Dutch conferees.

JUDGE INDICATES APPROVAL OF 188 RANDOLPH PLAN

Federal Judge Holly indicated at a hearing yesterday that he would approve a proposed reorganization plan for the 188 Randolph Building corporation, owner of a 45 story building at that address. He will rule on the plan next Wednesday.

The court overruled objections of the securities and exchange commission, which urged that the bondholders' committee should not be given the right to accept the plan in behalf of holders of bonds deposited with it who do not dissent. The SEC had asked the court to require affirmative acceptances from individual bondholders.

The court ruled that the bondholders' protective agreement provides for the deposits with the committee, that the committee has the power of agreement and gives adequate protection to bondholders. Individual bondholders may file notice of dissent, Judge Holly said.

U. S. STEEL SETS SHIPMENT PEAK FOR 7 MONTHS

New York, Aug. 10 (AP).—Shipments of finished steel products by subsidiaries of the United States Steel corporation amounted to 12,387,379 net tons in the first seven months of this year, the highest on record for that period, the corporation announced today. Shipments in the first seven months of 1943 amounted to 11,700,778 net tons. Shipments in July were 1,754,525 tons, compared with 1,737,769 in June and 1,660,762 in July, 1943.

LOEW'S 40 WEEK PROFITS CLIMB TO $6.24 A SHARE

Loew's, Inc., theater chain, earned $10,514,646 in the 40 weeks ended June 8, David Bernstein, vice president and treasurer, reported yesterday. Net income was equal to $6.24 a common share, compared with $9,453,838, or $5.67 a share, in the 1943 period. Reserve for federal taxes this year was $9,335,371, against $12,887,698.

CROPS ARE BIG DESPITE JULY'S DROUTH LOSSES

Estimate on Corn Is Reduced.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 10 (AP).—Despite July drouth damage in a large east central area, the total crop production this year probably will exceed last year's output by 2 or 3 per cent, the department of agriculture reported today. It would exceed production in any previous year except the record 1942 season.

The indicated crop production, added to live stock products, would make this year's production of all agriculture commodities the largest on record.

The department's monthly report on crop developments bore out the previous forecast of the largest wheat crop ever produced and one of the larger corn crops.

Wheat Up; Corn Deteriorates.

The wheat crop was forecast at 1,132,105,000 bushels, or about 4,283,000 bushels more than was indicated a month ago. Production last year was 836,298,000 bushels, and the average for the last 10 years was only 760,199,000.

Corn prospects declined sharply during July in the eastern corn belt and in other areas pinched by drouth, but the department forecast production at 2,929,117,000 or about 51 million bushels less than was indicated a month ago. Production was 3,076,159,000 last year and the average for the last 10 years was 2,369,384,000.

Late planted oats were reduced somewhat by drouth in the eastern corn belt and by rust in Nebraska and Kansas, the department said, but these reductions were offset by favorable weather in some other areas. The crop is indicated at 1 billion 188 million bushels.

Most Food Crops Gain.

Estimates for direct food crops included near record production of rice, dry edible beans, dry peas, fruits, vegetables for processing, and truck crops for market, but only moderate crops of potatoes and sweet potatoes.

The department forecast a 9 per cent reduction in the output of soy beans, grown principally as a source of vegetable oil for food. The indicated production was placed at 178,558,000 bushels compared with 195,762,000 bushels last year.

WMC Tightens War Labor Control to Fill Battle Needs

Washington, D. C., Aug. 10 (AP).—The war man power commission tightened its program today to squeeze more men into the relatively few factories that can make the particular weapons for which generals on the battle fronts are calling.

To put into effect an Aug. 4 directive of War Mobilization Chief Byrnes, the commission instructed its field offices, "to the extent necessary," to send workers only to plants engaged in urgent production. Simultaneously a group of man power officials from Washington scattered thruout the country to impress on local WMC personnel the extreme urgency of the task.

Generals Wire Orders.

Man Power Chairman McNutt said Lt. Gen. Somervell, head of the army service forces, had presented to the WMC concrete evidence of battlefield shortages in the form of telegrams from field commanders.

Somervell said that "on the whole" the army is in fine shape with respect to supplies, but those that are short are critical and are affecting the fighting.

Steps to Be Taken.

Shortly afterward McNutt announced the new instructions to WMC personnel. The Byrnes directive was designed to wipe out military shortages by more effectively channeling workers into the critical programs such as heavy trucks, tires, ammunition, tanks, and radar. He ordered a wider use of the "employment ceiling" principle, limiting the number of workers in less essential plants. He also gave the WMC authority to prevent the reconversion of plants to civilian production.

McNutt said Gen. Somervell reported one general had to call off 100 air missions because he didn't have the right type of bombs.

Another telegram said 3,500 heavy trucks had to be abandoned because, "he can't keep them up any longer and they had to be replaced."

FAIR OFFERS TO BUY OR EXCHANGE STOCK IN NEW CAPITAL PLAN

The Fair, in accordance with a recapitalization plan recently approved by stockholders, yesterday made an offer to holders for the exchange and purchase of the company's 7 per cent preferred shares.

Hector Suyker, president, said the amendment to the company's articles of incorporation creating new 6 per cent preferred stock shares has become effective, and arrangements for a $1,400,000 mortgage loan have been made, placing the company in a position to make the offers, which will expire Sept. 15.

The mortgage loan, arranged with the Equitable Life Assurance Society of the United States, carries 4 per cent interest and is payable in instalments over a 15 year period.

1. Issuance of one of the company's new 6 per cent preferred shares, par value $100, together with payment of $31.50, in exchange for each of the 22,200 of its 7 per cent preferred shares, par value $100, outstanding after the purchase by the company of 12,600 7 per cent preferred shares under its purchase offer.

2. Purchase of the 12,600 shares at $110 a share without payment of dividend arrearages. If more than 12,600 shares are offered the shares so tendered will be retired ratably.

EXPORTS IN JUNE SECOND HIGHEST IN U. S. HISTORY

Washington, D. C., Aug. 10 (AP).—With lend-lease shipments accounting for approximately 80 per cent of the total, the United States exported merchandise valued at 1 billion 271 million dollars in June for the second highest monthly total in history, the census bureau reported today.

June exports were approximately 10 per cent below the record May figure of 1 billion 419 million, but 27 per cent above those for June, 1943.

Total value of exports for the first six months of 1944 was 7 billion 204 million. This total includes lend-lease shipments, but not shipments to United States forces overseas. June lend-lease exports were 1 billion 11 million, 13 per cent below those for May.

General imports in June totaled 330 million, a decline of 14 per cent from May, but 12 per cent above June, 1943.

Department Store Sales Up 4 Pct. from Year Ago

Department store sales in Chicago for the week ended Aug. 5 rose 4 per cent above those of a year ago, the Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago reported yesterday. Sales in the 7th [Chicago] federal reserve district rose 3 per cent.

SENATE GROUP GETS SURPLUS DISPOSAL PLAN

Sets Up Division Under OWM.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 10 (AP).—Three influential members of the senate small business committee teamed up today to offer their version of legislation dealing with government disposal of a possible 100 billion dollars worth of surplus war property.

Senators Murray [D., Mont.], Stewart [D., Tenn.], and Taft [R., O.] proposed a new bill confined to the surplus property phase of reconversion problems.

Stewart and Taft outlined the measure to their committee before a group of business men and high army and navy officers, prior to introducing it in the senate.

Provides Broad Power.

The bill would create a $12,000 a year post of surplus war property administrator under the office of war mobilization. The administrator would have complete discretion in disposing of property or holding it off the market if he believed sudden dumping of a given item would create hardship for business. Government agencies could appeal his decisions to the President.

Disposal of war plants valued at more than 1 million dollars would be subject to a ruling by the attorney general on whether anti-trust laws would be violated.

"This bill undoubtedly gives the administrator more power than any other bill but government agencies now have wide open powers to dispose of all surplus property," said Taft. "We are merely concentrating that power and trying to improve the general over-all policy."

Represents Combined View.

"On the whole, the bill is the most comprehensive we could present," said Stewart. "It represents the combined view of nearly all agencies involved, plus the experience gained after the last war."

The legislation would provide for the use of jeeps and army trucks on state and local roads and streets, and for donating surplus medical supplies to public health services and excess materials to state or local governments or nonprofit, tax supported institutions.

DIP IN RECEIPTS OF HOGS LOWERS OUTPUT OF PORK

Drouth Increases Cattle Run and Prices Fall.

The pork and hog supply situation grew tighter yesterday as farmers curtailed movement to all markets. Ceiling levels fixed by the office of price administration were paid for practically all stock offered. Packers thruout the country were forced to make further reductions in the operations of their butchering crews as a result of the small receipts.

Twenty of the largest markets including Chicago received only 67,000 hogs, a decrease of 20 per cent compared with a week earlier, and 21 per cent below the number handled the corresponding day last year. Pork and lard production is running about 40 per cent smaller than six months ago.

Most Sows Bring $14.

Farmers who brought in hogs weighing 160 to 240 pounds were paid the $14.75 a hundred pounds ceiling for weights under 241 pounds. All 241 to 550 pound butchers brought the $14 limit for stock over 240 pounds.

Most sows also sold at $14, altho some extreme weights ranged down to $13.75, and some common light sows were reported sold as low as $13. Some good 140 to 160 pound lights brought $14 to $14.50, and most pigs were sold downwards from $14. Stricter meat inspection is sending all boars into the tank at "grease prices" of $3 to $4, with only a few up to $5.

Cattle Prices Dip More.

Spreading drouth conditions sent more cattle to market, resulting in another severe price cut in almost all classes except the few prime steers available. Reductions of 25 to 50 cents were general in steers worth less than $17, and some were unsold at the close on 75 cents lower bids. Cows and heifers dipped 15 to 25 cents, and bulls fell 25 to 40 cents. Calves sold steady.

Chicago cattle receipts, at 5,500 head, were among the largest Thursday totals of the year. In addition, a large number from Wednesday's receipts remained unsold. Twenty markets received 287,000 head the first four days of this week, compared with 251,000 last week and 227,000 a year ago.

FRUEHAUF TRAILER.

I shall appreciate a report on Fruehauf Trailer company's earnings trend and outlook.—N. R.

Answer: Fruehauf, the country's largest manufacturer of truck trailers, has reported increased sales each year since 1935 except 1938, a year of general business recession. The trend of earnings before allowance for depreciation and income taxes has been mainly upward, but after these deductions the showing has been irregular.

Per share earnings for the common stock, however, reached a peak of $5.39 in 1943, compared with $3.53 in 1942, $4.61 in 1941, $3.36 in 1940, $4.58 in 1939, and 66 cents in 1938.

Before America entered the war, the demand for large commercial trailers for freight movement was expanding along with the growth of highway transportation. Since these vehicles are not equipped with engines, the motive power being supplied by tractors, their initial cost is smaller than that of large trucks. Trailer sales are expected to soar after the war in view of the deferred demand resulting from war time restrictions on output.

During the war, Fruehauf's production of special trailers for military use has been largely responsible for its expansion in sales, which totaled 60.6 million dollars in 1943, compared with 15.2 millions in 1939. The current volume includes a limited number of commercial units.

Outstanding are 397,252 common shares of $1 par and 60,000 shares of $4.50 cumulative convertible preferred, $100 par. Current assets at the close of 1943 totaled $27,661,502; current liabilities, $19,419,550. Two common dividends of 40 cents a share each have been paid this year, and 1943 payments totaled $1.65.

CHARGE WEIRTON STEEL VIOLATES U.S. COURT ORDER

Washington, D. C., Aug. 10 (AP).—The national labor relations board today petitioned the United States Circuit Court of Appeals in Philadelphia to hold the Weirton Steel company and the National Steel corporation, an affiliate, in contempt for alleged violation of a court decree of May 18, 1943, forbidding practices in violation of the national labor relations act.

The board said the asserted violations included interference with collective bargaining, violence, discriminatory discharges, and union domination. It charged that the companies are supporting and dominating a labor organization known as the Weirton Independent union which was described as a successor to two organizations adjudged in an earlier case to be employer controled instrumentalities for preventing Weirton employes from becoming affiliated with the CIO Steelworkers.

The court ordered the companies, various officers, and employes named as respondents to answer the petition by Sept. 9, and to appear in court Oct. 9.

WESTERN UNION TO BUILD 5 NEW CARRIER GRIDS

New York, Aug. 10 (AP).—Western Union Telegraph company announced today it would begin construction of five new carrier telegraph systems between western cities.

The five system project, approved by the federal communications commission, will cost $433,000 and will provide additional direct circuits between Chicago and St. Louis, Los Angeles and San Diego, Oakland and Los Angeles, Oakland and Portland, and Seattle and Portland. Completion of the first, between Chicago and St. Lous, is scheduled by the end of 1944.

The carrier system, which greatly increases the number of messages that may be sent simultaneously over a pair of wires, is one of several steps being taken by the company to meet the greater volume of telegraph traffic likely to result from a large concentration of war activities on the Pacific coast, Western Union said.

5 Inland Blast Furnaces Run Continuously 4 Years

Five blast furnaces at the Indiana Harbor plant of Inland Steel company have set a new record in continuous group operation, maintaining uninterrupted production for more than four years, the company announced yesterday. Each furnace, operating at capacity, produces about 1,000 tons of iron daily.

DRY GOODS.

NEW YORK, Aug. 10 [AP].—Apart from a few isolated sales of print cloths and sheetings, the cotton textile market remained stalemated today as it waited an OPA announcement of further revisions in textile ceilings. There were reports of a pending new directive, which would require manufacturers to set aside certain percentages of their machinery for government orders.

Maynard, senior economist stationed at Lima, Peru, who will be in the United States department of commerce Chicago office tomorrow and Monday.

WARNS SMALLER POTATOES MUST BE USED QUICKLY

An unusually large crop of small potatoes from midseason producing areas may go to waste unless consumption is increased, E. O. Pollock, regional director of the war food administration's office of distribution, said yesterday.

The small potatoes must be used immediately, Pollock said, as they cannot be stored and will deteriorate rapidly because of the heat. Their consumption will tend to increase consumers' supplies of larger sizes late in the year, help facilitate military procurement and reduce the total cost of the crop to consumers, he said.

Unfavorable weather in producing areas thruout the middle west and the eastern seaboard caused many potatoes to mature before reaching normal size. Their quality generally is good, Pollock said.

As against the 20,000 workers to be released in the next 30 days, OWI said there are 34,000 aircraft jobs waiting to be filled, by estimate of the war man power commission. OWI said jobs for aircraft workers are open in San Diego, Chicago, St. Louis, Tulsa, Okla., Cleveland, New Orleans, and Renton, Wash.

Continue Panel Production.

The Higgins Aircraft, Inc., cutback means that the New Orleans shipbuilder will not enter upon production of the 50 planes monthly which had been scheduled there. Higgins associates here said the first plane would have been ready by the end of this month. Production of C-46 wing panels will continue.

"Both the Curtiss and Higgins plants have experienced difficulties in getting C-46 production into high gear," said Arthur H. Bunker, chief of WPB's production executive committee staff, which reviews all military cutbacks before they are ordered.

"This is not intended as any reflection upon the plants themselves, but rather has been caused by the tight labor situation and general production picture. The reason for placing the immediate cutback upon Higgins is that this company is not yet in production and facilities in the Curtiss-Wright plants already operating will be sufficient to meet needs."

The Curtiss plants at St. Louis and Louisville, where Commandos are assembled, will seek a production schedule of 50 planes a month instead of a previously planned 108 monthly. The 50 plane pace has not yet been reached. At Buffalo Curtiss will work toward 150 planes a month, tapering off to 100 in mid-1945.

At Louisville, employment must be increased rather than reduced to match the new schedule altho the increase will not be as great as under the old schedule.

Capt. Gentile to Receive Second Hero Decoration

Dayton, O., Aug. 10 (AP).—Capt. Don S. Gentile of Piqua, O., a leading American ace of the European sector, will receive an oak leaf cluster to his distinguished service cross Sunday as a feature of the first "open house" at Wright and Patterson field in five years. The award, said an army announcement today, will be for extraordinary heroism on last May 8 when, with only the support of his wingman, Gentile dived into a formation of 50 Nazi fighters and destroyed three.

4 IN GARY BREAK FACE TRIAL FOR CRIMES OF PALS

Charges of being accessories after the fact in a series of Indiana burglaries and armed robberies will be filed against four 'teen aged youths who Wednesday planned an assault upon the Gary jail to free five friends charged with the actual robberies. Juvenile Referee Floyd Vance today will waive jurisdiction over all the youths and it is expected they will be held to the Lake county, Ind., Criminal court in bonds ranging from $5,000 to $10,000.

Possibility that the parents of the nine boys may face charges of contributing to the delinquency of minors arose when Lake county prosecutors stated that several of the gang already were on probation for previous offenses and others were under 17 and subject to the Gary 10 p. m. curfew. The parents will be called in for conference later.

The four who were trapped at the jail Wednesday with rifles, hatchets, hacksaws, and other weapons and tools, are: Robert Surman, 17, of 332 Fillmore st.; Thomas Tucker, 17, of 357 Polk st., Gary; Don Finley, 17, of 145 Wisconsin st., Hobart, Ind., and Charles Coleman, 16, of Wheeler, Ind.

JURY CHARGES SON SET FIRE TO MOTHER'S HOUSE

Louis Grenzenberg, 48, of 810 Wellington av., Elgin, who recently was released from Elgin state hospital, was bound over to Kane county grand jury yesterday on an arson charge after he confessed to State's Atty. Charles G. Seidel that he had set fire to the home of his mother, Mrs. Emma Zuhlke, with whom he lived. Grenzenberg told Seidel that he thought he had been tricked at the state hospital into signing a paper which gave away his household furnishings. Mrs. Zuhlke narrowly escaped serious injury in efforts to extinguish the fire.
